POEMS YOU OUGHT TO KNOW.*

*[Title Copyright: 1902: by Tribune Company.]

Whatever your occupation may be, and however crowded your hours with affairs, do not fail to secure at least a few minutes every day for refreshment of your inner life with a bit of poetry.—Professor Charles Eliot Norton.

THE LOVER'S RESOLUTION.

GEORGE WITHER.

George Wither was born at Brentworth, 1588. He went to Magdalene College, Oxford. He led a troop of Royalist horse against the Covenanters, but three years later he became a Puritan and held command in Cromwell's army. He was imprisoned during the Restoration for a time. He died in 1667. Wither wrote, besides his poems, a volume of church hymns, several satires, and a translation of the Psalms.

Shall I, wasting in despair,
Die because a woman's fair?
Or make pale my cheek with care
'Cause another's rosy are?
Be she fairer than the day,
Or the flow'ry meads in May,
If she think not well of me,
What care I how fair she be?

Shall a woman's virtues move
Me to perish for her love?
Or her well-deserving known
Make me quite forget my own?
Be she with that goodness blest
Which may merit name of Best,
If she be not such to me,
What care I how good she be?

Great, or good, or kind, or fair,
I will ne'er the more despair;
If she love me, this believe,
I will die ere she shall grieve;
If she slight me when I woo,
I can scorn and let her go,
For if she be not for me,
What care I for whom she be?

PLACING BLAME FOR FATAL FIRE.

Coroner Has Head of St. Luke Society and Employes Held on Various Charges.

MILLER LACKS $5,000 BOND

Hospital Ordinance Is to Be Amended, Health Officers Laying to It Some of the Responsibility.

As the first result of the police investigation of the burning of the St. Luke society's sanitarium, in which ten persons lost their lives on Monday, O. E. Miller, President of the society, has been held on the charge of manslaughter and is booked at the Twenty-second Street Police Station. With the head of the institution are ten of its officials and employés, charged as accessories before the fact, or otherwise retained under bond. They are as follows:

William Lanahan, disorderly conduct; $200 bond.

Alvin Staton, colored, elevator boy, disorderly conduct; $200 bond.

Demand for Thorough Inquiry.

As facts were developed in connection with the old Hotel Woodruff fire horror the demand for a fixing of the responsibility grew. Operating without a license in a building which had been declared unfit for a hospital, it was declared that the authorities must determine who was to blame and why such a condition of affairs had been permitted to continue before the eyes of the city authorities. The Coroner ordered Lieutenant Cronin to hold his prisoners under the most severe charges applicable to them.

Record of President Miller.

In the general investigation of everybody and everything connected with the hospital a strong light was shed upon the record of President Miller. It was found that he had been connected with many schemes in Chicago and in Denver, his former home. There he was indicted and convicted, but later was set free. Coming to Chicago he established a "sand cure," which was later operated in connection with his liquor and drug cure establishment. The record of this latter institution was found to be one continuous clash with the city health officials. In spite of this the hospital continued till the disastrous fire put a stop to its operations, temporarily at least.

Cases Taken There by Police.

In the developments one curious fact, not unknown before, but never emphasized, became prominent. This hospital, which the health authorities had been fighting, was a semi-municipal institution. Among the dead and injured were men who had been picked up by the police and taken to the sanitarium. This recognition which the Police department has given the institution adds several complications to the investigation.

In justification of the police it is urged that the city has no place where an intoxicated man can be kept. The County Hospital refuses to receive such individuals, and the police cells have been the death of some of the tremens cases. Miller had signs in the police stations asking that such cases be taken to him, and the police were in the habit of making this disposition of them.

Ordinance to Be Revised.

Whatever may be done to Miller and his associates, the burning of the hospital will have one permanent result. It will cause an immediate revision of the hospital ordinances of the city. Miller applied for a hospital license some time ago and it was refused, but the Health department did not interfere with his conducting the hospital on the ground that if it did it would have to interfere with others. The decision was to wait for a revision of the ordinances.

One remark made by Miller himself as he was awaiting disposition of his case is sufficient to show that the hotel building was unfit for hospital use.

"For thirty years," he said, "the elevator shaft had been greased. The fire was carried up it like a flash."

Of the victims of the fire, A. W. Wattles, Alderman Kent's nurse, is at the Mercy Hospital in such a condition that his death is expected at any hour. There is a possibility of another death being added to the list. The police are searching for Carl A. Carlson, but have not been able to find him and do not know whether he is alive or dead.

Fail to Find Cause of Fire.

After a search through the building the firemen and police were unable to find any cause for the fire. They could see enough to convince them that the theory that it originated from an explosion of gasoline was not well founded. The gasoline stove was intact and the gasoline was still in it.

A lighted cigar, it is said by Miller, may have been dropped from the sidewalk through an opening into the basement and have ignited some waste near the boilers, where the fire was first discovered.

Stories that the Fire department was not called quickly enough and that it did not respond rapidly enough to the alarm were circulated. It was asserted that men about the building admitted they could have turned in the alarm earlier if they had not thought for the moment that they could extinguish the blaze themselves.

Miller's Efforts for Freedom.

Miller's experiences with the police during the day were not pleasant. He had been held at the station over night and was present when Deputy Coroner Senff began the inquest in the morning. This was postponed until June 18 after the jury had been selected and the jurymen had visited the places where the bodies of the dead were lying.

Then began Miller's efforts for release. He is a member of Moody's Church and during the day a number of clergymen whom he ranks among his supporters called at the DRESSMAKERS' ASSOCIATION PROPOSES A BLACKLIST.

Convention at Sherman House to Start Commercial Bureau—Women Who Fail to Pay Their Bills for Gowns Will Have Their Names Recorded with Significant Mark Attached—Registration Office to Guard Interests of Employers.

Dressmakers' bills, always fearful objects to behold, are to become still more terrible, especially to the woman who doesn't pay them. Last night the National Dressmakers' association voted to establish its headquarters in Chicago and then decided to start a commercial bureau. The general manager—which the meeting forgot to appoint—was instructed to get up a code which would make the beef trust's cipher system seem simple. As Chairman Goldzier put it:

"We can have a mark opposite a customer's name which will say that she is all right, or another which will tell us that she finds fault, or a third which will show she pays when she gets ready, not when we want our money, or one by which we will know that she never pays. I've got a lot of women on my books that would get that last mark."

There was a hum of approval which indicated that the chairman was not the only woman's tailor who had such accounts.

Rich Customers, but Poor Pay.

"Why, some of the worst paying people I have are the richest," said one woman. "If I should refuse to make more gowns, or if they found out I had sent in a report that they didn't pay well, they would go to some other dressmaker. Then I would lose not only what is due me but their trade."

"No, you wouldn't," answered Mme. Rapp. "We'll stick together on this. If we find a woman owes another dressmaker—and our commercial agency will tell us that—all of us will refuse to make gowns for her."

Then somebody started to tell a sad story about an account six years old, but he was informed that the question was on the establishment of a commercial agency, so he sat down. He got a chance after the meeting to tell some of the members how long the bill had been running, and three or four women agreed with him that Chicago's society women didn't pay as promptly as they might. One dressmaker mentioned several names.

"They're not society women; they're only trying to be," Mr. Goldzier broke in. "Why, I know one of them is spending $1,000 a year more for gowns than her husband earns. They're lots of them like that—those are the people we want to protect ourselves against."

Adjourns Without Action.

Mrs. E. E. Goodwin, who read a paper setting forth the benefits of membership in the association, moved that the meeting appoint a general manager for the national headquarters. Then Mr. Goldzier started to discuss this subject, and branched off to the question of local organizations. He made a motion that the work of the association be confined to Chicago, and in the midst of the discussion as to which motion should be put first somebody moved that the meeting adjourn, which it did without any vote being taken. The Executive committee, which has full power, will open headquarters at once, however, and put somebody in charge.

To Start Registration Bureau.

After the commercial bureau is in working order a registration bureau is to be started. This will prevent a girl doing as one of Mme. Rapp's employés did. She was at work on a gown which had to be finished at a certain time. It was during the busy season, and seamstresses were hard to get. This girl complained of toothache and left the shop to go to a drug store. Instead she went to another dressmaker and offered to work for her for $2 more a week. She was hired and promised to be at work the following day. Instead she went back to Mme. Rapp and demanded $3 more a week. She got it because the gown had to be completed. The registration system, dressmakers said, would prevent this, as every experienced girl would have to have a card from her former employer before another dressmaker would employ her.

MEET WRONG BRIDAL PARTY WITH OLD SHOES AND RICE.

Hostilities Barely Averted When Evanstonians Bombard a Kenosha Couple "Spotted" by a Conductor.

A storm of old shoes and rice descended on Mr. and Mrs. John Kifling of Kenosha last night as the south-bound Northwestern train arrived in Evanston shortly after 9 o'clock.

Kifling jumped to his feet and turned to face the attacking party, when he was greeted with a chorus of apologies.

"We didn't mean it," a dozen voices explained at once. "We thought we were welcoming a bridal party."

"And you bet your life you are," shouted Kifling. "We were married in Kenosha not two hours ago."

Hostilities were averted when the Evanstonians explained in detail. They had expected another bridal party and had asked the conductor if such passengers were aboard his train.

"Yes," he said, "I spotted them at once."

"Then go back in the train and hold your lantern over where they are sitting," said the welcoming party.

The conductor followed instructions, and that is why Mr. and Mrs. Kifling received a greeting that was not their own.

CANNOT EVEN GO TO PRISON.

J. W. Riley, Late of England, Is Confronting a Singular Problem in Chicago.

WANTED—A POSITION BY AN ENGLISHMAN who admits he absconded with $5,000. No manual labor desired.

A week ago J. W. Riley appeared at the Central Police Station and asked for the "bobby" in charge. He declared that he had stolen $5,000 from an English bank, and said that his conscience would not permit him to avoid his punishment any longer. He was detained until Lieutenant McWeeney cabled to England asking whether the man should be held. The answer was "No."

Since that time Riley has endeavored to obtain clerical work. His unsuccessful efforts have almost discouraged him. He spends his time in the day in looking for work, and at night he is allowed to sleep at the Central Station.

PANAMA HATS PROVE FATAL.

Baltimore, Md., June 10.—[Special.]—George Clarence Davis, aged 19 years, died yesterday of arsenical poisoning, contracted while shaping Panama hats in a local factory. When imported to Baltimore the hats are packed in sulphur, which contains more or less arsenic.

RECIPROCITY IN SIGHT FOR CUBA.

BILL NOW TO BE PUSHED.

Will Provide for Reciprocal Duties and a Reduction of 20 Per Cent in the Tariff.

Washington, D. C., June 10.—[Special.]—Those Republican Senators who have advocated the passage of a bill granting tariff concessions to Cuba in accordance with the policy of President McKinley and the written recommendation of President Roosevelt, have won their fight.

The small number of their party colleagues who have opposed any reduction in the Cuban tariff because of the fear that it would injuriously affect the beet sugar interests of the United States and who have advocated either no legislation or the granting of a rebate on tariff duties to the Cuban government, recognize that their cause is hopeless and the leaders of this little group privately admit that nothing is to be gained by holding out longer.

Action to Be Taken at Once.

Within the present week a conference of all the Republican Senators will be held and a bill, to be framed in advance by the Republican members of the Committee on Cuban Relations, indorsed, reported to the Senate, placed on the calendar, and called up as soon as the pending isthmian canal bill is disposed of. The bill will provide a 20 per cent reciprocal reduction in the tariff rates between the United States and Cuba, to continue for three or five years, with a proviso designed to make it certain that the proposed reduction shall be enjoyed only by the original owners of the products presented for importation.

President Urges His Views.

The beginning of the end of the long controversy between the factions came tonight at the dinner at the White House, when the President's guests were Senator Platt of Connecticut, Aldrich, Allison, Foraker, Spooner, Secretary Root, and General Leonard Wood. The President impressed upon his Senatorial guests his strong desire that the question be settled during the present session, and the hope that they would be able to put the importance of prompt action before their colleagues in such a way that they could accept the situation.

The President again expressed his opposition to the proposed rebate plan of the beet sugar Senators, but said, what he has said a thousand times before, that he would of course sign any bill that would meet with the approval of the Republicans in Congress. He stated his objections to the rebate plan, and urged the passage of a bill in line with his recommendations for substantial reductions in the tariff on Cuban imports.

Talks with Beet Sugar Senators.

Today Senator McMillan of Michigan, a member of the Cuban committee and one of the Senators who have favored the payment of a rebate rather than a reduction on the tariff, and other Senators had long talks with the President, with the result that late in the afternoon, after repeated informal conferences, assurances were given by a sufficient number of beet sugar Senators to make it certain that several more than the necessary forty-five Republican Senators can be absolutely relied upon to support the bill of the Cuban committee.

There are still a few irreconcilables who declare they will not vote for any tariff reduction bill. There will be an agreement between nearly all of the fifty-four Republican Senators to stand by the party bill.

There is no longer any doubt that the bill so earnestly advocated by the administration and a majority of the Republican Senators will be reported to the Senate and passed within a short time by the practically unanimous vote of the Republican Senators.

PLEAD FOR COEDUCATION THROUGH A COMIC OPERA.

Coeds of the Armour Institute of Technology fought their own battle for coeducation at the institution before the footlights at Steinway Hall last night. In a comic opera written by the students the victory of coeducational sentiment over the edict barring girl students in the school was pictured.

The story of the play, "Coeds Courageous," was built largely on existing conditions at Armour Institute. The present state of affairs at the school, where coeducation is soon to be abolished, was pictured as the opening scene of the play, and the authors added the visionary scene of coeds driving the professors from the institution as a result of the trustees' edict. Young women students and their escorts in the audience vigorously applauded the belligerent coeds in the play.

Since the decision a year ago that after the young women already enrolled should be allowed to graduate the school would be open only to young men the coeds have in several ways expressed their disapproval of the action. In the play last night the young women of the Armour cooking school bombarded the professors with doughnuts of their own making and took possession of the buildings. Helen McGrew took the part of Pauline Van Astorgould, the leader of the coed forces. Dean Alderson, Professor Raymond, head of the academy, and other members of the faculty came in for their share of the chaffing. The music of the opera was composed by Allan Benedict, while Gordon Wilson wrote the book. A score of young women and as many college men took part in the production.

LOSES LONG RACE WITH DEATH.

Australian Who Is Hurrying to London to See His Children Expires in Chicago.

While hurrying to London, England, to see his children while life lasted, William Somers, a wealthy merchant of Melbourne, Australia, died at the Victoria Hotel yesterday morning. Mr. Somers, who was 70 years old, arrived at the hotel on Sunday. He was accompanied by his aged wife. The old man was ill, but hoped to reach London, where his children reside. Mr. Somers is said to have been a prominent figure in the business and social world of Melbourne.

GOOD IF SHE DOESN'T BITE

COURT COMPARES A MOTHER-IN-LAW TO A DOG.

Judge Holdom Rules That Mrs. William Giese Has No More Reason to Object to Her Parent by Marriage than She Would to a Docile and Well-Behaved Canine—Fred E. R. Jones Made Defendant by His Wife—To Live on $2.50 a Week.

A mother-in-law who doesn't bite is as good as a dog.

It is possible that no one ever questioned this assertion, but it remained for Judge Holdom, sitting in the Cook County Superior Court, to establish the point legally yesterday.

William Giese, four times married, was the defendant. The fourth Mrs. Giese was suing. Among other reasons why she wanted separate maintenance, she said, was because Mr. Giese insisted that she share her home with the mother of two of his former wives, who were sisters.

Largely a Matter of "Bite."

"A man has a right to keep his mother-in-law in his house just as he has a right to keep a dog," was Judge Holdom's ruling. "If the dog does not bite his wife cannot complain because he keeps it in the house, and it is the same with an ex-mother-in-law—that is, the mother of a former wife. If she doesn't harm anybody the last wife has no grounds for complaint. I'll dismiss the bill for want of equity."

Mr. Giese married the present Mrs. Giese when she was Ernestina Bruesch, a widow, living at 194 North Lawndale avenue. She alleges that both before and after he married her he promised to deed to her some property which he owned at North Ashland and Belmont avenues. It is said the property is worth $60,000 and that besides he had property worth $40,000.

Mrs. Giese alleges that he has not fulfilled his promise, and also has refused to keep the promise that he would "get rid" of his mother-in-law and live alone with her and his daughter Amanda.

Another Woman Tells Her Woes.

But Mrs. Giese is not alone in her troubles. Mrs. Grace Jones yesterday filed a bill for separate maintenance against Fred E. R. Jones, Chicago manager of London and Liverpool and Globe Insurance company, alleging that her husband gave her only $2.50 a week and told her with that amount she could have "a good time and furnish a wardrobe."

A mother-in-law also is said to figure in this suit. Mrs. Jones sets forth in her bill that she was married to the defendant on Dec. 21, 1898, and that after the marriage they continued to live at 1234 Wilcox avenue until May 12 of this year.

The complainant says that Jones resided with his mother before she married him and that he informed her that his mother would be with them only part of the time after their marriage. In spite of this assertion, Mrs. Jones says, her husband's mother has lived with them continuously.

Not only that, but "with the consent and assistance of the defendant, she has ruled and dominated her home and household affairs and sought in every way to embarrass and humiliate her."

The bill asserts that on May 12 last, during the absence of Mrs. Jones, the defendant and his mother moved all of the furniture from the house at 1234 Wilcox avenue to 1256 Wilcox avenue and that when Mrs. Jones went to the latter residence she was refused admission.

Mrs. Jones declares that her husband receives a salary of $2,500 a year and owns a fruit farm near Citronelle, Ala.

ANGRY WOMEN THREATEN A PRISONER IN COURT.

Frod L. Bowker, the Fake Assessor, Gets a Continuance from Justice Sheldon and Has Narrow Escape.

Armed with umbrellas and hand bags, a crowd of excited women yesterday afternoon threatened to rush into Justice Joseph Sheldon's court and administer punishment to Fred L. Bowker, evangelist and ex-constable, charged with robbing more than 200 homes while posing as an Assessor. Of the women assembled in the hallway in the Uhlick Block eighteen were complainants against Bowker. They were angry because the attorney for Bowker had secured another continuance of the hearing for a week.

The proceedings went along in the usual manner until a continuance was asked and granted. Immediately a murmur arose from the crowd. The women started toward the door. Mrs. C. Heinaman of 76 Uhland street said:

"Bah, with the hands of the law. Let that man come out in the hall and we will get revenge."

In a few seconds all the crowd were making their sentiments heard. There were twenty-seven women who began to threaten Bowker. When one of them said: "Let's go in and get the thief," the crowd began to move toward the courtroom again. Several constables, however, kept them out.

Finally the crowd dispersed and the detectives hustled Bowker to a patrol wagon that was waiting for him.

Bowker's case had been continued twice before.

EVERSZ-M'KINNEY WEDDING POSTPONED, IT IS ANNOUNCED

Ill-Health of the Evanston Physician's Son Causes Change of Plans—Ceremoney Was Set for June 18.

The announcement yesterday that the wedding of Mr. Ralph McKinney, son of Dr. P. L. McKinney, and Miss Edna Eversz had been postponed caused considerable gossip in Evanston, where both are well known. Dr. McKinney said last night that the delay in the wedding was due to the continued ill health of his son.

"He had an attack of the grip several months ago," said the physician, "and has not recovered his health. On that account alone the wedding has been put off. My son starts for Colorado tomorrow evening."

Miss Eversz is the daughter of the Rev. and Mrs. Moritz E. Eversz of Evanston. The wedding was to have taken place on June 18 at the Hotel Metropole.

MOSQUITO PLAGUE IN EVANSTON

Swarms of Insects Make Life Miserable at Night for Residents of the North Shore Suburb.

Evanston is suffering from a plague of Mosquitoes that is making life out of doors at night almost unbearable. The plague has become so bad that the residents of the suburb are compelled to place screens around their porches in order to sit upon them at night, and they cannot have the windows up because if they do the insects swarm in the houses. The Department of Public Works has confessed its inability to deal with the vacant places where it is thought the mosquitoes breed.

WRIGHT'S STRIKE REPORT IS READY

Commissioner of Labor Gets Information and Will Submit It to President Today.

MINE OWNERS GIVE FACTS

Presidents of Anthracite Roads Open Books and Furnish Correspondence with the United Workers.

New York, June 10.—[Special.]—Commissioner of Labor Carroll D. Wright, sent by President Roosevelt to investigate the great strike in the anthracite coal mines, late this afternoon, after a long conference with the Presidents of the coal roads, announced that he has collected sufficient information, and is ready to make his report to the President.

President Olyphant of the Delaware and Hudson, Eben B. Thomas of the Erie, and President Baer of the Philadelphia and Reading met Commissioner Wright, threw open their books, furnished him with copies of all correspondence between themselves and President Mitchell of the United Mine Workers, which they afterward made public, and furnished him with facts and figures to report to the President.

Commissioner Wright announced that he deemed a visit to the coal fields unnecessary, he being familiar with conditions there and in possession of the views of President Mitchell. He declared the investigation is practically at an end. He will return to Washington probably tomorrow and lay his information before the President.

Mitchell Confers with Easley.

Monday night President Mitchell made a presentment of the miners' side of the controversy to Commissioner Wright.

President Mitchell spent the greater part of today in this city. He conferred with Ralph M. Easley of the Civic federation. Mr. Mitchell spent much of his time with Mr. Easley, preparing a document. He said he had been preparing no document for presentation to either Mr. Wright or President Roosevelt. Asked if the paper referred to a possible settlement of the strike, Mr. Mitchell declined to state.

Wright Talks of Inquiry.

"I have practically completed the official investigation," said Commissioner Wright tonight, "and will present my report as quickly as possible to President Roosevelt. I have secured the information I desired, and was treated courteously by the representatives on both sides of the controversy. It will not be necessary for me to go to the coal fields. I cannot say anything concerning the mass of information in my possession. I will hold no more conferences."

Prospect of General Strike.

Speaking of the prospect of a general strike of the miners, Commissioner Wright expressed himself as follows:

"If the soft coal men who have signed contracts should strike they would be violating their agreement, and thus put their unions at a decided disadvantage and forfeit the sympathy of the public. This action would put the unions on the defensive in every arbitration that would follow the outbreak. None of the strikers thus far was bound by contracts."

May Prevent Naval Evolutions.

It was announced in Washington today that the West Virginia coal strike, if protracted, threatens to paralyze the navy, so far as extensive evolutions on the Atlantic seaboard this summer are concerned. Admiral Bradford, who has charge of the fuel supply, advised Secretary Moody of the urgent need for economy until the extent and duration of the strike be known and has ordered his subordinates at the various naval stations to husband the stock on hand until assured that the supply will not be cut off altogether.

The Admiral has been informed that no more Pocahontas coal is to be had at Lambert's Point, near Norfolk, and that all New River coal which the navy gets at Newport News has been seized in transit by the railroad companies. These two coals are the chief dependence of naval vessels and their failure will compel the warships to avoid Chesapeake Bay and go to New York or Boston to fill their bunkers.

The reserve supply, especially along the Atlantic seaboard, is comparatively insignificant when it is pointed out that the warships consumed an average of 25,000 tons a month last year and nearly as much the year before.

Operators Give Correspondence.

Presidents of anthracite coal roads affected by the strike today made public the correspondence between themselves and President Mitchell of the United Mine Workers, saying they give the information for the benefit of Commissioner of Labor Wright.

The operators give a brief history of the unionizing of the anthracite coal miners, and recite the agreement to an advance of 10 per cent in wages in 1901, following the strike of 1900; the abolishment of the sliding scale, and finally the invitation of Feb. 14, 1902, to the operators to a joint conference to form a wage scale for the ensuing year.

Argument of President Baer.

President Baer of the Central Railroad of New Jersey on Feb. 18 replied to President Mitchell, declining to join the conference. He argued that it is impossible, in view of the varied conditions, to make a uniform anthracite wage scale. He said:

"This company does not favor the plan of having its relations with the miners disturbed every year. We will always receive and consider every application of the men in our employ. We will endeavor to correct every abuse, to right every wrong, to deal justly and fairly with them, but there cannot be two masters in the management of business."

Mr. Baer said discipline is imperative in mining, where one man may endanger the lives of hundreds; that the power of discharge is the only power held by the operators, and that the divided power imperiled discipline. He stated that the efficiency of the company's mines had decreased 1,000,000 tons since the miners' union strike, because of contract miners working short hours.

President Truesdale of the Lackawanna declined the conference, saying the policy of the company was to deal directly with the men.

Thomas Scores the Union.

President E. B. Thomas of the Erie scored the United Mine Workers, saying that the effect of the union had been such that during the last year the spirit of unrest had been greater than at any time in twenty years. He said in part:

"Notwithstanding the advance in wages, fair treatment, and the patient and friendly disposition manifested towards the various committees, the depreciation in the quantity of work produced per man has amounted to about 12 per cent, and from April to Oct. 1 there have been no less than 102 interruptions of work occasioned by unwarranted demands and agitation by members of your association, resulting in a loss of over 900 days' work and over 600,000 tons of production."

Telegrams that passed between them and President Mitchell after the operators posted notices continuing the wage scale were given out. President Mitchell's telegram asking the operators for a conference with a committee was given and the replies of Baer and Thomas declining follow.

Outline History of Negotiations.

The history of the strike from the Shamokin convention to May 8 is then outlined. The first discussion, the adjournment for thirty days, and the two futile and final discussions between the union leaders and the operators represented by Messrs. Truesdale, Thomas, and Baer, are mentioned.

Mr. Mitchell's dispatch of May 8 is given, in which he proposed that all differences be submitted to a committee of five selected by the industrial branch of the Civil federation, or to authorize Bishop Potter, Archbishop Ireland, and one other person to investigate conditions and if they found the anthracite miners were making sufficient wages to enable their families to live on an American basis, to withdraw all demands.

The answers of Messrs. Thomas, Truesdale, Baer, and Oliphant follow, all reiterating their reasons for refusing to meet the United Workers.

Mob Flees from Note Book.

Wilkesbarre, Pa., June 10.—[Special.]—A crowd of riotous strikers was dispersed this morning at the William A. mine by Frank Shedd, a clerk in the employ of the Lehigh Valley Coal company. A crowd of men gathered this morning, armed with rubber slings with bullets, buckshot, and stones as ammunition. Every time a guard or one of the men who were at work appeared he was greeted with a fusillade of these missiles. A coal and iron policeman drew his revolver and fired over the heads of the crowd. Young Shedd walked out of the stockade and advanced alone up the hill on the mob. He took a notebook and told the crowd he was going to take down the names of all he recognized and have warrants issued for their arrest. The notebook overawed the crowd, which soon vanished. Warrants will be issued for the arrest of the men whose names Shedd wrote down.

Mob Attacks Two Collieries.

At Duryea tonight 200 strikers, accompanied by many women, marched against the colliery and caught Michael Murphy outside the stockade and, after kicking and pummeling him, cut off half his mustache. The police fired several shots at the strikers, who fled. They formed again and marched to another colliery. Here the engineers and firemen fled, leaving the rioters in possession. They are now marching in the direction of Averca.

Four women and one man were arrested at Nanticoke this afternoon charged with inciting the riot at Hanover on Saturday last when Daniel Sweeney, a coal and iron policeman, and John Frederick, an engineer, were knocked down by bricks thrown and kicked and beaten as they lay helpless on the ground. The man, Mike Frankowich, was held, one of the women was discharged, and the three others were held.

Dig Graves for Non-Unionists.

Grave digging is a new form of deviltry. Two brothers named Miller, who work at one of the Lehigh Valley Coal company's mines, were among the first victims. Graves were made in front of each of their houses, with headboards bearing the names of the Millers.

Two men who work in the Harry E. mine at Forty Fort have been besieged for three days, with their wives and a sister of one of the wives in the house in which they live. Once in a while one of the men comes to the door and shows a revolver, but the crowd jeers.

Every day the lines of the boycott are being drawn tighter. At Pittston today the Pittston Ice company refused to deliver any more ice to the Lehigh Valley Coal company. At Nanticoke the mine workers' union today issued printed resolutions urging all tradesmen not to furnish ice or supplies of any kind to the men at work and the guards in the Susquehanna Coal company's mine stockade.

Dry Weather Aids Operators.

Hazleton, Pa., June 10.—[Special.]—The operators are aided greatly in the work of keeping their mines clear of water by the continued dry weather, and but one-quarter the regular number of pumpmen are needed at this time. Five deputies at the Cranberry colliery were set upon by a mob in West Hazleton last night and roughly handled. They sought refuge at a mine foreman's home, where they were rescued with difficulty by a posse of policemen.

Attack Non-Union Men.

Pittston, Pa., June 10.—[Special.]—At Duryea, near here, five civil engineers, working as firemen and pumpmen at the Connell mine, were attacked by a crowd of Italians, and the engineers drew their revolvers and fired. Another demonstration took place at No. 10 mine, when a big crowd, mostly women, gathered about the deputies, who were boarding a train. One of the women threw a stone that struck Captain Keck of the deputies, inflicting a gash on his face. The deputies used their rifles as bars and pushed the crowd down a hill. Eight more Erie engineers quit work today.

Rush Workers to Harrisburg.

Reading, Pa., June 10.—The Reading railway officials here today sent four special trains from the Schuylkill regions to Harrisburg this afternoon. Three started from Shenandoah and the other from Tamaqua. The passengers were 1,500 men, all mine workers and Elkin followers. The miners will live on the trains. Fifteen hundred hams were purchased on Monday and each man will carry one.

West Virginia Strikers Gain.

Keystone, W. Va., June 10.—The situation in the Great Flat Top and Tug River coal fields today is unchanged. At Davy more than a hundred foreigners were prevailed upon to come into the union. A mass-meeting was held here. Operators are increasing the number of guards as rapidly as rifles can be secured.

At East Bank the operators signed an agreement conceding everything, but the union would not allow the men to work this morning.

Tie Up New River Field.

Thurmond, W. Va., June 10.—The strikers succeeded today in tying up almost every operation in the New River district. Not 100 miners out of 6,000 were at work on Loup Creek, and not a single car of coal has been sent down that branch today. In the Kanawha field a few mines are being operated, but with a greatly reduced force.

YE FASHION CORNER

Oak leaves and acorns form some of the new "foliage hats" that have sprung into sudden popularity.

It is now the fashion to have one light-colored orchid slipped in the side of the bunch of violets worn with the evening or walking gown.

The "dropped" shoulder effect is observed on many of the lace yoke costumes, and promises to be almost as popular as it was last summer.

Handsome materials for the woman who wishes to dress richly in black are the fine embroidered Indian crêpes, with small figures covering them almost solidly.

Nightgowns for summer wear are cut square at the neck and have loose fitting elbow sleeves. Many of these are finished with a beading of embroidery through which a light colored satin ribbon is drawn, and the usual edging of embroidery is dispensed with.

A new idea for the summer separate waist is to have the front embroidered in some rich and tasteful design, leaving the rest of the waist absolutely without trimming. Women who are expert with their needles enjoy working out beautiful designs on sheer goods.

The latest thing in separate skirts is close fitting to the knees and finished with a wide, graduated, accordion-plaited flounce. In skirts of light colors the portion where the flounce joins the skirt is finished with white or ecru lace in medallion or serpentine design.

STRIKE PENDING OVER BREWERIES

Union Employes of United States Brewing Company Threaten Trouble.

GENERAL MEETING TODAY

Demand for Higher Wages and Reinstatement of Drivers' Helpers Refused.

Angered by the refusal of the officers of the United States Brewing company—more commonly known as the trust—to reinstate the thirty brewery drivers' helpers who went out on a strike on Monday, the other unions connected with the firms are preparing to call a general strike tomorrow morning. The men are thoroughly organized, and their leaders claim that not a barrel of beer can be moved from the breweries involved without their consent after the strike call has been issued.

Relations between the "trust" and the men have been strained for some time, and the unions have been waiting for an opportunity to bring matters to an issue. Failing to get satisfaction they will call out all of the workmen in the breweries, all the drivers and helpers, and ask that all union men boycott the saloons using the output of the "trust."

The helpers struck on Monday to get a higher wage. They were being paid from $7 to $12 a week, and asked for a parallel raise of $5. This was refused, and yesterday the officers of the Brewing Trades council—an organization of all the unions engaged in the handling of beer—met with the employers to talk the situation over. They were told that the men would not be given their demands and might not be taken back at all.

Unions Hold General Meeting.

The decree raised a cry of indignation, and a general meeting of all the unions was called for the afternoon. The officers decided that the chance for winning a strike is better now than in the future, and last night the men were asked their opinion as they returned with the wagons or left the plants. All favored a general call, and tonight formal action will be taken. Among the breweries that will be affected are the K. G. Schmidt, Bartholomae & Leicht, and Brand breweries, composing the United States Brewing company; the Eagle Brewing company; and the New Brand Brewing company.

All but the office hands of these firms will leave their places, for all are under the jurisdiction of the following unions: Brewers and Maltsters' union, Brewery Wagon Drivers' union, and the Brewery Wagon Drivers' Helpers' union. These unions are affiliated with the central bodies of the city and country and can thus ask for a beer boycott.

Teamsters Refuse to Aid.

The National Teamsters' union, which carried on the Stock-Yards and department stores' teamster strike, has been anxious to force the brewery drivers to affiliate with it. When the present strike started the men were offered the aid of the teamsters if they would join that body, but they refused. Yesterday President Young of the teamsters notified the brewery firms that they would not aid in the strike until they had absorbed the brewery drivers. They also asked the firms not to sign any agreement. The move of President Young will not affect the call for a general strike, but will open up one of the bitterest internal struggles the teamsters have had.

Mail Wagon Drivers Dissatisfied.

Yesterday the forty-eight mail wagon drivers of the city formulated a scale of wages which they will demand be accepted. The men have been receiving from $35 to $40 a month for twelve hours' work a day. So poor has been the grade of men hired and so little interest have they taken in the work that up to date the contractors have had to pay $4,300 in fines for failure to get out the mailbags in time.

The drivers ask for 12 cents an hour for a single wagon, 13 cents for a three-quarter wagon, 14 for a double wagon, and 25 cents an hour overtime. The day they have placed at eleven hours and threaten to strike unless it is granted. The drivers claim they have received assurances from the government officials that officers will run the wagons until the matter is settled up. These the men will not disturb.

Plans Conciliation Board.

The subcommittee of teaming interests that hopes to bring about a conciliation board, consisting of the employers and employés, to settle all teaming disputes, yesterday formulated its plans at a meeting in the Great Northern Hotel. It asks that a general committee consisting of seven men from among the employers and seven from the union be appointed, to have the power of arbitration for a period of one year, that time being long enough to demonstrate the feasibility of the scheme.

The committee decided to call a general meeting for this afternoon at 4 o'clock in the Great Northern Hotel, when both employers and the union men can meet and make the final arrangements.

CROWDS DISPERSED BY POLICE.

North Side Patrol Makes Three Runs on Account of Labor Difficulties.

Strike troubles on the North Side brought the patrol wagon of the East Chicago Avenue Police Station into requisition three times yesterday. Between 6 and 8 o'clock in the morning two runs were made to the plant of the Manhattan Ice Cream company, 31 Indiana street, where a union teamster had been discharged. The crowds were dispersed, and no arrests were made. In the evening the wagon was called to the plant of the Curtain Supply company, Ohio and Orleans streets, where trouble was threatened by sympathizers with the girls, who struck on Monday. When the patrol arrived the crowd had disappeared.

COMIC ARTIST ENDS HIS LIFE.

Gus Dirks, Noted for His Pictures of Bugs and Mice, Shoots Himself While Despondent.

New York, June 10.—[Special.]—Gus Dirks, who was known as the "Bugville" artist because of comic pictures he drew of bugs and mice, committed suicide in his studio at 132 West Fourteenth street this afternoon by shooting himself in the head. Dirks, who was 21 years old last January, had been despondent. He and his brother were employed for a time on a comic paper called the Critic in Chicago. They came to this city in 1897.

HIRES GERMAN OPERA TROUPE.

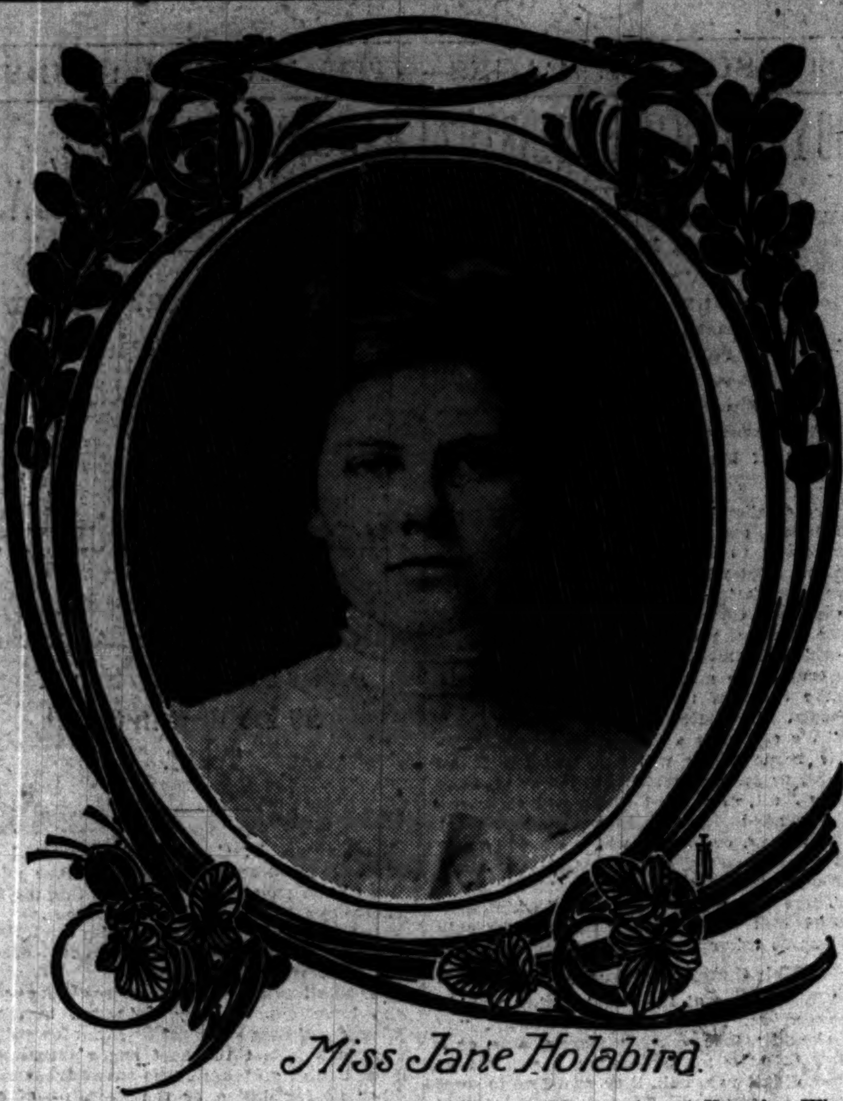
Conried Secures Entire Company of Berlin Theater with Chorus for American Appearance.

BERLIN, June 10.—Heinrich Conried, manager of the Irving Place Theater, New York, has engaged the entire opera company of the Central Theater here, including the chorus, to appear at the Irving Place Theater in the months of April and May, 1903. The répertoire of the company which goes to New York will include a number of standard operettas.

Iowa and Dakota Express,

Heretofore leaving Wells-St. Station 7 p. m. daily, via the Northwestern line, will, beginning Sunday, June 8, leave at 6:45 p. m., fifteen minutes earlier; through sleepers to Mason City, Sioux City, and Hawarden. Tickets, 212 Clark street.

EVANSTON GIRL TO RECEIVE ST. MARY'S CROSS



Miss Jane Holabird

The decoration of St. Mary's cross will be conferred this morning at Kenosha, Wis., on Miss Jane Augur Holabird, daughter of William Holabird of Evanston.

The cross is the greatest honor that can be conferred upon a Kemper Hall girl. It is the symbol of the sisterhood and annually is given to one young woman in the United States, she being selected from the seniors of Kemper Hall, the principal school under the direction of the sisters.

During the four years she has been at Kemper Hall, Miss Holabird has been one of the leaders in the work of the school, and her selection by the sisters to wear the decoration was received with hearty applause when it was announced yesterday. The ceremonies of the bestowing of the medal will take place in St. Peter's chapel at noon, Bishop Nicholson of the diocese of Milwaukee being in charge.

The other leading prizes for work in the collegiate departments were awarded to Miss Elizabeth Stewart Stone of Flint, Mich.; Miss Portia Baker of Kenosha, Wis.; Miss Anne Quigley of Sterling, Kas.; Miss Margaret Richards of Racine, Wis.; Miss Jeannette Wollaeger of Milwaukee; Miss Florence Zimmerman of Chicago; Miss Helen St. George of Nashotah, Wis., Miss Florence Niese of Chicago; and Miss Katharine Rogers of Chicago. The Newell prize for sewing, which is greatly sought after, was awarded to Miss Catherine Butterfield of Chicago.

PICKS COFFIN; ENDS LIFE.

UNDERTAKER ARRANGES FOR HIS OWN FUNERAL.

Edward E. Hill, Despondent Over the Death of Wife, Writes Letters Giving Directions for Burial and Takes Carbolic Acid—Guest of Deming Hotel Shoots Himself Through Head—Blacksmith Cuts His Throat and Dies on Way to Hospital.

After writing three letters in which he gave explicit directions for his funeral, including the style and price of the coffin in which he wished to be buried, Edward E. Hill, an undertaker, ended his life yesterday at his home by swallowing carbolic acid. Grief over the death of his wife a year ago is believed to have been the motive which prompted the suicide.

Hill rented apartments for himself and four children of Mrs. Couch at 64 Carpenter street. One of his letters was addressed to her, notifying her that his life was insured for $1,100 and directing her to pay $200 to each of the children, the remainder to be used in defraying his funeral expenses.

Hill also wrote a letter to the firm of Moffett & Arnett, undertakers, at 1504 West Madison street, where he was formerly employed. In the letter, Hill stated that he wanted F. J. Arnett to prepare his body for burial. "I want coffin No. 6, and it must not cost more than $50," the letter read.

The third letter read as follows:

"To whom it may concern: I, E. H. Hill, took poison, as I was tired of life. Send my body to Moffett & Arnett's at 1504 West Madison street. Letter No. 1 will give him ample information as to funeral arrangements."

Commits Suicide in Hotel.

John R. Winders of Oakland, Cal., committed suicide yesterday at the Deming Hotel, Clark and Madison streets, by shooting himself through the head. The police cannot explain the motive for the suicide. A sealed letter addressed to L. S. Shepard, 238 La Salle avenue, it is thought, will throw light on the case. At the address no one knew Mr. Shepard, and the letter will not be opened until the Coroner's inquest. The following note, written on a postal card, was found on the dresser with other communications:

"If I am found dead notify the Masons. I am a member from California. Send letter addressed John Colener, Examiner composition room, San Francisco. Also send watch, chain, and ring. JOHN R. WINDERS."

Blacksmith Cuts His Throat.

Joseph Nichols, a blacksmith, 49 years old, committed suicide early yesterday at Wagner's Hotel, 49 West Madison street, by cutting his throat with a razor. Groans were heard in Nichols' room at 3 o'clock by James McMahon, who occupies an adjoining room. He summoned employés of the hotel and the door of Nichols' room was broken open. An ambulance was summoned to remove the unconscious man to the County Hospital, but before the hospital was reached Nichols died, and his body was taken to the county morgue.

INVENTOR GETS HUGE OFFER.

Machine Doing Away with Glassblowers Draws a Bid of $10,000,000 from American Company.

Pittsburg, Pa., June 10.—[Special.]—The American Window Glass company will today begin the exploitation of an invention for which $10,000,000 has been offered, and which is expected to decrease the cost of the production of glass by doing away with blowers, gatherers, and snappers, all of whom are high-priced men. Twelve machines designed by John Lubbers have been installed in the old De Pauw plant at Alexandria, Ind., which has been newly equipped throughout for the production of glass.

For nearly a year three of the machines have been secretly operated here and all imperfections and drawbacks encountered at first have been overcome, it is said. Should the operation of the machines be as successful at De Pauw as they have been here the window glass company will immediately equip its factories throughout the country with them, and a vast number of skilled workmen will be without occupations.

The patents on the machines are owned by Lubbers and four officials of the window glass company, one of whom is President James A. Chambers, who announced today that $10,000,000 had been offered for them. It is proposed to operate them on a royalty system.

Millionaire's Slayer Is Sentenced.

St. Louis, Mo., June 10.—By agreement of counsel, William Strother, the negro Turkish bath attendant who was arrested last January for the murder of A. Deane Cooper, the millionaire proprietor, pleaded guilty today and will serve fifteen years in the Missouri State penitentiary. Formal sentence will be pronounced later.

DEGREE OF LL. D. FOR REID

CAMBRIDGE UNIVERSITY HONORS AMERICAN ENVOY.

Notable Ceremony in Famous College Town Is Attended by Guests to Coronation Ceremonies and Other Distinguished Persons—Two Indian Princes Accorded Same Dignity as the United States Representative—Yale College Professor Recognized.

[Copyright: 1902: By the New York Tribune.]

[BY CABLE TO THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.]

CAMBRIDGE, England, June 10.—Cambridge University conferred honorary degrees today on a large group of coronation guests and distinguished men.

The recipients of honors were entertained in advance at luncheon by the Vice Chancellor at Peter House, and the academic ceremony was conducted at 3 o'clock at the Senate House, where there was an unusually large attendance of Cambridge dons in robes and women in gay costumes.

The galleries were evidently impressed by the large number of candidates for honors and the dignity of the occasion, for instead of jeering the visitors, according to their usual boisterous habit, they were content with rounds of noisy applause.

Hearty Greeting to Visitors.

The Indian Princes and the Japanese Ambassador were received with great heartiness, and sentence after sentence in the sonorous Latin address to the special American Ambassador was punctuated with applause.

The Governor of Ceylon and the soldierlike Premier of Natal were heartily greeted, and Sir Harry Johnston, with his wiry figure, which had not been broken down by his arduous life in tropical Africa, was warmly cheered.

Mr. Reid was the first to receive and to acknowledge the degree of doctor of laws, and was followed by the two Maharajahs of Kolhapur and Gwalior. The Duke of Argyll and the Viscount Hayashi, the Japanese Ambassador at London; Sir Richard Henn Collins, master of the rolls, came next, and Sir Joseph Ridgeway and Sir Albert Mime closed the list of the doctors of laws.

Other Degrees Conferred.

Sir Harry Johnston and Professor William Rucker received the degree of doctor of science; Frederick Seebolim and the Rev. William Sandry that of doctor of letters, and a well deserved compliment was paid to Yale College when the degree of doctor of music was conferred upon Horatio William Parker.

It was a remarkably brilliant academic function. There was a large dinner at Trinity College in the evening, at which Mr. Reid and the other recipients of honors were entertained. I. N. F.

MAHSUD TRIBE ON WARPATH.

Two Military Posts on the Wazaristan Frontier Captured by Them—Have 30,000 Fighters.

[BY CABLE TO THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.]

CALCUTTA, June 10.—The Mahsuds have attacked and captured two military posts on the Wazaristan frontier. The tribe consists of 30,000 warriors, and it is feared that they all may go on the warpath.

The operations of this rebellious tribe have worried the British military authorities of India for several months. In December last six native battalions and a mounted battery were sent to Tonk to reinforce the frontier force under General Egerton.

LIKE AMERICAN FIGHTERS.

Boer Commandant Says They Are Good, but That Germans Only Give Horses Sore Backs.

PRETORIA, June 10.—Boer commandos arriving here bring reports of fresh instances of fraternization between the Boers and the British troops. The Boers generally hold unfavorable estimates of their foreign allies, except the Americans, whom they declare to be crafty and great fighters. A prominent commandant said: "All the Germans are fit for is to give horses sore backs."

POPE TO CONSULT GIBBONS.

Recommendations for Archbishop of New York So Numerous That Decision Is Difficult.

[BY CABLE TO THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.]

ROME, June 10.—The recommendations regarding the Archbishopric of New York are so numerous and are so well supported that the Pope declared today he will make no decision until he consults Cardinal Gibbons, whose opinion will be a great guide in the final appointment.

COLONIES WANT VOICE IN EMPIRE

New Policy Discussed Before Colonial Institution by Representative Men.

COLQUHOUN READS PAPER

Says England Must Beware of Free Trade Idea in a World That Is All Protection.

[Copyright: 1902: By the New York Tribune.]

[BY CABLE TO THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.]

LONDON, June 11, 3 a. m.—Archibald R. Colquhoun's paper, read last night before the Colonial Institution, was an able and comprehensive survey of the future policy of the British Empire as essentially a colonial policy. It was not an alarmist paper, but a cool, well-reasoned argument, pointing to the conclusion that the empire must be bound together by the federation.

Colquhoun advocated, with the approval of a large, intelligent audience in the Whitehall rooms, a closer commercial union between the mother country and the colonies, the representation of colonies in the Imperial Council, and measures for common defense.

He discussed the project of a British Zollverein and of preferential duties within the empire, without committing himself to any definite scheme, and contended that Parliament was overwhelmed with routine business, and that an Imperial Council was indispensable, since fresh impulse from the colonies were needed in order to invigorate the national policy. He described England as ill-equipped for the desperate struggle for existence now going on among nations, and asserted that the colonials must come forward and contribute to the expenses of the imperial household.

Warns Against Ship Combine.

Colquhoun's paper was closely followed, and his warnings against one-sided free trade in a protection world and against the annexation of British shipping lines by American capitalists when Germany was in a position to command maritime alliance were warmly applauded.

Colonel Denison presented the Canadian argument for levying a war tax on all imports in all British ports with force and lucidity, and replied both to James Bryce and John Morley's arguments against the bread tax. Agent General Tozer, from Queensland, dissented from the proposals for a British Zollverein, and emphatically declared that Australia would bind itself to supply a permanent force of 100,000 soldiers for imperial defense and contribute liberally to the naval armaments, but would not ask England to introduce a Zollverein which would be unfair to her own people. The discussion was continued by several eminent colonial representatives and was a most animated one. It was a significant demonstration that while Hicks-Beach has proclaimed that the British Empire cannot be sacrificed for the sake of the colonies, the combination for business and defense has become the great issue in English politics.

King and Queen See Polo Game.

The King and Queen saw the Ranleigh Polo club beat the American team yesterday afternoon after a grand game by six goals to five. The charming grounds of the Ranleigh club at Barn Elms presented a most picturesque appearance. All the leading men and women in the London world of fashion were present, and some of the Indian Princes, who have been made honorary members of the club during their stay in this country, were interested spectators at the match.

Donations to King's Gift.

Among the donations received by the Lord Mayor at the Mansion House towards a coronation gift to the King include $25,000 from J. S. Morgan & Co. and $2,500 each from Lord Mount Stephen and Lord Strathcona. The gifts are to be devoted to a hospital fund which the King founded a few years ago in celebration of Queen Victoria's diamond jubilee.

J. Pierpont Morgan arrived in London last night from Paris. I. N. F.

NOTED ACTORS PLAY TOGETHER

[BY CABLE TO THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.]

LONDON, June 10.—The theatrical event of the coronation is a limited number of performances of "The Merry Wives of Windsor," with a remarkable cast, at Her Majesty's Theater, the first of which was given tonight. Beerbohm Tree played the part of Falstaff, Mrs. Tree that of Anne Page, Mrs. Kendal that of Mistress Ford, and Ellen Terry that of Mistress Page. The play was given with an abandon and enthusiasm which was completely captivating, and the audience was aroused to extraordinary demonstrations of approval. The scene at the conclusion of the performance was one of the most enthusiastic ever seen in London.

NEW MINISTER TELLS POLICY.

Premier Combes of French Cabinet in His Declaration Hints at an Income Tax.

[BY CABLE TO THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.]

PARIS, June 10.—Prime Minister Combes read the ministerial declaration to a full house in the Chamber of Deputies today.

He claimed that the country's votes had shown approbation of the previous ministry, of which the present Cabinet is a continuation. He outlined the government's policy as heretofore given, and hinted at an income tax.

In concluding his remarks the Premier said:

"Never losing sight of the superior, permanent interests of the country, our foreign policy will continue the alliance of which France and Russia equally appreciate the beneficent action, and in which universal opinion sees an essential guarantee of the world's equilibrium."

Kill Rich Merchants and Soldiers to the Number of 500 in the Desert—Few Escape.

[BY CABLE TO THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.]

LONDON, June 11.—The Vienna correspondent of the Daily Express says that dispatches from Constantinople describe the massacre of a caravan by independent Arab warriors belonging to desert tribes in the interior. The whole escort of troops and all the wealthy merchants and their suites composing the caravan, a total of 500 men, were slaughtered with the exception of twenty, who managed to escape. The massacre occurred about a hundred miles from Koweit, whose ruler is suspected of complicity in the slaughter.

SEE GOOD IN WATER CURE.

OFFICERS IN MANILA TESTIFY THAT IT IS HELPFUL.

Witnesses in Trial of Major Glenn and Others Charged with Cruelty to Natives Say Treatment Has Been Beneficial to Many—Bad Case Against Lieutenant Cook—Native Laborers Becoming Rapacious in Demands for Pay.

[BY CABLE TO THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.]

MANILA, June 10.—The testimony at the court-martials of Major Glenn and Lieutenant Gaujot, who are charged with cruelty to natives, apparently demonstrates that the so-called "water cure" is beneficial to the recipient. Major Glenn and Surgeons Jones, Rhodes, and Beale testified that they underwent the cure, which, it is needless to say, was administered by friends.

Major Glenn swore that it was not painful, merely producing fright and strangulation. A guerrilla Captain testified that several insurgents who when captured were suffering from fever were subjected to the water cure by Americans and were promptly cured. Other witnesses testified that Major Glenn's methods were the only means of obtaining information.

Experience of Panay Presidente.

The former Presidente of Panay, who is now a prisoner here, testified that he was subjected to the water cure by order of Major Glenn because he refused to answer questions put to him. He was laid on his back, with his arms secured, and was placed with his mouth open under a faucet. He was then questioned regarding the whereabouts of General Del Gado, but stated that he did not know. The cure continued, and he was compelled to swallow about four bottles of water, which caused vomiting and pains in the throat.

He was released while another man was subjected to the treatment. Later he was again questioned, this time on the subject of communicating with the enemy. This he denied. The Americans then resubjected him to the cure, using a syringe and salty water for a quarter of an hour, when the interpreter urged him to admit that he had been in communication with the enemy, which he did because he feared he would die under the treatment. The cross examination of the Presidente showed that he finally guided the Americans to the enemy's stronghold.

The defense attempted to prove that the water cure was a known practice in New York while Mr. Roosevelt and Fred Grant were police commissioners, but the court excluded the testimony.

Lieutenant Gaujot offered no defense. He admitted that he had administered the water cure to three priests.

Ugly Case Against Lieutenant Cook.

The case of Lieutenant Cook, charged with manslaughter for killing a Presidente and two other natives at Basey, has developed a serious situation. Sergeant Alar, a scout, testified that he was in charge of the three prisoners. He was ordered by Lieutenant Cook to go to the outskirts of the town and kill them, which was done. Two other scouts who were members of the party corroborated the sergeant's testimony.

Lieutenant Cook denied ordering that the prisoners be killed. He merely cautioned the sergeant to kill them if they attempted to escape.

Labor Troubles Growing.

The demand of the native workmen for an increase in their wages is supported by the clerks, the tobacco and hemp workers, and laborers generally, and also by the men employed in the shipping industry. The Chinese were also out on strike for three days, when they returned to work. The chambers of commerce are coöperating in urging the introduction of Japanese and the admission of Chinese under bond to a limited extent.

Samar Grows Quiet.

The developments in Samar indicate the thorough pacification of the island, a rapid reconstruction, and a revival of trade. Customs stations are being established. The hemp market is lively.

The constabulary have closed the ports of the Island of Leyte. Twenty officers and 600 men are chasing the remaining insurgents there.

HAVANA, June 10.—The first hearing in Cuba before the subcommission appointed by the Spanish Claims commission in Washington to investigate claims for damages suffered during the Spanish-American war was held today before Commissioner J. F. Darling.

The case was that of Walter Grant Dygert, an American, who claims $20,000 for imprisonment at Guines, being mistaken for a young English rebel known as Inglesito. Dygert came here from Idaho to conduct his case in person. United States Attorneys Michael O'Neil and A. R. Thompson represent the government. There are in all about 500 cases to be heard in the island, aggregating $80,000,000, which will require two or three years to be heard.

The Dygert case will have to go over until the return of ex-Vice Consul Springer from Washington, who is a witness for the complainant.

"It is nonsense, ridiculous," were the words spoken by President Palma today when informed of the statement by William J. Bryan in a New York magazine that the revolutionary spirit of a certain element would cause civil war in Cuba.

"I have not read Mr. Bryan's article," said the President, "but if he wrote such a thing it is because he has been misinformed by persons not kindly disposed toward Cuba. Former revolutionists, like every other element, have only one thought in mind, the reconstruction of Cuba.

"The people are all united and working together for the good of the country, and rebellion is furthest from their minds."

Neely, Rathbone, and other Americans affected by the amnesty bill, signed by President Palma yesterday, will be discharged from custody at noon tomorrow.

United States Not Disposed to Make Any Difficulty for Kaiser's Officers.

ST. THOMAS, D. W. I., June 10.—The German cruiser Falke sailed from La Guayra, Venezuela, yesterday, and the German cruiser Gazelle sailed for the same port today, under hurried orders from Berlin.

May Be Going to Collect Debt.

Washington, D. C., June 10.—In the absence of any official advices on the subject, the officials here are in the dark as to the reasons for the hurried departure of German warships for Venezuela, as reported in the St. Thomas dispatch.

Germany has a big claim against Venezuela—that of the Berlin Company of Discount for the non-performance of engagements which the Venezuelan government has undertaken in connection with the great Venezuelan railway built by the government. The claim approximates $1,200,000.

One inference, and it is merely that, as there is no official information on which to base the statement, is that Germany has sent her vessels to La Guayra to enforce the payment of the claim, as Venezuela has not attempted to meet the obligation.

United States Kept Informed.

The diplomatic correspondence of the State department shows that Germany has considered the question of coercion in connection with the payment of the claim. A communication from the German Embassy of Dec. 20 last has this to say on the subject:

"In case the German government should be obliged to use coercion against Venezuela in connection with the pending claims, it will have to be considered what kind of measures should be adopted. The most important measure of coercion—that is, the blockade of Venezuelan harbors—would have to be carried through without a declaration of war preceding it. A blockade, therefore, would be a peace blockade. Such a blockade would touch likewise the ships of neutral powers, inasmuch as such ships, although a confiscation of them would not have to be considered, would have to be turned away and prohibited until the blockade should be raised. In the same manner European states have proceeded on such occasions, especially England and France."

Washington Would Not Oppose.

It is not believed that the United States government would raise any objection should Germany undertake the blockade of Venezuelan ports to collect the claim of the Berlin company, as the President in his last message to Congress made the following observation in connection with the attitude of the American government on the Monroe doctrine:

"We do not guarantee any state against punishment if it misconducts itself, provided that punishment does not take the form of the acquisition of territory by any non-American power."

HATS CORRECT STYLES. FINEST QUALITIES. J. S. BARNES & 99 MADISON-ST. TRIBUNE B

MILLER'S CAREER IS A VARIED ONE

IN PRISON IN DENVER.

Established "Sand Cure" Here, Then Branched Into Sanitarium Business.

President O. E. Miller, who is the central figure in the investigation just starting of the St. Luke's society fire, has been many things in his lifetime, but always religious. He has been a newspaper editor, President of a Y. M. C. A., a grocer, a lawyer, a superintendent of a Sunday school, a patent medicine man, head of a large combination of medicine selling firms, and President of a "dope" sanitarium.

It was at Denver in 1896 that Miller was indicted, tried, and sent to the federal prison at Leavenworth for a banking deal that, it was said, resulted in the collapse of thirteen banks during the hard times of 1893. At the prison he established a Sunday school, of which he was the leader. After several months his release was ordered by the United States Court of Appeals. The case was then dropped.

According to his statement he has been a millionaire and he has been "broke," but he has always been religious.

Monday's disastrous fire has made another turn in his fortunes, but he is already considering offers of locations and will equip another St. Luke's society sanitarium as soon as he can get out of the difficulties in which he is entangled at present.

Miller has sought the coöperation of charitable societies and has been refused recognition. Superintendent Bicknell of the Bureau of Charities declined to aid him in any way. The Postoffice authorities have heard of him once in awhile on half-hearted complaints from patients who claimed to have had trouble in receiving letters addressed to the sanitarium. These complaints always were cut off before they amounted to enough to warrant an investigation.

Say He Made Religion Pay.

Against President Miller the unkind charge has been made that he found religion profitable. His charity has been construed as a mask for business enterprise. It is admitted that at the sanitarium no distinctions were made. The wealthy man who wanted to sober up after a round of pleasure and the common drunk picked up in the street by the police were received there with equal willingness. From each one Miller took according to his means, it is asserted, and when a man had nothing there was nothing to be gained from him except advertising.

"Frequently we received donations of $1,000 from charitable people," Miller says himself, "and this enabled the sanitarium to continue its Christian work."

Miller's Career in Denver.

Most of the ups and downs of Miller's life took place in Denver. There he became a millionaire and there he was indicted. He started his patent medicine scheme and established branch houses over the country. He advertised, and that is what prejudiced the physicians against him, he asserts. That explains the animus of the Health department to him, he asserts.

At the high tide of his success he wanted to establish large headquarters for his medical combine in Chicago, and that's the scheme which put the first crimp in his financial standing and resulted in his indictment.

Has Followed Many Callings.

These are the principal events in the life of the sanitarium President, but the other part of his career has not been uneventful. He was born in Arcadia, O., and received an academic education. He was President of the Y. M. C. A. in Emporia, Kas. He also was city editor of an Emporia newspaper. For some action of the paper he and all his associates were put on trial, but acquitted. He also studied law and practiced some time. He went in the grocery business and then undertook the sale of patent medicine, advertising a cure for certain diseases.

Makes Chicago His Headquarters.

Miller came to Chicago in 1898 and opened an office in the McVicker Theater Building. Soon he conceived the idea of using "medicated sand" for stomach trouble, and advertised it as a "sure cure for dyspepsia." The "medicated sand" he says is a part of the treatment administered to patients at the St. Luke Sanitarium.

Soon he branched out and established his sanitarium. He made it a semi-religious institution and has secured the support of some churches by his attitude towards religion. He has met with opposition from the Health department in various ways. Before he moved into the Hotel Woodruff he had the sanitarium established at Seventeenth street and Indiana avenue, but the residents objected. What they did not like, it is said, was the constant coming and going of patrol wagons with the city's contribution of drunken men.

Having no other way of attacking Miller the residents caused suit to be brought against him for violation of the smoke ordinances, and Justice Gibbon inflicted a fine of $60, but the fine was remitted on the condition that he get out of the neighborhood.

He made application for a license to operate a hospital at Ohio and Rush streets, on the North Side, but Medical Inspector Hunt advised against granting the permit, and it was refused. Then Miller found the Hotel Woodruff, and again made application for a license. Again Inspector Hunt advised against the issuance, on the ground that the building was not fit for such purposes, and it was refused again. But here the discovery that the hospital ordinance was defective was made, and Miller has been allowed to run without opposition since.

What Superintendent Bicknell Says.

What Superintendent Ernest Bicknell of the Bureau of Charities thinks of Miller and his scheme is expressed in the following:

"Miller has several times applied for our indorsement and has uniformly been refused. The plan that the society receive 75 per cent of the proceeds on treatments given to patients sent by the Bureau of Charities did not appeal to me. It seemed to me that the idea of profit entered too largely into the calculations of Mr. Miller and kept the society from figuring as a purely charitable institution. I am convinced of the sincerity of those who labored with Mr. Miller for the society, but from what I had heard of the man I was not satisfied with his history, and so he never has received the indorsement of the Bureau.

PLACING BLAME FOR FIRE.

station for conference with him. Last night, after his bond had been fixed at $5,000 and he decided to trust his chances to the habeas corpus proceedings this morning before Judge Chetlain, he was sitting in the station with some of his ministerial friends proclaiming that the city Health department was persecuting him because once he had advertised a patent medicine and had made money out of it.

During the day his attorney, S. K. Markham, was endeavoring to secure his release on the writ which will be sought today. Miller and his attorney hoped that this would be granted without delay. His failure he blames to the "prejudicial action" of the Health department authorities.

Will Amend Ordinances.

While Miller is attempting to regain his liberty the investigation into the status of the sanitarium and the movement to change the hospital ordinance will proceed. At present the ordinances are practically dead letters. The provision requiring a license cannot be enforced, it is asserted, as that would mean the closing of every hospital in the city.

For that reason Miller has been allowed to operate his sanitarium without any oversight by the health authorities. Even with the ordinances effective, the officials of the department claim that the Building department and not the Health department is responsible for the condition of affairs, aside from "sanitary and moral conditions." These it is the province of the Health department to safeguard.

For a hospital to operate in Chicago the ordinance requires the consents of property-owners in the block in which it is located and in the opposite side of the street. It is claimed that not a hospital in the city could meet these requirements. When this was realised Mayor Harrison, at the request of Health Commissioner Reynolds, called the attention of the City Council to the condition and asked for a revision. The matter was sent to the Judiciary committee and Alderman Alling was made chairman of the subcommittee to proceed with the revising of the code in this particular. Nothing has been done as yet, but Alderman Alling announces that the subcommittee will meet this week.

Condemns Many Hospitals.

"Three-fourths of the hospitals in Chicago are death traps," said Secretary Pritchard, explaining the attitude of the department towards the hospital question. "The occurrence at the St. Luke sanitarium would be duplicated in a majority of the hospitals.

"The hospital population of Chicago is estimated at about 10,000 and it is largely a helpless population. The people are bedridden. With such people in buildings which are far from fireproof you have the possibilities of such a disaster every time there is a fire."

By inspectors of the Building department who examined the building during the day it was pronounced unfit for hospital purposes. When it was under the hotel management the Building department ordered several changes made. Inspector Lense said:

"The building was not suitable for a hospital. As it was put up shortly after the Chicago fire the department could not order changes in its general structure."

Nagel's Theory of the Fire.

John P. Nagel, the inventor of the gasoline plant, thinks the fire might have been due to spontaneous combustion in some rags near the base of the elevator shaft which had been soaked by drippings of oil. A thorough examination shows plainly that the fire did not come direct from the boiler or from the gasoline machine. The gasoline tank was being filled from a barrel in the alley when the fire occurred. Neither barrel nor tank was set on fire. The cause of the fire, whatever it was, was close to the elevator shaft.

While the gasoline machine did not directly cause the fire, there had been a great deal of fear of it among the hospital employés.

Story of Alderman Kent's Attendant.

A. W. Wattles, the attendant who had charge of Alderman Kent's ward, and who was so badly burned that there is little hope of his recovery, made a brief statement between his groans to a TRIBUNE reporter yesterday regarding the treatment of Mr. Kent.

"Yes," said he, "'Blind Billy' was tied when the fire took place. He had been violent the night before and had knocked down one of the attendants, Frank Johnson. It was found absolutely necessary to bind him, as had been done before during similar violent spells. It was only when he was violent that this was done. The treatment of patients generally was kind. As for the building, it was a regular old firetrap. At least that is my opinion of it."

Plans for Kent Funeral.

Arrangements for the funeral of Alderman Kent were made yesterday by the County Council committee named for that purpose. It was decided that the Aldermen should assemble in the City Clerk's office at 8:30 o'clock this morning, where they will take carriages for the Kent residence, 2504 Princeton avenue, and accompany the body to All Saints' Church, where the services will be held. Interment will be at Calvary. The pallbearers will be Aldermen Sloan, Doubek, Coughlin, McInerney, and Carey, who compose the committee, and Alderman Litzinger.

CITY COUNCIL ADJOURNS AGAIN.

Death of Alderman Kent Causes a Second Postponement, This Time Till June 18.

The City Council adjourned last evening until June 18 after the introduction of the report of the Committee on track elevation. The reason for adjournment was that it is not customary for the Council to transact any business while a member is dead and unburied, and so the tragic death of Alderman Kent resulted in a second adjournment.

The meeting was postponed until next Wednesday because it was thought that the Democratic primaries and county convention would interfere with any gathering this week and the Democratic State convention is to be held next Tuesday at Springfield.

Alderman Jackson sent in ordinances for the elevation of the Burlington tracks in Sixteenth street and of the Illinois Central and other roads at Grand Crossing. He explained his action by saying it was necessary that these ordinances be acted on before vacation.

As a matter of emergency the Council passed the ordinance for the paving of Archer avenue with asphalt between State street and Stewart avenue and between Canal street and Ashland avenue, at an estimated cost of $107,000.

FIRE VICTIM'S WIFE ENDS LIFE.

Mrs. Josephine Bishop of St. Louis, Whose Husband Was Killed in Chicago Blaze, Commits Suicide.

St. Louis, Mo., June 10.—[Special.]—Mrs. Josephine Bishop, wife of James E. Bishop, who perished in the fire in the St. Luke's society sanitarium, committed suicide this morning by swallowing carbolic acid. The body was discovered by Mrs. Johanna Greechels, the mother of Mrs. Bishop. On the dresser was a penciled note, reading:

"Dear Mother: This is terrible.
"JOSEPHINE."

On the floor lay a morning paper containing an account of the burning of the sanitarium in Chicago. It is supposed that after Mrs. Bishop read the story of the fire she became despondent and decided to take her own life. The dead woman was 30 years of age.

The Bishop home is at 2808 Woods avenue, and that of Mrs. Greechels at 2818 Woods avenue. When the mother of Mrs. Bishop read the account of the fire in Chicago by which her son-in-law lost his life, she hurried over to the home of her daughter, only to find her dead.

HEAVY LOSS IN CYCLONE.

MANY LIVES REPORTED LOST IN NORTHERN MINNESOTA.

Sparsely Settled Part of the State Is Swept for Distance of Twenty Miles and Many Farm Buildings Are Destroyed—No Towns Directly in Path of the Storm—Actual Number of the Persons Killed Is Difficult to Ascertain.

St. Paul, Minn., June 10.—A tornado of marked severity prevailed yesterday evening over sections of Clay and Becker Counties and across the southern portions of the White Earth Indian Reservation.

It is reported that fifteen lives were lost, many people injured, and great damage done to farm property, many dwellings, barns, and outbuildings being destroyed. The region throughout which the storm prevailed is comparatively sparsely settled and remote from telegraphic communication.

The storm first struck northwest of the town of Ulen, in Clay County, whence it traveled southeasterly across the northern part of Becker County, striking the towns of Foss, Atlanta, and Walworth, along the lower edge of the White Earth Reservation.

Heavy Losses Near Ulen.

Ulen, Minn., June 10.—[Special.]—A cyclone swept across the country west of here yesterday afternoon, and many lives are reported lost.

A strip half a mile wide and twenty miles long is laid waste, and everything in the path of the storm was wrecked.

Four miles north of Ulen three members of the family of Andrew Horim were instantly killed, and one other was so badly injured that he may die.

Hundreds of head of live stock were killed.

The farmhouses of the following were destroyed: Arnek Kneutzon, Henry Lysno, Sam Houge, John Gunderson, John Morcz, S. O. Mossaly, Paul Smzak, Ole Johnsonberg, A. Sporckk, and John Berg.

White Earth, Minn., June 10.—A storm passed over the southwestern portion of the White Earth Indian reservation yesterday, leaving death and destruction in its wake. The storm was particularly severe in Walworth and Atlantic Townships, and fifteen persons are reported killed.

Deaths Near Lake Park.

Lake Park, Minn., June 10.—A tornado struck twelve miles north of here yesterday, sweeping a strip of land two miles wide and three miles long. It destroyed nine farmhouses and killed ten persons. The church at Spangele was demolished.

Severe Blow in Iowa.

Des Moines, Ia., June 10.—A storm tonight struck the Northwestern railway line, one mile east of Jordan, forty miles northeast of Des Moines. Over a mile of telegraph wide and three miles long.

One person was killed, ten were injured, and the homes of nine families were destroyed. Mrs. Berg, whose home was near Voss Postoffice, was killed by flying timbers while seeking shelter.

The Sangelo church was demolished, as were several barns. There are rumors of other lives lost, but these cannot be substantiated, and persons who have visited the scene discredit the stories of greater loss of life.

20-HOURS CHICAGO TO NEW YORK.

Pennsylvania Short Line.

Beginning with June 15, the Pennsylvania Lines will run a daily passenger train of the best modern Equipment, to be known as "The Pennsylvania Special," from Chicago to New York in 20 hours, leaving Chicago at 12 o'clock noon, and reaching New York next morning at 9 o'clock.

The above will be in addition to the present Chicago and New York train service of the Pennsylvania Lines, "The Pennsylvania Limited" and other trains running through as usual.

For particular information address H. R. Dering, Assistant General Passenger Agent, 248 South Clark street, Chicago.

MYSTERY OF MISSING GIRL MADE DEEPER BY LETTER.

Missive Hints of Suicide, but Is Written in a Masculine Hand—Mother Fears Abduction.

A letter hinting of suicide fails to convince the police that Fanny Scharfin, 14 years old, disappeared from her mother's home at 235 Maxwell street of her own free will. The girl dropped from sight on Sunday. Yesterday her mother, Mrs. Anna Scharfin, received the following note, written in a strange hand:

"Dear Mother: I am tired of life and intend to end it all. Do not grieve. Lovingly,
"FANNY."

The postmark was "Station U," on the South Side, and the police say the writing was that of a man. The girl's home life is said to have been happy, and her mother scouts the idea of suicide. She fears another "Mother" Lyons case.

The South Chicago police were asked last night to search for Louis McDermitt, 18 years old, and David Wallace, 12 years old, who have disappeared. Wallace is the son of the general superintendent of the Lehigh Valley Coal company, and McDermott's father is a court reporter.

CRUSHED UNDER TROLLEY CAR.

Arnold Matthews Killed at Wentworth Avenue and Harrison Street Early This Morning.

Stumbling on the street car rails made slippery by the heavy fall of rain, Arnold Matthews, 3242 Princeton avenue, fell in front of a Wentworth avenue electric car at Harrison street early this morning and was crushed, probably fatally. The fender and wheels of the car pinioned his form so tightly that the street car men and passengers were unable to release him. A wrecking wagon was summoned and it was over half an hour before the heavy car was raised and Matthews removed.

A street car accident in Halsted street at 8:30 o'clock yesterday morning resulted in bruises to three persons. A south-bound Halsted street car ran into an east-bound Thirty-fifth street car. The injured are: Miss Jennie M. Vail, La Grange, head assistant at Burroughs School; Arthur Dillon, police messenger, 3423 Wood street; and James Madden, police messenger, 3706 Cottage Grove avenue. Witnesses to the accident say that the Thirty-fifth street car ran over the crossing without stopping.

ROCKING BOAT NEARLY FATAL.

Boys Upset Craft in Lincoln Park and Policeman Rescues Them and Girl Companion.

Rocking a boat to frighten the people in it nearly caused the drowning of a party of four in Lincoln Park lagoon yesterday. The boat was overturned and Park Policeman Isaacson swam out to the rescue.

The Rescued.

Boyes, Jennie, 16 years old, 48 Burling street; going under the water for the third time when Isaacson seized her.

Brockill, Clyde, 18 years old, 48 Burling street; clung to overturned boat until assisted to shore.

Boster, Steven, Larrabee and Wisconsin streets; taken from water into boat that went to the rescue.

STOP BOARD OF TRADE LEAK.

Kansas City and Chicago Traders Discover Ingenious Scheme to Filch Quotations.

Kansas City, Mo., June 10.—The Kansas City Board of Trade, with the assistance of representatives of the Chicago Board of Trade, today discovered and destroyed the "leak" by which the Chicago stock market quotations have been getting into the hands of bucket shop operators. It was a contrivance by which the clicks of a telegraph instrument were automatically telephoned into the bucket shops. The contrivance was found in the walls of the office of a broker occupying rooms adjoining the Board of Trade.

QUAY'S MAN IS IN LEAD.

PREDICTIONS ARE FOR PENNYPACKER FOR GOVERNOR.

Elkin Faction Is Worsted in Preliminary Meeting of State Committee and Committee on Contests—Senator Penrose to Be the Temporary Chairman of Convention, Which Will Meet Today—Bitter Fights for Leadership.

Harrisburg, Pa., June 10.—[Special.]—Various predictions are made concerning the results of tomorrow's Republican convention. The forecast most generally accepted is that Judge Samuel W. Pennypacker of Philadelphia will be the nominee for Governor; that ex-State Senator William M. Brown of Newcastle will be nominated for Lieutenant Governor, and Major Isaac B. Brown of Erie will be the candidate for Secretary of Internal Affairs.

Senator Quay expects to succeed General Frank Reeder of Easton as chairman of the Republican State committee and to conduct the campaign this fall. Attorney General John P. Elkin is still battling for the nomination for Governor, but his most sanguine adherents, it is said, concede Pennypacker's nomination.

Elkin is pledged in his speeches during his campaign to stand by the ticket, and it is naturally expected that his adherents will do likewise.

Pennypacker Has 206 Votes.

Senator Penrose will be temporary chairman of the convention and Congressman Joseph C. Sibley of Franklin was selected for permanent chairman.

The Pennypacker-Watres caucus was attended by 206 delegates, 180 being necessary to control the convention.

In making up the roll of delegates for tomorrow's convention and naming the temporary officers, the Quay party clearly had the advantage and secured two additional members on the Committee on Contests after a hard fight.

Meeting Is Stormy One.

Senator Quay, the leader of the Pennypacker forces, and Attorney General Akin, who was in personal command of his adherents, shook their fingers in each other's face and threatened political reprisals if each was not given fair treatment in the disposition of the contested seats in the convention.

Chairman Reeder accused Senator Quay of making a deliberate misstatement, and the Senator instantly replied that this was an insult which he resented. The Pennypacker forces had a decisive majority in the committee and United States Senator Penrose was named for temporary chairman.

During the proceedings Senator Quay challenged the right of Chairman Reeder in appointing a member of the committee from Chester County to fill a death vacancy. The Senator contended that under the party rules the appointment should have been made by the delegates from the county to the last State convention. He protested against the chairman's arbitrary appointment.

In a further controversy over Chairman Reeder's appointment of a committee of five on contested seats, Senator Quay said the committee named was not in sympathy with the majority of the State committee. He said three members are for Elkin and two for Pennypacker. He moved that the names of Senator Penrose and A. S. L. Shields of Philadelphia be added.

Chairman Reeder said that he made the appointment without any regard to factions, and that he did not know how they stood in the factional fight.

Mr. Elkin said he would be willing to trust any committee which the State chairman would appoint, because he believed it would be fair and honest.

"We only ask," he continued, "that the delegates who have been fairly elected be seated. We don't want any nomination that does not come fairly."

"You will get no nomination that comes any way," retorted Senator Quay.

Instantly Mr. Elkin was on his feet, and, shaking his finger in Mr. Quay's face, said: "I will get the nomination if the people have their way in Pennsylvania. Fair play is what we want."

"That's what you are going to get," replied Mr. Quay, who also was on his feet, shaking his finger at Mr. Elkin.

"I don't care," said Mr. Elkin, "whether you put these two men on the committee or not. You can pack it if you want to. You can also seat delegates if you want to, but you have got to reckon with the people, and that reckoning will come."

Point for Quay Carried.

The motion that Messrs. Penrose and Shields be added to the committee was adopted by 72 to 45.

NAME TICKET IN ARKANSAS.

Democratic Convention Indorses James P. Clarke for Senator and Renominates Governor Davis.

For United States Senator [indorsed]	James P. Clarke
For Senator	Jefferson Davis
For Secretary of State	J. W. Crockett of Dewitt
For Attorney General	G. W. Murphy of Little Rock
For State Treasurer	H. C. Tipton of Harrison
For State Superintendent of Public Instruction	J. N. Hinmon of Pine Bluff
For State Auditor	T. C. Monroe of Magnolia
For Associate Justice of the Supreme Court	B. B. Battle of Little Rock
For Railroad Commissioners	J. W. Phillips of Newport, B. B. Hudgins of Harrison and J. E. Hampton of Fordyce
For Commissioner of Mines, Manufactures, and Agriculture	H. T. Bradford of Lonoke

Little Rock, Ark., June 10.—The Democratic State convention, which opened today, indorsed former Governor James P. Clarke for Democratic nominee for United States Senator to succeed Senator James K. Jones. The resolution was adopted by a vote of 420 to 72.

Governor Jefferson Davis was unanimously renominated, the name of Colonel E. W. Rector of Hot Springs being withdrawn.

Governor Davis, in addressing the convention and accepting the nomination, announced himself a candidate for United States Senator to succeed Senator James H. Berry, whose term expires in 1905.

The resolutions reiterate the Kansas City platform and denounce trusts.

WILL TEST APPORTIONMENT.

Suit Begun by Democrats for Ruling on Senatorial Districts Established by Legislature.

Springfield, Ill., June 10.—[Special.]—Proceedings were instituted in the Supreme Court today to test the constitutionality of the Senatorial apportionment passed by the Legislature of 1901. Suit was filed on relation of Colonel John J. Heffernan, directed against R. L. Carlock, County Clerk of McLean County. The suit was begun at the instance of the Democratic State Central committee. Maurice T. Moloney, former Attorney General, and Senator Lawrence B. Stringer of Lincoln have been retained by the committee as counsel. Under the apportionment act of 1893, the County of McLean constituted the Twentieth Senatorial District, but under the act of 1901 McLean and Ford Counties were placed in the district constituting the Twenty-sixth District. A recent convention held by the Democrats in the old Twentieth District nominated Colonel Heffernan. The nomination papers were rejected by the Secretary of State and County Clerk because delegates from Ford County were not present at the convention. The relators allege the unconstitutionality consists in the inadequate population of the district.

ADVISERS SELECT MEN FOR JUDGES

Walker and Kersten Among Those Picked by Democratic Subcommittee.

ALL THE NAMES IN TODAY

Corporation Counsel's Boom Is Aided at Meeting of the Quinn Forces.

All the subcommittees and the executive branch of the Democratic Advisory committee will make their reports on candidates today.

The committees agreed that no names should be given out until the final list is made up, but it is understood that Charles M. Walker, George Kersten, William Dillon, N. H. Barnum, Captain William P. Black, William Thompson, and Thomas M. Hoyne have been passed on as good timber for the Judicial ticket.

Before the meeting of the general committee at 4 p. m. the Executive committee will receive returns from the subcommittees on candidates for all nominations.

Finds Too Much Timber.

It seems that the Legislative committee is having more trouble than all the others combined. It has discovered a surprisingly large number of ambitious Democrats who want to go to Springfield as lawmakers next winter and to keep the list of recommendation down to three for each nomination, would, it is feared, offend many candidates.

Besides the seekers after legislative office are so numerous that the committee has found it impossible to investigate more than a small per cent of them on such platform issues as municipal ownership, franchise legislation, taxation, the referendum, etc. Requests from labor and so-called independent political organizations for interviews with the legislative aspirants could not be granted, for the reason that the time is too short.

Chairman Gottlieb of the subcommittee and Mayor Harrison held a conference yesterday with interests involved on the question of postponing the Senatorial conventions for two weeks.

Those participating besides the Mayor and Chairman Gottlieb were: George A. Schilling and William E. Burns of the Public Ownership league, T. J. McElligott of the Referendum league; James H. Bowman, Federation of Labor; James O'Connor and James Brennock, Illinois Electors' league; Senator J. P. Mahoney of the County Democracy, and E. J. Lindholm of the Knights of Labor.

The request for postponement in the matter of the Senatorial candidates was defeated. Mayor Harrison took the ground that only the delegates to these conventions have the power to postpone. He thought, too, that the candidates who go out and get the delegates would have something to say about it.

Lahiff for Appellate Clerk.

Edward M. Lahiff, private secretary to Mayor Harrison, announced last night that he was a candidate for the Democratic nomination for the Clerk of the Appellate Court.

It is understood that the three men who will be recommended by the Advisory committee for this nomination are Mr. Lahiff, B. J. Mullaney, and Irving Washington. The latter is City Purchasing Agent and Mr. Mullaney is a newspaper man.

The three men most talked of for recommendation for member of the Board of Review are Lyman E. Cooley, L. E. McGann, and Joseph Donnersberger.

Quinn Meeting Booms Walker.

Charles M. Walker was enthusiastically indorsed last evening for a Judicial nomination by one of the most remarkable anteprimary meetings ever held in Chicago. It was a gathering of the Quinn forces in the Twenty-first Ward, and the North Side Turner Hall was too small to hold the crowd. The meeting was remarkable for the reason that arrangements for primaries in other days always have been conducted in back rooms or behind closed doors, and also because of the kind of men who made up the crowd.

All classes and conditions were there. Sitting alongside Alderman Honoré Palmer was Samuel A. Lynde, general counsel for the Northwestern railroad and member of the Democratic Advisory committee. Scattered through the hall were other members of the same committee.

The Walker resolutions recited the services of Mr. Walker to the ward as Alderman, and to the city as Corporation Counsel. It "heartily indorsed" his candidacy for a place on the Judicial ticket.

Accompanying this indorsement was a resolution nominating James A. Quinn as the committeeman from the ward as against Robert E. Burke.

Palmer Disproves a Report.

Alderman Palmer in his speech said he had intended to leave the city yesterday, but as it was reported that he was going because he had deserted the Quinn cause he had decided to stay over to show by his presence that the story was false.

Then came a speech by James A. Quinn himself, who brought down the house when he said:

"Burke has tried to send out the story that I am willing to 'lay down.' I acknowledge I don't cover much ground when I do lay down, but it takes a bigger man than Burke to put me down."

Walker Says He's For Quinn.

During the afternoon a statement was given out by one of Burke's friends that Corporation Counsel Walker had said he was not taking any part in the Twenty-first Ward primary fight. Speaking of it last evening, Walker said:

"What I said was that I did not regard myself as an issue in that fight. I want to say, however, I not only hope Quinn will win against Burke, but I will do anything I can to help him win."

SPALDING CUT OFF BY FATHER.

Former Chicago Banker, Now in Joliet Penitentiary, Is Disinherited in Will.

Nashua, N. H., June 10.—[Special.]—The will of Solomon Spalding, who died in this city last week, was filed for probate today. His estate is left to his two children, John A. Spalding of Philadelphia and Mrs. Sarah G. Whittemore of this city. His son, Charles W. Spalding, the Chicago banker, now in prison at Joliet, Ill., is cut off without a cent.

The will was drawn on Dec. 5, 1896, some time after the financial troubles with which his son, Charles W. Spalding, was connected. The estate will amount to more than $250,000.

The will says: "To my son, Charles W. Spalding, I bequeath nothing, having done something for him in early life, and he has ample means now."

Mr. Spalding stipulated that six notes due him and signed by Charles W. Spalding, and which he had placed in the hands of Lizzie G. Spalding, Charles R. Spalding, and Sarah G. Spalding, are to be shared equally by the three, and that if they remain unpaid at his death they are to be paid from his estate.

HAVE RIVAL TO NORTHCOTT.

Waukegan Modern Woodmen Want C. T. Heydecker for Head Consul.

Lake County Modern Woodmen of America have started a fight against Lieutenant Governor Northcott for the office of Head Consul of the order. At the meeting of Lake camp in Waukegan a resolution was adopted recommending C. T. Heydecker of that city for the office to succeed the incumbent. The resolution will be sent to camps throughout the country.

"GOLDEN DOZEN" OF NEWSPAPERS.

The American Newspaper Directory (the highest journalistic authority in the United States) for December, 1901, gives some facts concerning the notable newspapers of the country. The American Newspaper Directory uses certain signs to denote the relative standing and merit of the whole field of newspaperdom which comes under its notice, and one of these signs is the mystic symbol [⊙] denoting "golden," which stands for high quality, and is thus explained:

"Advertisers value this paper more for the class and quality of its circulation than for the mere number of copies printed."

Such papers are credited with a single symbol; but there is a higher grade, according to this standard authority, which have BOTH QUALITY AND QUANTITY, and require the DOUBLE GOLDEN SYMBOL [⊙⊙] to describe adequately their standing. This baker's dozen of thirteen "famous newspapers" is named in the supposed order of their merit in the following list:

A Teamsters' Arbitration Board.

After two teamsters' or drivers' strikes the employers have taken the initial step toward establishing a permanent board of arbitration. Representatives of the State street merchants, coal, ice, express, and other companies met yesterday to prepare plans to be submitted to a committee of the unions.

A year ago a teamsters' strike was unheard of. For some reason the labor leaders did not seem to appreciate the peculiar opportunities which the teamsters' employment gave them to enforce demands. Perhaps the ability of the employers to send to the country for drivers if they were determined not to give in acted as a preventive. The first time that the teamsters attracted attention was in connection with the strike in Boston of the freight handlers of the New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad. The coal teamsters in Chicago were the next to strike and then followed the walkout at the Stock-Yards and in State street. The employers announce that they are not combining to repress the teamsters, but to facilitate agreement as to wages and hours of work. The movement is voluntary on the part of the employers. If it is possible to provide for an amicable settlement of future difficulties, with any assurance that the settlement will be lasting, employers, employés, and the public may be grateful for the inconvenience and losses which resulted from the recent strikes.

EVADING RESPONSIBILITY.

The leaders of the House of Representatives are reported to be unanimously in favor of leaving to the President's discretion the advisability of laying a cable across the Pacific. Some Senators are inclined to charge the President with the selection of the canal route and to make the enforcement of the reduction on imports from Cuba dependent upon his opinion of the profits accruing to the sugar trust. Congress is showing an inclination to put on the President the responsibility which it should naturally bear. Although there are times when, for the sake of petty politics, it denies to the Chief Executive or the heads of departments the liberty of action which is essential to the proper performance of their duties. In time of war or in the settlement of problems arising therefrom in distant countries, it is necessary to depend, upon the discretion of the executive or agents appointed by him to study conditions. No one will say that Congress did otherwise than well when it voted $50,000,000 "for national defense" and left William McKinley free to spend it as he saw fit. The Philippine insurrection could not have been stamped out and a civil government, suited to the needs of the Filipinos, have been established except by the executive. Congress was not conversant with the military necessities of the country at the outbreak of the war with Spain and it is still comparatively ignorant of conditions in the Philippine archipelago.

The cases of the canal and the cable are different. All the expert testimony which can serve as a guide to the President in the selection of Panama or Nicaragua is at the disposal of Congress. There is no phase of the cable question which the leaders of the House cannot investigate as well as Theodore Roosevelt. They ought to know as well as he what the sentiment of the people is. The House leaders are unwilling to take upon their own shoulders the burden of deciding the question and, therefore, propose to unload it on the already overtried President. The voters do not elect Representatives to have them abdicate in favor of the President, no matter how great may be the public confidence in his ability and integrity. They expect the House and Senate to provide for expert investigation of problems like that of the canal and the cable, and then after the evidence has been weighed in committee and on the floor to come to a decision and go before the country upon their record.

THE HOSPITAL HORROR.

It is not a difficult matter to locate the causes of the calamity which occurred at the hospital on Wabash avenue on Monday afternoon. They are as apparent as the dreadful consequences. The Woodruff Hotel building was built for a large family boarding-house and was not adapted in any way for hospital purposes. It is thirty years old and not fireproof in any sense of the word. Even when used as a hotel it was difficult for a stranger to find his way about it or get out of it, it is so cut up with small halls and passages. Even if it be true, as the Building Commissioner says, that as far as the building ordinances are concerned it complies with the law, it did not comply with the requirements of a hospital in any way, particularly of a hospital for the treatment of persons who are virtually insane and unable properly to take care of themselves in time of danger or of any sudden emergency.

In the face of such a condition of things the managers were allowed to run a hospital without a license or supervision of any kind. The health authorities were absolutely ignorant of what went on within its walls. Conceding that everything was properly conducted, even then it was grossly careless, if not criminally reckless, to allow an institution of such a nature, so insecurely housed and so remote from public or official scrutiny, to be carried on without official supervision.

It should have been at once apparent that a fire starting in the basement would shoot up through the elevator shaft and spread out in all directions over the top floor, as was the case at the Park Avenue Hotel, New York, in February last, and as has been the case often before. It should also have been apparent that in case of fire there was no easy means of egress from the upper floors of the building. To get to the fire escapes for the wretched unfortunates on that fifth floor was impossible. To leap from unbarred windows was fatal. And yet nearly all the patients in this nonfireproof hospital were on the fifth floor, the most of them behind barred windows, and there they were caught like rats in a trap and ten of them perished and scores were injured before help could get to them.

Such a calamity as this was needless and criminal. The investigation of it should be thorough and the responsibility fixed. The investigation cannot undo the mischief that has been done, but it may help to prevent similar horrors in the future by calling the attention of the Health and Building departments to the condition of other hospitals. It is the first duty of hospital managers to take every possible precaution to insure their patients against danger from fire, and that duty becomes all the more imperative when patients are in such a mental condition that they cannot help themselves. To place such patients on the fifth floor of a fire trap, lock them in their rooms, and bar the windows shows a disregard of the most ordinary precautions and an indifference which it is not harsh to call criminal.

THE TUNNEL GRANT.

The lively disagreement between members of the subcommittee of the Judiciary committee of the Council respecting the ordinance extending the rights of the Illinois Telegraph and Telephone company has had a salutary effect. There will be a deliberate, painstaking investigation of the matter. It is of so much importance that it deserves the full consideration it is to receive. The delay in action may be annoying to the persons interested in the company, who wish to push on with their work, but it is of more importance that rights of great value should not be granted without proper safeguards and adequate compensation.

One of the disputed questions is in regard to the compensation. This is a matter about which there may be an honest difference of opinion, for the receipts of the company are pure guesswork. There should be no effort to exact so much as to cripple the company, but the value of the privileges granted, in a growing city like this, presumably will warrant the largest rate of compensation which has been suggested, if not a higher rate. If there be a fear that the earnings will be small, the contingency may be guarded against by providing that the percentage of compensation shall be reduced if the gross earnings fall below a certain sum.

The requirement that the company shall not sell or assign its rights, to the striking out of which exception is taken by some Aldermen, is a requirement of little value, as experience has proved. The control of the company cannot be prevented from passing from one set of people to another. The amendment deferring the time when the city shall have a right to terminate the grant and buy the property at a fair cash valuation, does not appear to be material, in view of the fact that it is not likely the city will have in less than fifteen years the money with which to pay for the property.

It is essential that the tunnels shall not interfere with the subways which probably will have to be constructed at some future day. Until it shall have been determined that there can be no such interference final action should not be taken. When that point has been authoritatively determined the other matters in controversy can be adjusted with ease in a manner which will be satisfactory to the Council and the public.

TOO MANY MINES AND TOO MANY MEN.

The anthracite coal strikers are becoming restless. It is more and more difficult for their leaders to control them. There has been less violence than on some previous occasions, but there has been enough to show that the theory of a "pacific strike" is not acceptable to the rank and file of the miners. They believe in the use of physical force. It is the argument they understand best. Already men have been mobbed because they chose to work. Probably there would have been more rioting if the coal companies had made an effort to continue operations. If they shall attempt to reopen their mines rioting on a grand scale will begin and will have to be put down. The strike probably will be a failure in that event, but the miners will try again a few years later.

A special correspondent of the New York Times, writing from Wilkesbarre, sees no escape from the vicious circle of strikes against conditions which are oppressive for many, violence which has to be suppressed by force, and the return of the men to work under the old conditions, until there shall be a radical reorganization of the coal trade. The correspondent contends that neither by arbitration nor by any other device can permanent peace be had while there is a labor congestion in the coal fields. For this congestion the operators are responsible. They believed it would be to their advantage to have labor competition which would depress wages permanently. It is said that there are in the anthracite field 180,000 laborers who cannot be given more than 175 days' work in the year. The result is poverty and discontent. Too many mines by one-third are operated, and there are in the anthracite field at least 60,000 more men than are needed. If the surplus laborers were out of the way it would be possible for the operators to give the miners at least 200 days' work in the year at a fair daily wage.

The views of the correspondent are interesting and they may be sound. It is doubtful whether they will meet with favor from operators, who prefer a congested labor market, which necessarily keeps down the wage scale.

FROM PATTON TO WILSON.

In connection with Dr. Patton's resignation from the Presidency of Princeton University there are two things of special interest.

First, the attitude of the public. This can be discovered in the attitude of the newspapers. It is likely that there was no important newspaper in the United States which did not give Dr. Patton's resignation a fair amount of space. Many people are talking about the growing separation between university life and ordinary life. As a matter of fact the growth is all the other way. The reception given by the newspapers to an event like this one at Princeton shows in which direction things are going. The university has made up its mind to keep in close touch with the people, and this resolution on its part is reflected in the eager interest with which the people demand information with regard to university affairs. Let a university get an endowment, let a professor say that James J. Hill is a greater man than Darwin, let a President resign, and the whole country pricks up its ears to learn what is happening. Few parts of our national life are more closely scrutinized or more carefully criticised and commended than our institutions of learning. Which is a hopeful sign of the times.

The second thing of special interest is one which has been much remarked upon lately, but which is again brought to one's attention by the choice of Dr. Patton's successor. Professor Woodrow Wilson is a layman. He has been an historian and a litterateur. The disappearance of Dr. Patton means that the ranks of the ministerial Presidents will be sadly depleted. There is now Hadley of Yale, who is a political economist; there is Eliot of Harvard, who used to be a mathematician and a chemist before he took to administering a university; there is Butler of Columbia, who was a student of philosophy and pedagogy; there is James of Northwestern, another political economist; there is Angell of Michigan, whose academic specialty was modern European literature; there is Northrop of Minnesota, a lawyer; there is Jordan of Leland Stanford, a zoologist; there is Wheeler of California, a Grecian; there is Schurman of Cornell, a philosopher; there is Remsen of Johns Hopkins, a chemist; there is Hall of Clark, a psychologist; and so on.

All over the country the tendency toward lay Presidents is unmistakable. Faunce of Brown is a minister and Harper of Chicago used to be a professor of Hebrew in a theological seminary. These men are at present the most notable exceptions to a general rule. Dr. Patton was a college President of the old type. His theology was his forte. His career was watched closely by Chicago people since he was at one time a professor in what is now the McCormick Theological Seminary and afterwards pastor of the Jefferson Park Presbyterian Church. But Dr. Patton is gone and in his place comes Woodrow Wilson, author of "The State," "Congressional Government," and "Mere Literature," but ignorant, except in the general way, of the science of theology. The conduct of a university has come to be almost as serious a business enterprise as the conduct of a railway corporation. What is needed is executive ability, shrewdness, tact. In search of these qualities trustees seem to have preferred to choose laymen.

THE SENATORIAL APPORTIONMENT.

The constitutionality of the Senatorial apportionment act of 1901 is challenged. It is alleged that in the case of some districts the requirements of the constitution as to contiguity and compactness of territory and reasonable uniformity of population have been violated. It is alleged also that the constitutional provision that an apportionment shall be made every ten years has been disregarded in that the preceding apportionment having been made in 1893 there should not be another until 1903.

When the Republicans questioned the constitutionality of the apportionment of 1893 they presented to the courts instances of inequality in population and of a lack of contiguity and compactness in territory quite as glaring, to state it mildly, as any to which attention is now called. The courts declined to intervene. They held the Legislature had not exercised its discretion in such a manner as to invalidate its work.

The other point made against the new apportionment law is frivolous. The constitution says the State shall be apportioned every ten years, "beginning in 1871." The first year of each decade was selected because the General Assembly is in session then and the population figures of the new census are at hand. It is expedient that a new apportionment should be made as soon as the figures are available. An apportionment should have been made in 1891, but was not because the Republicans controlled one branch of the Legislature and the Democrats the other, and they could not agree. The failure to agree in 1891 did not necessitate the putting off the next apportionment to 1903, two years after the figures of the last census were available. The General Assembly of 1901 made the apportionment at the time prescribed by the constitution.

A DISGRACE TO ILLINOIS.

The damage done the negro school near Eldorado, Ill., is a disgrace to the State. The buildings have been injured, the crops destroyed, and the teachers and pupils driven in terror from the neighborhood on the eve of the commencement exercises. The Normal and Industrial Institute was organized along the lines of Tuskegee to instruct the negroes of this part of the country in trades and agriculture, and now the trustees of the institute are compelled to consider the advisability of moving away because in the State of Illinois it has not been protected from mob violence. It is time for the Governor of the State to investigate the situation in Eldorado, and if the school cannot carry on its work without interruption by violence to assemble such force as may be necessary to protect it. The miscreants who damaged the buildings should be arrested and punished.

In Southern communities negroes have been subjected often to barbarous treatment, but since the Kuklux days there has been no breaking-up of negro schools and driving away of their teachers. The Southern people appreciate the importance of a practical education for the colored people. They have a high opinion of the work carried on at Tuskegee. It would be impossible to raise a mob to break it up or break up any school like it. It is reserved for an Illinois mob to endeavor to prevent the education of black men in a way calculated to make them useful to themselves and to the community.

If an outrage like that at Eldorado is allowed to go unpunished it will be apparent that there are some sections of Illinois where the negro, honestly trying to better his condition, is exposed to worse treatment than if he were domiciled in any of the States south of the Ohio.

IN A MINOR KEY.

A Look Ahead.

By the premature explosion of a giant firecracker Johnny Fletcher, aged 7, of No. 329 Pumpernickel street, lost three fingers of his right hand yesterday.

Boys who were celebrating Independence day threw a lighted firecracker in front of a horse, causing a runaway, in which four little girls belonging to the family of George Walker, 695 Bomb street, were seriously injured, and one of them may die.

A premature explosion of fireworks at the dwelling of Hiram Akenside, 7287 Normal avenue, at 9 o'clock last evening, inflicted severe injuries upon several members of the family and set the house on fire, causing a loss of about $500. Fully insured.

Policemen are looking for a boy of the name of Louis Lunkenhead, who threw a cannon cracker into a group of children playing on the lawn at No. 3979 Wentworth avenue, painfully wounding Millie Dennett, a crippled child that could not run fast enough to get away.

A pistol bullet fired last night by some unknown person dangerously wounded Cornelius Wagstaff, an aged man residing at No. 4498 Vincennes avenue.

Boys playing with firecrackers in the alley in the rear of Brinkerhoff's feed store, West Fifty-seventh street, near Green, set fire to a barn, and four horses were burned to death.

Charley Hagadorn of No. 727 Hornspiker street lost a thumb and one eye by the bursting of a toy cannon while celebrating Independence day.

Tommy Trickett, a newsboy, was run over yesterday afternoon by a horse that had been frightened by the discharge of a cannon cracker. Both legs were broken. Taken to hospital.

Still, Mayor Harrison, these things inculcate a spirit of patriotism in the youthful breast. Don't disturb the boys in their harmless way of celebrating our nation's birthday.

Circumventing a Trust.

"How much for this dressed chicken?" asked the customer, a resolute-looking man of middle age.

The butcher weighed the fowl, cut off the head and feet, and began to wrap it up.

"Seventy-five cents," he said.

"Well, I don't pay 75 cents for no chicken," said the other. "You can hang it back on the hook."

"Whereat he picked up the head and feet and threw them into his basket.

"You can sell the bird to some millionaire," he said, as he turned to go. "I'll take these. They'll keep me in chicken soup for two days."

Mark Twain So.

(With his own hands Dr. Samuel L. Clemens steered the St. Louis harbor boat, rechristened Mark Twain, up the Mississippi River today.—St. Louis press dispatch.)

There was cryin' and cursin', but Mark yelled out,
Over all the infernal roar:
"I'll hold her nozzle agin the bank
Till the last galoot's ashore!"

Through the thick, black smoke of the harbor boat
Mark Twain's loud drawl was heard,
And they all had trust in his cussedness
And knowed he would keep his word.

But soon as they run the gang plank out
They hurried to git ashore,
Fur they knowed Ole Mark hadn't steered a boat

Didn't Seem to Be a Mistake.

"I wrote it 'story of a beefsteak,'" said the reporter fiercely, "and it went in this morning 'story of a beefsteal!'"

"I saw it," replied the head proofreader, "but it seemed to be an improvement on the copy and I let it go that way."

THE VERMILION FLYCATCHER.

Description of the Nature Study Picture Given Free with Today's "Tribune."

The vermilion flycatcher (Pyrocephalus rubineus Mexicanus), which is the subject of the nature study given in THE TRIBUNE today, is the most beautiful of the American flycatcher family. The first part of its scientific name describes the most striking part of the bird's anatomy.

Pyrocephalus practically means fire-headed. The back of the bird in the main is fine dark brown, while the lower parts are vermilion. It has a full globular crest of whose striking color the nature study gives a full idea. The bird can raise this crest at will, and when it has lifted it at a little distance the head looks double its true size. The length of the vermilion flycatcher is six inches; its wing is three and one-quarter inches.

The habitat of the vermilion flycatcher is from southern Colorado and Arizona southward to Guatemala. It prefers the thickets near the water courses for its hunting ground and nesting place. Its habitat is spoken of as a hunting ground because the vermilion flycatcher is, in one sense, a bird of prey, for it lives entirely upon insects which it captures on the wing. The bird will sit absolutely motionless for some minutes and then dart out a few feet, returning instantly to its perch. A sharp snap of the beak, distinctly heard at many yards' distance, tells of the object of the pyrocephalus' launch into the air. Some little winged creature has fallen a victim to the flycatcher's appetite.

During the mating season the male vermilion flycatcher has a sweet, twittering song. At times, when it is wooing its mate, it will take a short, flight straight to the zenith and then poise in the air after the manner of the sparrow hawk. It builds its nest in a horizontal fork of a ratana tree, and at times in a mesquite. The nest is placed about six feet from the ground and externally is built of small twigs with a little softer material felted together. The rim of the nest is almost always covered with lichens. The cavity is lined with horsehairs and in the absence of these the hairs of wild animals are used. The female deposits three creamy white eggs with a ring of large brown or lilac spots at the greater end.

The flycatcher family, of which, as has been said, the vermilion is probably the most beautiful member, is represented in the United States by the well-known kingbird, the phoebe, the wood pewee, the great crested flycatcher, the olive sided, the chebeck, and some others, though these are the better known. It would require a considerable stretch of the musical imagination to think of any of the flycatcher's notes, with the sole exception of those of the vermilion flycatcher, as being a song. The phoebe's note being associated in the Northern States with the return of spring has a sweetness from this association, but if heard later, when the thrushes are in tune, it would get scant attention. The kingbird's note is more of a cry than a song and the great crested flycatcher has a harsh scream to which he is fond of giving vent at almost all times. The wood pewee builds one of the most beautiful nests known to bird architecture. Its little home looks like a lichen cup and to some degree the house of the vermilion flycatcher resembles that of his sober-clad cousin bird.

LETTER OF MARQUISE DE FONTENOY

Copyright, 1902, by the Marquise de Fontenoy.

M. BOURGEOIS, the French statesman who has just been elected to the Presidency of the Chamber of Deputies of Paris, an office which carries with it a salary of $20,000 a year, a magnificently furnished residence known as the "Petit Bourbon," besides all sorts of perquisites and allowances, was the principal French representative at the peace congress of The Hague, and is one of the most capable of French statesmen, having, in spite of his being only 50 years of age, repeatedly held the office of Premier and of Cabinet Minister. In between times he has taken the trouble to visit every capital of Europe, and there is not a single monarch in the old world with whom he is not on terms of personal acquaintance, and with whom he has not exchanged ideas. Indeed, no one entertains a higher regard for him than Emperor William, who has repeatedly received and entertained him at Berlin, while he is held in equally high esteem by the Czar, Emperor Francis Joseph, King Edward, and Victor Emmanuel.

Like the outgoing French Premier, Waldeck-Rousseau, he is a man of many accomplishments, one of which is a talent for sculpture. He studied the latter art under the direction of his old schoolmate, the sculptor Massoule, and has a studio of his own, and he may be found there whenever he has a moment of leisure, arrayed in the long sort of smock affected by artists, and busily engaged in molding pieces of clay as deftly as he succeeded in molding the policy of his country when Prime Minister. He is likewise fond of bicycling, and may often be seen wheeling through the Bois de Boulogne with his son George.

The latter was some eight or ten years ago the object of a great scare to his father and of numerous sensational stories in the French and foreign press. It was at the time of the Panama scandal, when M. Bourgeois, being Minister of Justice, was intrusted with the task of directing the campaign against those guilty of corruption and bribery in connection with the affair. George was at school at Paris and was bullied and pestered to such a degree by his schoolmates about the matter that he finally ran away and was discovered ten days later at Marseilles, the newspapers meanwhile being filled with the most melodramatic rumors to the effect that he had been kidnaped by such people as Arton, Reinach, and others incriminated by the Panama disclosure, for the purpose of being held as a hostage to prevent his father from continuing his attacks on the gang.

President Loubet's recent visit to the court of Copenhagen reminds me of the funny mistake made by King Christian at the time of the election of the late Felix Faure to the Presidency of the French republic. The first message of congratulation received by Faure after his inauguration from any foreign sovereign was an autograph letter most happily worded from Queen Victoria, whose French was quite as classically correct as her German. The second message was from King Christian who, in conveying his congratulation and good wishes to France's new Chief Magistrate, recalled "the delightful evening" which his Majesty had enjoyed at the royal opera at Copenhagen when M. Faure had filled there the principal rôle in "Faust." The King only subsequently discovered that Felix Faure, the statesman, and Faure, the famous operatic star and singer, although bearers of the same name, were entirely different persons.

Prince Albert of Saxe-Altenberg, whose death has just taken place in Germany, is not, as has been stated in the cable dispatches, the next heir of the reigning Duke of Saxe-Altenberg, but his cousin. The next heir to the reigning Duke is his younger brother Moritz, a man near 70 years of age, who has long enjoyed the reputation of being the most utterly blasé man in Europe. Although in perfect physical condition, he has been in the habit of staying in bed for weeks together, not because he was ailing, but purely because, to use his own words, there was "nothing worth getting up for." Under the circumstances, it is probable that when his elder brother, the Duke dies, Moritz will abandon his right of succession to his only son, Ernest, on the ground that it would be "too much of a bore" to reign.

The late Prince Albert was for many years one of the most intimate friends of Emperor William and a conspicuous member of the court of Berlin, where the magnificent contralto voice of the Princess—a member of the Grand Ducal house of Mecklenburg-Strelitz, was greatly admired. But Prince Albert in some way quarreled with the Emperor, and, accordingly, closed his house in Berlin and withdrew to his country seat in Mecklenburg, where he has now breathed his last.

Among his friends and the members of his immediate circle were the Count and Countess Fritz Hohenau, who ever since the anonymous letter scandal which convulsed Berlin society some years ago have been making their home at Dresden, both the Count and Countess having been amongst those most cruelly treated by the letters in question. The Count seems to be unfortunate in this respect. For I find that five men have just been sentenced at Dresden to terms ranging from three to ten years in prison with hard labor for systematic attempts to blackmail him.

The Count is a relative of the Kaiser, being a son of the late Prince Albert of Prussia by the morganatic wife whom he wedded after divorcing the half-crazy Princess Marianne of the Netherlands.

The Countess Hohenau is a woman of rare beauty and chic, and was one of the first great ladies of Berlin to venture to ride astride of her horse in the Thier Garten, instead of on a sidesaddle.

The engagement of Baron Hans Wangenheim, first secretary of the German Embassy at Constantinople, to the lovely Baroness Johanna Spitzenberg serves to recall to mind the sensational duel in which the young diplomat figured a few years ago, and into which he was forced by the behavior of his first wife. The latter, by birth a Mlle. Lucie Arenfeld, after the divorce which followed the duel in question, married Count Waldemar Uexkull-Gyllenbandt, who was the adversary of her first husband in the combat in question.

Baron Hans Wangenheim was secretary of legation at Stuttgart at the time, and the duel took place with pistols at a distance of fifteen paces. Both principals received at the first fire wounds in the stomach, and both were believed at the time to be mortally wounded, the death of one of them being even announced. To the amazement, however, of the medical authorities they each of them recovered from their injuries, and Baron Wangenheim, after having the circumstances of the case submitted to the Emperor by his chief, received the fullest kind of imperial approval, the Kaiser taking the ground hat it would have been impossible for him as a man of honor and as an officer to do otherwise than fight with the friend who had ruined his home.

Baron Wangenheim has two children, little girls, by his first marriage, and [illegible] remain with him. The mother of his fiancée, daughter of the Würtemburg statesman Baron Varnbuller, was in her day one of the most famous beauties of the court of [illegible]gart.

STAGE PEOPLE YOU DON'T SEE. . .

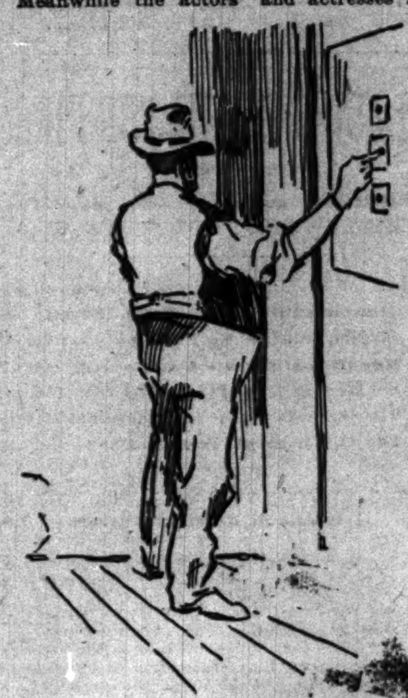
BEHOLD now how many and what different results a little thing will accomplish. A fat man in soiled white shirt sleeves, standing just beyond the right edge of the curtain, presses three electric buttons, one after the other, with his pudgy forefinger.

One of the buttons rings a bell up above in the electrician's gallery. The electrician, whose blue shirt is open at the neck—it is hot behind the scenes—throws three or four switches and all at once the auditorium lights flame out, the footlights blaze up, strip lights hanging in the scenery are lit, and bright spot lights, at each of which a man is stationed, begin to make circles of especial brilliancy in various places on the stage.

The second button pressed by the stage manager rings a bell down in the musicians' room under the stage and a dozen hot and perspiring men stop their games of pinochle, put on their coats, and climb up the stairs which lead to the orchestra pit. For answer a red electric bulb glows on the little shelf before the stage manager and he knows that order has been obeyed.

The third signal summons all the stage carpenters to stand by the pieces of scenery to which they are assigned in readiness for the quick change at the end of the first scene.

Meanwhile a tall youth in an evening coat that is far too long for him goes running down into the deep basements, where the supers dress, and up three or four or five flights of stairs by the dressing-rooms of the principals, wailing "Overture! Overture!" He is the call-boy, and it is his duty to sound the warning to every actor half an hour and fifteen minutes before the performance begins and also when the orchestra begins to play the overture.



DRESSES THE ELECTRIC BUTTONS.

Meanwhile the actors and actresses in fashionable clothes and lacy summer costumes begin to gather in a crowd on the stage. Mingled with them are property men, clearers, grips, and carpenters, giving the last touch to some detail of the stage setting. The stage manager gives a final glance at the big clock. He notes the exact time on the blank schedule hanging on the wall before him, claps his hands, calls "Clear the stage," and all the people you don't see vanish into the wings.

But they work behind quite as hard as the actors are working before the scenes. A property man sets down a bottle of beer and two glasses in the wings, just where it can be found by the stage waiter, who will need it in five minutes. Nine stage carpenters are standing, each with a firm grasp on a certain piece of scenery. Other property men are placing a lot of furniture and made pieces in an orderly row behind the last set at the back of the stage so that they may move it all forward when the time comes without an instant's delay. High up in the fly gallery, fifty feet above the stage, nine husky men in overalls and shirt sleeves are pulling away at a long series of big ropes that run up as high as the rigging loft and down again over pulleys to the corners of various heavy pieces of scenery. Something like the ringing loft of a big church belfry is this fly loft, with its orderly rows of huge ropes and its men pulling and straining as they raise and lower heavy canvas ceilings, walls, and flies into position.

curtain drops down and cuts off the stage. Behind this curtain some dim lights are turned on. But even while it is still dark the fifty men who help to make the show a success, though they are never seen or heard, have jumped into their proper places and are hard at work. One gang pulls the old scenery out of the way and piles it up against the walls of the stage in certain defined places. Others rush forward, each man carrying a certain piece of new scenery to exactly its proper spot. The clearers carry away the old properties and the property men set in place everything that is needed for the second scene. The flymen have hauled up the old stuff out of sight and let down the new, and the electrician has rearranged his spot and strip lights. The stage manager claps his hands again, cries "Clear the stage," presses the buttons that turn on the lights and raises the curtain, and the second scene is on.

"We're a little slow today," he says, as he writes down the exact minute on his schedule—which is like a railroad time table. "It took us a minute and a half to make that change."

Now there are some fifteen minutes to pass before either property men or stage hands

will have anything to do, and they scatter to spend the leisure time in different ways.

Altogether, for the handling of an elaborate production, like "The Suburban," fifty-five stage hands and property men are required. The stage hands are under the direct command of the stage carpenter and his assistant. They are divided into carpenters and grips and flymen, there being eleven of the first class and nine of the second. There are two property men and ten clearers, the duty of the latter being to clear away in a hurry what the property men have placed with care. Then there are an even dozen electricians, who have to look after all the many different electric and calcium lights, which are used in various scenes. Add the call boy, the stage door man, and half a dozen minor positions and it is easy to count up the company of fifty-five which the stage manager has under his command.

When there comes a wait which gives the stage hands a little leisure a crowd of them are likely to get together in the carpenter's room under the stage, where a game of lotto, a first cousin of keno, or some other game is in operation. They pack the little room to suffocation and the excitement sometimes runs high, but the instant the stage manager's warning bell sounds everything is dropped and each man gets into position without delay. For delay is the one thing which can never be forgiven in a stage hand.

On hot afternoons and nights others of the stage workmen go out into the alley about the stage door when they get a minute's rest and get a breath of fresh air and other cooling refreshments. But always they are in sound of that warning bell.

Some rivalry exists between the property men and the stage carpenters, or at least the line between them is closely drawn. Not for his life would a stage carpenter or grip lay his hand on any of the properties, even in an emergency, nor would a property man or clearer touch a piece of scenery, though it never were moved into place. The union rules and the pride of the profession both forbid such intermingling of functions.

Severe and unsparing critics of the speaking actors are these dumb and invisible "artists" of the stage. Let a new star go on for the first night and there will be enough biting and uncomplimentary things said about him and his work by the critics in dirty shirt sleeves who look down from the flies or stand in the entrances to make anything the newspaper may say the next morning sound like the sweetest flattery. They spare nobody. A great reputation will not cover faults to them. And at that many of them rarely if ever see a play from the front of the house. They look at bits of a thousand plays from between the wings and form their opinion from what they see.

Most of the responsibility for the stage effects rests upon the head carpenter and the property man. Every morning the stage carpenter has to make what is called a "pack" of all the different pieces of scenery. That is, he has to arrange it all in its regular order in a great pile leaning against the wall, so that the next piece wanted will always be next in the pile. On the outside of the pile stands the first piece needed in making the first change. On it in big letters are printed the words, "Keep alive," which is stage talk for "Don't bury this piece under anything else."

If there is a matinée the stage carpenter has to make a second "pack" between the afternoon and evening performances.

The property man is charged with seeing that every little thing that is needed during the play is on hand and ready for instant use.

Over them all reigns the stage manager. After each scene is set he casts a rapid and critical eye over it to see that everything is in exactly the right place and that carelessness has not marred any of the effects.

INSANE MODEL RETURNS HOME.

Miss Wackerman, Whose Mind Was Wrecked by Criticism, Fails to Improve.

DOESN'T KNOW FRIENDS.

Aged Relative of Governor Odell Has Been Lost in New York a Week.

NEW YORK BUREAU CHICAGO TRIBUNE, New York, June 10.

Miss Wackerman's Mind Still Clouded.

Miss Helen Vanderbilt Wackerman, the young American woman who broke down under the strain of charges made against her by Professor Herkomer, the painter, while in London, arrived here today in the company of her mother, Mrs. John Vanderbilt Wackerman of Buffalo, and her uncle. When the steamship arrived Miss Wackerman was in her cabin, which was in the forward part of the vessel. She was under the care of a trained nurse and seemed to be unable to comprehend anything that was going on around her. She apparently could not utter a word, and her uncle, Dr. L. G. Smith, said that, as a matter of fact, she had not spoken for nine weeks.

Miss Wackerman's hair hung on her shoulders. She wore an old dressing sack, and, although her gown was not attractive, her face still retained much of the beauty that made famous artists admire her. When a caller asked to see her as the steamship came into the pier she arose and presented him with a picture of Emperor William. She did not attempt to utter a word. Dr. Smith, the girl's uncle, said:

"My niece is suffering from intense nervous trouble. Yet I have some hopes of curing her. I thought I saw a mark of improvement in her condition on the voyage over."

Mrs. Wackerman said: "When my daughter left Professor Herkomer's house she was extremely hysterical, but not insane. She began to worry about me, and sent me a message. I answered: 'Message soon. Mamma.' This cable dispatch was properly addressed, but never delivered. It was when she did not hear from me that she became insane. I intend to sue the persons responsible for the non-delivery of the message. I do not know what I will do about Professor Herkomer yet."

An order was handed down today by Judge Adams in the United States District Court, granting a temporary injunction against Edward E. Gwynne, a nephew of Mrs. Cornelius Vanderbilt, restraining him from disposing of certain properties held by him as executor, which, it was alleged, had been transferred by him to defraud his creditors.

Relative of Gov. Odell Is Lost.

Jacob D. Odell, 75 years old, a distant relative of Governor Odell, has been lost in this city since Thursday and there is reason to fear he has met with some serious mishap. The lost man had $700 in cash in his pockets when he came to the city from his farm near Tarrytown on the day of his disappearance. He intended to spend this money on needed articles and return home on an early evening train. The fact that he was in perfect health and was possessed of remarkable energy of mind and body for one of his years only adds to the alarm of his friends. The old man went to a Sixth avenue department store, where he made some purchases amounting to $200, and there all trace of his movements is lost, though the goods he bought were delivered in due time.

Theodore A. Ross, for twenty-eight years Grand Secretary of the Sovereign Grand Lodge of the I. O. O. F., was found dead in bed at his home in East Orange today. Heart disease probably caused death. He was 78 years old.

Church and Office Building Combined.

The new Broadway Tabernacle, to be built at the northeast corner of Broadway and Fifty-sixth street, will be one of the most original ecclesiastical structures in America. It is to cost $650,000. A singular feature will be a comparatively low front on Broadway, rising toward the rear into what is practically a ten-story office building. The frontage on Broadway will be eighty feet. At the northwest corner will be a morning chapel, to seat about eighty persons. The front will have two towers eighty-two feet high. The auditorium, which occupies the corner of Broadway and Fifty-sixth street, will seat 1,500 persons. It will be lighted by a great window in the Broadway front, by rose windows at each transept, and by eight clearstory windows. There will be no columns to obstruct the view.

Under this main auditorium will be a lecture hall. It will seat 600 and have a stage for concerts and guilds. In the rear of this will be a banqueting room for 300 persons. Upon the main level, in the rear of the auditorium, it is proposed to locate Taylor Chapel, named after a recent pastor, and seating 400. Above Taylor Chapel and reached by immense elevators will be the office building. The exterior of this building is so planned that it is in keeping with its surroundings, resembling a part of a church and not a skyscraper.

Bootblack Loses $40,000 on the Races.

Herman, the bootblack, was at the southeast corner of the City Hall today cleaning shoes. He has been playing the races, and he is not a bit bashful about telling how much he won. "At the end of the Eastern season last fall," he said today, "I had cleaned up about $40,000. I made all this money in just about four months. Me Tammany friends in the City Hall gave me the straight things to bet, and I made money so fast that I had to put some fresh pockets in me duds.

"When I was making me killing plays at the tracks I didn't wear no different clothes than what I have on now, and that's the reason I never got touched. When the Tammany government went out my luck went out, too. One day at Aqueduct I lost over $10,000. After that I couldn't find nothing but stiffs, and three days ago I was broke. I hadn't enough to buy a new shoeblacking outfit, and I went to the leader of me district and he gave me the money to buy this box and set of brushes."

Herman asked the reporter not to print his full name. He said his wife didn't know he had been "leading a double life."

Bankers' Combine Circular Is Explained.

Oakleigh Thorne, President of the North American Trust company, said today that no circular had been sent out by his own company advocating the formation of a combination of national banks by means of the chartering in New Jersey of a new corporation, under the title of the American Bankers' corporation, which should be a securities holding corporation.

"The whole scheme," said Mr. Thorne, "is merely a suggestion which was made by Silas D. Scudder, treasurer of the North American Trust company, in a personal letter which he sent to a friend of his who is a banker in Chicago. The North American Trust company knows nothing about and is not interested in any such scheme."

Treasurer S. D. Scudder of the company said at his home tonight that he had simply written a few personal letters to some of his friends in the West outlining a plan for a system of branch banks throughout the country, asking them what they thought of it. Mr. Scudder said also that the American Bankers' association was organized over a year ago, when a charter was taken out in New Jersey, more as a precaution for the future than any present purpose. He added that the North American Trust company was not in any way back of this action of his own.

Fleeing Fiance Is Caught as Ship Is Starting.

Just ten minutes before the steamship Moltke of the Hamburg-American line sailed from Hoboken this morning, a handsome young woman came running down the pier, crying: "Where is he? O, I must find him—where is he?" Detectives questioned her, and she told the story of the desertion of her fiancé, who was a passenger on the Moltke, and who had suddenly left the home of her parents, where he had been staying, while she had gone out of the house for a few minutes, and had taken with him all his belongings in a trunk and $40 of her money.

She refused to tell the officers her address, but said the name of her false sweetheart was Bruns and that she had traced him to the Moltke. While the officers were endeavoring to learn more of her story, she suddenly darted away from them, and, running up the gangplank, caught hold of a young man who was just about to board the ship, and, taking him by the collar with both hands, pulled him down the gangplank. Partly by coaxing and partly by physical force, she kept him on the pier until the gangplank had been pulled up. He looked dejectedly at the liner backing out into the stream and then walked away with the woman.

Details of Shipyard Combine Are Given Out.

Details of the proposed consolidation of shipbuilding interests made public today show that the concern will be incorporated under the laws of New Jersey with a capital stock of $20,000,000, equally divided in common and preferred shares, and that the name will probably be the United States Shipbuilding company. The following concerns will be taken into the new company: Union iron works, San Francisco; Bath iron works, Bath, Me.; Hyde Windlass company, Bath, Me.; Crescent shipyard; Samuel L. Moore & Sons company, Elizabethport, N. J.; Eastern Shipbuilding company, New London, Conn.; Harlan & Hollingsworth company, Wilmington, Del.; Canda Manufacturing company, Cateret, N. J.

The directors will include: Charles J. Canda, Lewis Nixon, E. W. Hyde, Henry T. Scott, John S. Hyde, C. H. Hanscombe, Irving M. Scott, H. W. Gaus.

Contracts for construction on hand amount to $36,046,000. Net profits for the next eighteen months are estimated at $2,675,000, and during the next three years $6,675,000.

Havemeyer Denies Buying Sugar Beet Plants.

Henry O. Havemeyer, President of the sugar trust, today made vehement denial of the truth of a published report that his company had obtained a preponderating interest in the beet sugar industry in this country. He said: "It is not my intention to tell the public or the newspapers the business affairs of the company. That report about buying beet sugar interests was only printed in the hope of urging an avowal from me. All I will say is that any statement to the effect that the American Sugar Refining company has a preponderating interest in the beet sugar industry is utterly untrue."

"It is stated that you have purchased a controlling interest in five beet sugar factories in Michigan," was suggested.

"That's entirely untrue, too," Mr. Havemeyer replied.

Mrs. Kingdon's Gems Are Mysteriously Returned.

The jewels valued at $8,000 which were stolen from Mrs. Charles D. Kingdon, mother of Mrs. George Gould, in her room at the Waldorf-Astoria last week Tuesday morning, were returned in a peculiar manner this afternoon. Late in the afternoon a young man went to the home of Detective Sergeant Vallely, at 41 West Ninety-eighth street, and rang the bell. Mrs. Vallely had just returned from a shopping trip and was at the door. The boy handed her a package wrapped in plain brown paper with "Mr. James F. Vallely, 41 West Ninety-eighth street," written in ink on it. When Vallely got home at 7 o'clock he opened the package. It contained a plain cardboard box big enough to hold a pound of candy. Inside were the jewels.

Actress Invades Fashionable District.

Miss Minnie Ashley, actress, has bought a residence at Great Neck, L. I., and will live there this summer and succeeding summers, whether her neighbors like it or not. She occupied the house two years ago during the hot weather. Miss Ashley did not succeed in renting the house last summer because some of her former neighbors circumvented her. But she has now acquired a title to the place and can laugh at those who two years ago called the Old Mile road "Soubrette Row" because several actresses lived there.

Mrs. Roosevelt Is on Her Way to Oyster Bay.

The government dispatch gunboat Dolphin, with Mrs. Roosevelt and the youngest children of the President on board, came into the harbor tonight from Washington, from which place the vessel departed yesterday afternoon. The Dolphin will stop here to enable Mrs. Roosevelt to do some shopping in the city, until some time tomorrow, when it will proceed up the Long Island Sound to Oyster Bay, where the President's family will spend the summer at their home.

YE ART AND ARTISTS CORNER

Signor Antonio Chiattone of Lugano has completed a status of the Empress Elisabeth, which will be unveiled at Montreux at the end of this month.

An advertisement has appeared in the London papers inviting competitive designs for a memorial to be erected to Queen Victoria at Allahabad, India. The memorial is to take the form of a statue of the Queen, combined with a clock tower.

The Tate Gallery of British Art on the bank of the Thames, in one of London's least accessible districts, has just been enriched, according to cable reports, by the bequest of some $300,000 worth of pictures made by Thomas Gassiot, a London merchant.

So successful was the Van Dyck exhibition, held at Antwerp in 1899, that a Belgian committee is now organizing a display of early Flemish art to be held at Bruges from June 15 to Sept. 15. King Leopold is patron. Already forty-five pictures have been collected.

The German Agrarian continues to chide Emperor William for his proposal to give a status of Frederick the Great to the United States for erection at Washington. They say it was a political blunder because his action has not been appreciated in the United States.

It is not often that good fortune comes in the shape of bankruptcy; yet so it happened in the case of the British sculptor, Gilbert. He had been commissioned to model a statue of Queen Alexandra, and when that lady heard of his financial difficulties she assigned him quarters in Windsor castle, where he is making himself comfortable in a suite of five rooms pending the time the Queen finds it convenient to pose for him.

PRESIDENT TO SEE CADETS.

Will Go to West Point Today to Be Present at the Annual Commencement Exercises.

West Point, N. Y., June 10.—The exercises here today were given over entirely to athletic sports. The first event was an exhibition drill of the first class in cavalry tactics. Then followed the field day competitions between the respective classes of cadets, concluding with a baseball game between the academy team and Yale. President Roosevelt will reach here at an early hour in the morning by special train. It is now arranged for the President to remain until Thursday, graduation day, when he will deliver the diplomas to the graduating class. Tonight the graduation hop was given in Memorial Hall. It was a brilliant social function.

Washington, D. C., June 10.—President Roosevelt and party, who are going to West Point to attend the centennial celebration, left here at midnight. The President will return to the city on Friday.

End of Long Signboard Fight.

The fight between the Gunning and Cusack companies for the use of a wall on the building at 636 North Clark street ended yesterday in a victory for the former. The painting out of each other's advertisements will now cease. The victory was in the form of a decree enjoining Cusack from prosecuting suits in justice courts. The dispute arose over a removal clause in the Gunning lease, which expired in October last.

NEW PROFESSOR IN ARMOUR INSTITUTE.

PROF. G. F. GEBHART.

George F. Gebhart, a graduate of the Boston School of Technology and for the last few years an instructor in the Armour Institute of Technology, has been elected to fill the chair of mechanical engineering in the Armour school. He will take charge of the department, which is one of the most important engineering branches in the institution, with the beginning of the next fall term. Professor C. V. Kerr, the former professor of mechanical engineering at Armour Institute, has resigned to leave the city. Much of the work in mechanical engineering will be carried on next year in the new shop building, which was erected by a special endowment from Mrs. P. D. Armour and J. Ogden Armour. The new building, which stands at the northwest corner of Thirty-third street and Armour avenue, will be ready for occupancy by next September.

GUILT SHOWN IN SCANDAL

MINNEAPOLIS OFFICIAL CONVICTED OF ACCEPTING A BRIBE.

Affair, Involving Mayor Ames and His Brother, the Chief of Police, Both of Whom Were Alleged to Have Been Patrons of the Accused Man, Deepens as a Result of the Trial—Specific Charge Is Receiving Money for the Protection of Gamblers.

Minneapolis, Minn., June 10.—[Special.]—Irwin A. Gardner, special police officer, receiving his instructions directly from Mayor Ames, is guilty of receiving a bribe of $500 from swindlers. The jury in the case that has stirred Minneapolis so decided this evening after the jury had been out three hours. Three ballots were taken.

Gardner is now in jail, the court fixing his bail at $10,000. An effort will be made to secure his release. His liberty would only last until a motion for a new trial can be heard. Gardner took the result calmly.

The county attorney announced that he would start the case of the State against Detective Christopher C. Norbeck at once, and that he intended to go right down the line with the members of the Police department who are accused of accepting bribes.

The result is a triumph, in a way, for "Billy" Edwards, Lincoln Crossman, and Charles Howard, three self-confessed swindlers and confidence men. It was the remarkable confession made by Edwards on the witness stand that convicted Gardner. He swore that Gardner agreed with him to secure freedom from arrest, for operating what are known as "big mitt" games, if Edwards and Crossman would put up $500, which was to go to Mayor Ames.

Edwards and Crossman testified further, however, that they paid Gardner $50 a week, and the same sum to Detective Norbeck, while they occasionally handed out $15 and $20 to Chief of Police Ames, who is also under indictment. Gardner is a son of the License Inspector, has been a medical student in the office of Mayor Ames, and has been convicted twice, once for selling liquor illegally and once for running a disorderly house.

The case is the first in the supreme effort that Minneapolis is making for a municipal housecleaning. The extreme penalty in Gardner's case is ten years.

Gardner is lost sight of in the scandal that his conviction unfolds. He was the amanuensis of Mayor Ames, and the prosecution sought to show that such bribes as he accepted were taken with at least the connivance of executive members.

COLLEGE GRADUATES NAME CHOSEN FIELD OF LABOR.

Class at University of Chicago Answers Question Concerning Intentions of Members After Leaving School.

Seventy-seven young men who will graduate from the academic college at the University of Chicago have reported to the faculty what they intended to do when they leave school. Sixty-three senior coeds have made a similar decision, while twelve young women and two men declare they "don't know."

The report of the chosen field of labor of the graduates of this spring quarter was made this morning by Dean Tuffts of the senior college before a meeting of upper classmen. Life work that the graduates will take up, as shown by the report, shows a range from the study of medicine, which will be pursued by eighteen young men, to the pursuit of "remaining at home," which five coeds name as their chosen labor. Out of a class of 159 students twelve young men declare they will go into business.

Following is a list of pursuits which the University of Chicago graduates expect to take up:

	Men.	Women.
Teaching	20	58
Medicine	18	0
Law	15	1
Business	12	0
Graduate study	4	2
Journalism	4	0
Ministry	2	0
Art	0	1
Architecture	1	0
Engineering	1	0
Music	0	1
At home	0	5
Undecided or unknown	2	12
Totals	79	80

The answers sent by the members of the graduating class to the question "What do you intend to do when you leave school?" caused Dean Tuffts to make some remarks on the curious workings of heredity.

Only two of the graduating class in this institution declare a determination to enter the ministry," declared Dean Tuffts. "Yet there are five ministers' sons who will take their diplomas. Six doctors' sons will follow their fathers into the study of medicine, and out of eight sons of lawyers in the class five of them intend to become attorneys. Seven teachers have children in the graduating class, and only two of them expect to teach. Apparently there are more of the sons of other professional and business men who wish to teach. Sixty-three students are children of business-men.

BRIBE CHARGE IS PROVED.

ATTORNEY T. A. M'GARRY, GRAND RAPIDS, IS CONVICTED.

Defendant Accused of Giving Money to Former City Attorney Lant K. Salsbury in Connection with Attempt to Saddle a $4,000,000 Water Contract on the Municipality—Change of Venue Is Taken, but Proves of No Avail—Appeal to Be Taken.

Allegan, Mich., June 10.—[Special.]—Attorney Thomas A. McGarry of Grand Rapids was found guilty by a jury in the Allegan County Circuit Court today of bribing former City Attorney Lant K. Salsbury in the attempt to saddle a $4,000,000 contract upon the city for furnishing the city with a water supply from Lake Michigan. Salsbury stands convicted in the Superior Court of accepting the bribe, and he is now serving a two years' sentence in the Detroit House of correction for a violation of the United States banking laws, which was brought to light during the investigation of the water scandal.

Pending an appeal in the water case, Salsbury pleaded guilty in the federal court. The McGarry conviction is the third out of the five indictments found by the grand jury. H. A. Tayler, the Eastern capitalist who furnished the money to swing the water deal, having also been convicted and paid a fine of $2,000. Stilson MacLeod, formerly paying teller of the Old National Bank, now is serving time at Detroit for complicity with Salsbury in the bank offense. Gerritt Albers, a local attorney alleged to have attempted to bribe an Alderman, and Salsbury are the other two indicted parties. In view of MacLeod having made a complete confession of the water conspiracy and turned State's evidence, it is understood that the charge of conspiracy against him will not be pushed. The Albers case remains to be taken up for trial.

McGarry has fought every inch and delayed his trial several months by appeals to the Supreme Court. He finally succeeded in securing a change of venue, and the case has been on trial in the Allegan court for the last four weeks, with Judge Alfred Wolcott of the Kent Circuit Court presiding. Garman and Cameron, promoters of the water deal, as in the other cases, were the State's chief wintesses in the McGarry case. The main effort of the defense was to show that McGarry simply acted as attorney for Taylor.

Many anticipated a disagreement, some acquittal, but few expected a verdict of guilty within half an hour after the case went to the jury. A stay of forty-five days was granted and McGarry gave a new bond in the sum of $7,500.

SOFT WORDS IN BENHAM CASE.

Terms of Endearment and Advice as to "Pants" Mingle in Letters Read in Court.

Words of endearment, coupled with requests for money and suggestions about the cut of the clothing he should wear, were included in letters written by Mrs. Matilda Benham to her husband, Raymond S. Benham, that were read in Judge Brown's court yesterday morning during the hearing of the long-drawn-out divorce case.

"My heart aches for you," said Mrs. Benham in one letter, and in another she refers to her husband as "my own darling" and my "poor boy." Incidentally she states in one letter that he will "find the butcher bill inclosed."

"I wish, my dear, that you would get a pair of pants that would come somewhere near fitting you," said Mrs. Benham in another letter. She also suggested that if he expected to "get thinner" he had better wait before having the "pants" made.

"Please give Romie one bottle of sherry, one bottle of whisky, and $5," was the request in another letter read by Attorney Latimer. Romie is the son of Mrs. Benham by a former marriage.

Mr. Benham, the defendant, was recalled to the witness stand and interrogated about his finances. He said that he sold out his business to his daughter, Cora Benham, in 1900 and that four months later the corporation of Benham, Trumbull & Co. was formed. The consideration for the sale to his daughter, he said, was $20,000. His salary as manager of the concern at present is $1,800 a year.

Attorney Jenks tried to prove by the witness the amount of money he has spent during the trial of the present case, but was unable to learn any definite amount. He asked Benham if he had spent various sums ranging from $5,000 to $100,000, but the witness was unable to make any definite statement.

Some of the money he has spent during the trial, he said, was borrowed from his daughter and part was taken from his salary.

Mrs. Benham had her inning during the afternoon session of court. Dr. O. T. Shenick testified that he has been Mrs. Benham's physician since 1895 and that in his opinion she is entirely competent to have the custody of her child. He never knew that she drank intoxicating liquors, he said.

During the summer of 1895 Dr. Shenick said Mrs. Benham was not physically able, in his opinion, to take drives in the parks and to other places and to devote herself continually to amusement. It was alleged that during a portion of the summer of 1895 Mrs. Benham went riding frequently, sometimes with men other than her husband.

SUBWAY SCHEMES ARE MADE KNOWN

One Syndicate Has $35,000,000 Project; Another Revives Old Franchises.

OFFER TO SELL TO CITY.

First Plan Is Promoted by Hempstead Washburne and Other Capitalists.

Subway promotion reached its height yesterday when two combinations of interests, each apparently separate from the other, and neither identified with the Wheeler company so far as is known, entered the field of tunnel construction in Chicago.

The first of the syndicates proposes to go before the Council soon to ask for a franchise to build subways to an estimated cost of $35,000,000. Ex-Mayor Hempstead Washburne and W. A. Alexander are spokesmen for the syndicate. It is this project that was forecasted in THE TRIBUNE on Monday morning.

The second syndicate announces that it will claim rights under the half-forgotten "Bacon" ordinance of 1892; also under the ordinance of the Chicago Light, Heat, and Power company. This second project is more vague than the other.

Details of First Project.

The Washburne-Alexander project contemplates a subway to accommodate the present surface traction, the city water pipes, conduits for electric wires for municipal lighting, and all the gas and sewer pipes. Engineers are at work on the specifications and an ordinance will be drafted to be presented to the City Council within the next two weeks.

The plan involves the construction of between six and seven miles of tunnel from curb to curb at an estimated cost of $35,000,000. This sum, it is said, already has been promised by Chicago capitalists, who will subscribe the amount immediately upon the granting of a franchise. Although the promoters decline to reveal the names of any of the persons interested in the undertaking, it is said that no bank has contributed to the fund and that no outside capital has been solicited.

In addition to the down-town subway, the plans include the construction of a boulevarded subway connecting the North and South Sides and extending from Congress street and Michigan avenue to the extension of the Lake Shore drive at the foot of Ohio street.

The subway is designed not to interfere with the Illinois Telephone and Telegraph company tunnel, now in course of construction, as its depth will be only twenty-four feet. The subway is designed to be built under all of the important streets within the down-town loop or all that are necessary for the immediate needs.

The plans of the immediate future call for entrances to the subways at Harrison street on the south and at a point as close to the river banks as practicable on the North and West Sides. Ultimately the southern limits of the subway may be extended to Twelfth or Sixteenth streets.

Compensation for the City.

It is said by the promoters that the ordinance will be made to provide for ample compensation to the city and will contain a clause whereby the city will be granted the privilege of purchasing the subway at the end of ten years. As the city's bonded indebtedness cannot be increased at present, the promoters say the Council should be glad to entertain an ordinance "which amounts practically to a private loan to the city, drawing interest, and payable at the end of ten or fifteen years."

Eventually, it is planned, the subway is to extend under all the down-town streets, running north and south and east and west from the river to a point between Harrison and Twelfth or Sixteenth streets, and the lake and the river on the West.

According to the plan, Michigan and Wabash avenues, and State and Clark streets are to be the first to be tunneled of the north and south thoroughfares, while Washington, Adams, and Van Buren streets and possibly Lake and Harrison streets, will mark the route of the cross-subways.

The subway proper is to be twenty-four feet below the street level and is to extend from curb to vurb, the roof of the subway forming the street. The tunnels are to be constructed entirely of steel and cement.

What Promoters Will Ask.

It is said that the plan is to be submitted to Mayor Harrison before it is presented to the City Council. The company will ask the right to rent the space in the subways for street car service, mail service, pneumatic delivery service, pipes for all purposes, conduits for electric lighting wires, and other utilities. All the utilities owned and operated by the city are to be given use of the tunnel without charge.

The ordinance is being drawn by S. S. Gregory. Although Mr. Gregory has not completed the clause providing for ultimate ownership, it is understood that it will provide that the city can purchase the tunnels at any time after the expiration of ten years by paying the cost of construction and a "fair builder's commission added for the construction." In the event of the city's disinclination or disability to buy the subways at the end of ten or fifteen years the same right is reserved to be exercised at any later period.

"We have not asked any favors, and do not intend to," said Mr. Alexander yesterday. "When this ordinance is presented every Alderman, every taxpayer, every man who rides down-town upon any public conveyance, will be interested in its passage."

Ex-Mayor Washburne said of the project: "This is a business proposition. Mr. Alexander and myself, and those associated with us, believe there is a fair profit to be made from the construction of such a subway system and the operation of it until such time as the city has secured the necessary legislation and finance to acquire and operate it.

"Our idea is to anticipate municipal ownership. If we get the necessary franchise we will build the tunnels with private capital, operate them for fifteen years, and have them perfected and ready for their acquisition by the city when the city is ready.

Old Franchises Revived.

The other subway project was made known during the day when L. Maxwell Lyon, a lawyer from Montreal, Ont., registered at the Grand Pacific Hotel and announced that he represented the owners of the old "Bacon" ordinance, who intended to put that almost forgotten franchise into use at once.

This measure, passed in 1892, gave to the "Chicago Steam Heating and Smoke Abating company," as the Bacon corporation was legally known, the right to do almost anything it wanted to under the streets of Chicago. There was a great deal of scandal when the ordinance was passed.

It was known to be a speculative franchise, but the hard times came on and nothing was done except to lay three miles of pipe from the Frazer & Chalmers works along Lake street, through which steam was sent at intervals, in order to comply with the provision of the ordinance, which required that amount of pipe to be down within two years of its passage. This pipe, it is contended, has kept the franchise alive.

Some years afterward Andrew Onderdonk was given credit for securing the passage of an ordinance granting the Chicago Light, Heat and Power company privileges much like those in the Bacon ordinance. It was announced afterwards this company had secured the Bacon franchise, but still no work was done.

Mayor Declines Committee Invitation.

Mayor Harrison announced during the day he would not sit with the Judiciary committee of the Council in considering the Illinois Telegraph and Telephone ordinance, and Corporation Counsel Walker said he would only act with it so far as it needed legal assistance.

Secretary Fisher of the Municipal Voters' league announced he was willing to sit with the committee.

ALUMNI RULE AT ILLINOIS

OLD GRADUATES OF THE STATE UNIVERSITY HONORED.

Day Is Set Apart for Their Entertainment—Annual Dinner, Reception, Reunion, and a Baseball Game Are on the Program—Every Class from the Founding of the Institution Thirty Years Ago Represented—Exercises at Princeton.

Urbana, Ill., June 10.—[Special.]—The annual alumni day at the University of Illinois brought out a large number of graduates this year. As this is the third decennial reunion of the institution the gathering was unusually representative. Every class from the first graduate from the institution was represented, and the present graduating class was given a good reception.

The morning was devoted to the annual business meeting, at which Professor Arthur Nathan Talbot of the class of 1881 was elected President of the Alumni association. Professor Talbot is at present professor of municipal and sanitary engineering at the university.

After the general reunion of the various classes the annual alumni address was given by Henry Mahan Beardsley of the class of 1879. His subject was "Civic Progress." The alumni dinner followed, and several hundred plates were laid for the old graduates.

Alumni in a Ball Game.

In the afternoon the annual alumni game of baseball was played and this evening the annual reception to the public was given in the new library building. All the literary societies and fraternities are holding open house to their old members this evening.

The Board of Trustees held their regular commencement meeting today, but did not take action on any faculty changes of importance. The regular routine business and recommendations of the President and deans were acted on. The board will meet the last of the month to take definite action on the important matters concerned with the close of the school year. The regular commencement exercises will be held tomorrow in the Armory Building, Governor Yates being the commencement orator.

Alumni Are Princeton's Guests.

Princeton, N. J., June 10.—[Special.]—More than a thousand graduates attended the annual meeting and dinner of the alumni association here this afternoon. James W. Alexander of New York, President of the Equitable Life Insurance company, presided. Speeches were delivered by President Patton and President-elect Wilson. The former thanked the alumni for the kind regard which they had always shown for his administration.

"I realize," he said, "that this university stands face to face with new problems of development, and I am in sympathy with my whole heart and with every element of my being with the action of the trustees, who have placed Woodrow Wilson in the leadership of Princeton University."

Professor Wilson responded extolling the services of President Patton to the university and declaring that the cordial handshake, the unmistakably genuine look of good will, and good wishes that have come to him since his election is to him the most blessed augury for the future. Among the other speakers was the Rev. Dr. William E. Hepburn, '32, of East Orange, who is the oldest living graduate. A gift of $25,000 by the class of '77 was announced. It will be devoted to paying the debt on the athletic field. In the afternoon Dr. and Mrs. Patton held a reception for the graduating class. Tomorrow the 155th commencement will be held in Alexander Hall.

CHICAGO GREAT WESTERN TRAIN WRECKED IN MISSOURI.

Cars Jump the Track Near St. Joseph, but Only One Man Is Injured—Fatalities in Georgia.

St. Joseph, Mo., June 10.—A Chicago Great Western passenger train, due here at noon, was today wrecked at Dean, a small station about seven miles north of the city.

Only one passenger was injured. He is Henry Vanderbaugh, a traveling man, with headquarters in New York City. The entire train, consisting of seven coaches, left the track and rolled down a twelve-foot embankment. Nearly every car was badly splintered.

The sleeping car was completely demolished, but not a single occupant was hurt.

Fatal Wreck Near Macon, Ga.

Macon, Ga., June 10.—The south-bound passenger train of the Southern railway, which left Atlanta at noon for Macon, collided with a north-bound freight train near Juliette, twenty-three miles north of Macon, this afternoon. The engineer and fireman of the passenger train were instantly killed and nineteen of the passengers injured.

The two trains met on a sharp curve while under full headway. The passengers saw the approaching freight and a panic developed. The shock of the collision was so great that seats were smashed into splinters. The engines and tenders were piled on each other.

It is said the cause of the collision was the irregularity of the timepiece of the engineer of the freight train.

HENO REACHES CITY IN STYLE.

RIDES IN PADDED STALL.

Three Other Horses Brought Along for Company—Stabled in Private Barn.

Heno, Clarence H. Mackay's much-talked-of Henry Young—Quiver colt, who is the ante-post favorite for the American Derby, reached the city yesterday morning in a palace car attached to the "limited" express from New York. It was the first time a horse ever had been allowed a car on this fast train, which makes the run in twenty-four hours, and the colt took the long journey quite as comfortably as any of the passengers.

Every precaution that a trainer's art could suggest, backed up by unlimited money, was employed that the crack colt which Mr. Mackay expects to land the blue ribbon event of the Western turf might reach the city in perfect condition for the final "preps" to be given under Trainer Hill's care.

Accordingly, Heno traveled in a style befitting the equine aristocrat that he is. The forward end of the car was marked off and formed an apartment larger than the average box stall. This was heavily padded on the sides to a height of six feet that the colt might not be bruised or injured by any sudden jerk of the train. He was not tied so as to prevent him from lying down, and, as a matter of fact, did lie down for several hours, something unusual for a horse when traveling. Then, that there might be no nervous strain on the high-priced thoroughbred, three stable mates were brought along just for company. They occupied three stalls at the other end of the car. The remaining space was occupied by the tack of a well appointed stable and by the attendants who made the trip in the car with Heno.

Special Barn for Heno.

Three-quarters of an hour after his arrival Heno was in his stall in the barn, at the rear of 6037 Drexel avenue, reserved exclusively for his use. Fifteen minutes later Trainer Hill arrived at the barn, more nervous than the colt, but pleased at the safe journey and arrival of his expensive charge.

Heno left New York at 7:45 a. m. on Monday, billed through by the Adams Express company, and reached Chicago about the same hour yesterday. The pride of the Mackay stable did not fret, worry, nor prance in his boxed-up palace a minute during the trip, and even went so far as to take a two-hour nap early yesterday morning.

The news that the great Heno had arrived spread quickly, and a large crowd of owners, trainers, and attendants gathered at the Washington Park railroad platform to get a "peep" at the Derby favorite. There was a little delay getting him out of the car, as Frankfort, his stable companion; Bob McLean, one of John Schorr's horses, a gray roadster, feed, and stable traps were first unloaded.

Colt Last to Leave Car.

When everything was cleared away Heno, with his legs heavily bandaged in white, was led forth looking spick and span. His sixteen hands and one inch, well muscled limbs, and his general formation made him look a formidable animal for any horse to beat.

When Trainer Hill arrived at the barn he said: "There he is," pointing to the colt. "I landed him safe and sound, which is half of the battle. Never in all my experience have I shipped or seen a horse shipped that was carried over a long journey as cleverly and without any tossing about as was that horse. I had his stall padded, thinking the sudden and unexpected shooting around curves would throw him up against the sides of his stall, but he never budged an inch, so to speak. Do I think he will win? Well, now, what do you suppose I brought him here for? I know the Derby is a hard race to win, and I believe Heno is the best of the Eastern lot that will start, but I am in the dark as to what I have got to beat the Westerners."

Garrison Mitchell, the colored assistant trainer; W. Pickering, a white second trainer; Garner Peterson, stable hand; and Harold Rohan, an exercise boy, came with Heno. Owner Mackay is expected here on Thursday of next week with a large party of New-Yorkers.

ALARD WINS LATONIA STAKE.

Hildreth Horse Takes Feature Event at a Mile from Good Field—Birkenruth in Saddle.

Cincinnati, O., June 10.—Alard, from the stable of S. C. Hildreth, shipped from Chicago for the occasion, won the Merchants' Stakes for 3-year-olds and upwards at Latonia today. Alard, entered for $900, was bid up to $2,500 by P. J. Gorman, owner of Jim Clark, but retained by Mr. Hildreth's agent. Weather fine, track fast.

M'CHESNEY A GAME COLT.

HILDRETH'S DERBY HOPE BEATEN, BUT MAKES FRIENDS.

Son of Macduff Tires at End of Mile and Sixteenth Journey, but Under the Whip Hangs On to Aladdin with Noteworthy Perseverance—Owner Is Well Satisfied with Result — Early Loses to Sidney C. Love in Dingdong Finish.

Sam Hildreth's McChesney, one of the choices in the future betting on the American Derby and generally regarded as the hope of the West in that event, made his first start as a 3-year-old in the fourth race at Harlem yesterday, a purse affair at a mile and a sixteenth. The colt was beaten a long neck by Aladdin, seasoned and ready for a hard race, but, though beaten, answered satisfactorily the question of Derby quality and incidentally displayed a gameness under punishment, which pleased his admirers more than a victory would have done.

When McChesney appeared on the track it was apparent he was high in flesh and likely to tire before the end of the journey. This view was reflected in the betting, the colt opening at 1 to 2 and receding to 11 to 10. Accordingly, when the son of Macduff began to stop shortly before the eighth post, after having raced Huzzah into the ground and securing a lead into the stretch, it occasioned no marked surprise. But when McChesney, already beaten by Aladdin, responded to the whip, which Winkfield wielded half the length of the stretch, and hung on to Bennett's colt, coming again after having once stopped, it brought only approbation from old turfmen. Had McChesney been other than the gamest of colts he would have been beaten several lengths. As it was, he lost in a close finish, although Coburn probably had something in reserve with Aladdin. It is a safe wager, however, that the winner never again will beat McChesney under similar weights and conditions.

Hildreth Pleased with Colt.

Owner Hildreth was as enthusiastic after the race as if the colt had won off by himself, as he appeared to be doing rounding the home bend. "Some people thought my colt would not be game," Mr. Hildreth said. "That's the limit of gameness for a colt who is short and beaten at the eighth post to come under the whip the way he did. I am more than satisfied. I will start the colt in the Clark Stakes on Saturday if the track remains the same, and this race will do him good. He did everything I expected of him."

McChesney's start was the feature of a day's sport marked by the victory of only one favorite. He was entered to carry 103 pounds, but shouldered five pounds overweight to secure Winkfield's services as pilot, which gave him one pound the worst of it with Aladdin. Bragg, Huzzah, and Lou Woods also were in the race, but were regarded merely as "fillers."

Starter Dwyer was careful to get his field away well and tried twice before he finally dispatched the bunch of five. Huzzah raced out in the lead and Winkfield took McChesney after the leader, running lapped down the backstretch. On the far turn McChesney began to move up, and coming around the stretch bend had obtained the lead; which he increased to two lengths when straightened out into the stretch. He appeared to be winning easily, when lack of condition began to tell and Aladdin, who had been moving up with the favorite, made his run. The distance was soon cut down and Bennett's colt obtained a lead. Winkfield went to the bat. Still Aladdin gained until his margin was a half length. Then McChesney with noteworthy gameness came again and began to creep up until the distance at the end was only a neck. It was a great race and McChesney suffered nothing with critics by his defeat.

Harlem Track Notes.

Jockeys Winkfield and Coburn were fined $25 each for rough riding in the second race.

Alard, from Hildreth's stable, won the Merchants' Stake at Latonia yesterday. The owner had $1,000 placed in a local book, accepting ticker odds for his money. The ticker said 2 to 1.

Americano, Baldwin's fast 2-year-old, is entered in the first race today. The showy looking youngster will be opposed by Colonnade, another 2-year-old who is credited with time trials which almost stopped the railbirds' watches.

Trainer Poole of the Tichenor stable asked to have Sidney C. Love excused, as he said the colt was suffering from a cold or mild form of influenza, which also affected Miracle II. and Foxy Kane. Secretary Nathanson asked a veterinary's certificate before presenting the matter to Judge Hamilton, and the colt was started, defeating Early. The stable was reported to have bet on Early.

Red Robe Wins Canadian Derby.

Buffalo, N. Y., June 10.—George Hendrie's Patrician—Noblesse colt Red Robe won the Canadian Derby at Fort Erie this afternoon in a driving finish with Dubious. There were three starters. The track was heavy. Summary:

First race, 6 furlongs—Huntressa won, Zonne second. Time, 1:18¾.

Jenkins Fails in Wrestling Feat.

Cleveland, O., June 10.—Tom Jenkins undertook too great a task tonight when he tried to throw Dan McLeod of Hamilton, Ont., twice within ninety minutes of actual wrestling time. Jenkins was able to secure but one fall, and that took up fifty-three minutes of his allotted time. After a rest the men again went on the mat, and McLeod stood the big Cleveland wrestler off until time had expired.

Champion Breaks a Record.

Baltimore, Md., June 10.—Albert Champion clipped two-fifths of a second off the ten-mile motor-paced bicycle record at the Coliseum track tonight. He won easily from George Leander in straight heats. Time, 14:57 4-5 and 14:47. Freeman's best time for the distance was 14:47 2-5, made on the same track last week.

HERMIS IS ON THE WAY.

ZIEGLER'S DERBY CANDIDATE IS EXPECTED HERE TODAY.

Trainer Hughes Leaves New York with 3-Year-Old and Five Youngsters, Which Will Be Quartered at Hawthorne—Developments Reduce Number of Possible Starters in Washington Park Classic—Old England and Homestead May Not Come West.

[BY T. J. GALLAGHER.]

New York, June 10.—[Special.]—Barring accident, Hermis, H. M. Ziegler's American Derby candidate, will be in Chicago tomorrow morning. He left here this morning at 8 o'clock on a fast Pennsylvania train. Charlie Hughes took five 2-year-olds along with the 3-year-old and expects to quarter the lot at Hawthorne.

Today's developments reduced the probable Eastern horses to start in the Derby to a small number. With the exception of Arsenal, which will be shipped on June 18, not even one more thoroughbred can be said to be reasonably certain to follow Heno and Hermis. Green Morris today corrected the statement that Old England is not engaged in the Tidal Stakes, to be run at Sheepshead Bay the same day the Derby will be decided at Washington Park. Sombrero and Cunard are not in the Tidal, but both Old England and Homestead are.

Sombrero is not doing well, and Cunard, with 117 pounds up, performed today in the second race, at a mile and a sixteenth, in a manner that displayed little Derby quality.

Tom Healy, who trains Dixieline, says it is settled that R. T. Wilson Jr.'s candidate will not go West. It is understood that Dixieline will be among the contestants for the Tidal Stakes.

Oom Paul, as a Derby contestant, is a remote possibility. He has been given a rough deal since the training season opened, and is classed as "knocked out." Within two weeks he has had three different trainers, having been taken from Howard Williams and placed in Billy Hueston's charge and subsequently transferred to the care of E. L. Graves. But it is not a certainty he will not be sent to Chicago. He has a few valuable engagements, and if his owner, Jacob Worth, takes a notion the game little gelding will have to make the trip.

John E. Madden advises his friends not to consider Pentecost out of the American Derby and says: "He will start in the Suburban and if he runs a good race there will be plenty of time to ship him to Chicago before Derby Day."

Notes of the Derby Candidates.

Heno, who arrived yesterday, will be given three workouts before the Derby, according to Trainer Hill. These will take place tomorrow, Sunday, and next Tuesday. After that Heno will be given just enough exercise to keep in shape.

Sam Hildreth, who lost one of his Derby strings, Lucien Appleby, through the claiming clause in the Riverside Selling Stakes yesterday, bought back the colt at private sale. It was reported he paid $1,000 advance over the $3,840 given by the W. M. Sloan stable.

Otis will be a starter in the St. Louis Derby on Saturday. Jesse Mathews has been engaged to ride Turney Bros.' Glenwater. Pink Coat is the only St. Louis Derby winner of recent years to make good at Washington Park. Silverdale, last year, finished among the "also rans."

New Fight Arena at 'Frisco.

San Francisco, Cal., June 10.—[Special.]—Manager Greggains of San Francisco Athletic club today let a contract for a pavilion in which to hold the Fitzsimmons-Jeffries fight that will seat 15,000 people comfortably. It will be on Valencia street, directly opposite Woodward's pavilion. Greggains said the cost of building would be less than the rental of Mechanics' pavilion, used for all previous championship fights.

College Boxers Go to England.

New Haven, Conn., June 10.—[Special.]—It was stated tonight that Fred A. Wenck of Chicago, a senior in the Yale Law School, and two other Yale men sail tomorrow, with three Harvard men, for Europe to make up the Yale-Harvard team of boxers who will meet teams from Oxford and Cambridge during the athletic tournament of coronation week.

Fail to Fight at Savannah.

Savannah, Ga., June 10.—[Special.]—The Savannah Athletic club scored its first failure to pull off an advertised fight tonight. Fred Douglas of Savannah was to have met Jim McLaughlin of New York in a twenty-round contest. The house was so small McLaughlin refused to fight.

Supples Wins from Simms.

Buffalo, N. Y., June 10.—Curley Supples of this city won a close decision from Art Simms of Akron, O., after twenty rounds of boxing before the Fort Erie club tonight.

Brown Defeats Hale at Foley's.

In the balk line billiard tournament at Foley's last night Brown [210] defeated Hale [180] by a score of 210 to 100. Harris [210] and Miller [150] play tonight.

Comiskey's Champions made it three straight from Washington at the South Side grounds yesterday by winning an interesting contest by a score of 4 to 3.

The raw, cold weather held down the attendance, but did not affect the playing of either team, for in the entire nine innings there was not the semblance of an error. The game was no cinch for the White Stockings at any stage, and in the early innings it looked as if Loftus' sluggers might carry away a victory and spoil Comiskey's hopes for the series. But they didn't succeed, for the all-star aggregation finally won out in the last inning by one run.

Manager Griffith presented his elongated twirler, Virgil Garvin, for the sluggers to pound, but if there was any pounding to be done it did not materialize, for the "Navasota tarantula," was in good form and wound his favorite benders and curves around the visitors' bats with effect. The Senators hit the ball often enough, however, and hard enough for that matter, but there was always somebody waiting in just about the right spot. Garvin as usual had one bad inning, as did Patten, who opposed him on the slab. That was the second, and when the Senators had finished they were three runs to the good, as the result of a pair of bingles and Clarke's home run into the bleachers. Patten received his bumps in the fourth whereby the White Stockings climbed up to even terms.

Loftus' men were the first to score, when in the second inning they opened a gap of three runs. Not until the fourth did the home team make a run, and in that round the score was evened up. After Green had succumbed, Davis singled and Mertes was awarded a pass for his patience. Isbell poked out a nice double, on which Davis and Mertes rode home, and when Daly followed with a bingle "Lize" reached the counting station.

After this and until the ninth neither side was able to place the ball in safe territory. Then Mertes opened with a single and Isbell sacrificed down the third base line. Wolverton came in after the ball, scooped it cleanly, and threw to Carey. Meanwhile Mertes was tearing past second and never stopped running until he was within sliding distance of third, where he hit the dirt, reaching the bag barely ahead of the ball. There was nothing to it after that, for Daly's bingle which followed completed the story: Score:

Notes of the Game.

Boston is next.

Green was a busy man out in right field and corralled five flies.

While Jones was at bat in the third inning, and had two strikes called Strang started to steal second. Jones made a swipe at the ball, missed it, and Clarke threw to second, nailing Strang.

Strang and Coughlin made good catches, which were repetitions of their performances yesterday. Strang pocketed a foul over against the stand, while Coughlin speared a liner with his ungloved hand.

A funny play occurred in the third inning while Delehanty was at bat. "Del" hit one of those grass cutters down towards first base. Isbell made a dive for the ball, but it was going so fast that it caromed off his hands, and went over near the bleachers. "Lize" picked himself up and chased after it. Meanwhile, Delehanty had turned first, but while between the two bags stumbled and fell. He barely had time to get back to the initial bag before Isbell returned the ball to Garvin, who was covering.

Yale, 15; West Point, 4.

West Point, N. Y., June 10.—The Military Academy baseball team played the Yale University nine here today and was defeated by the score of 15 to 4. A distinguished crowd witnessed the game. RAIN STOPS THE COLTS.

GAME CALLED IN THIRD INNING, WITH CHICAGO AHEAD.

Manager Selee Presented with Gold Watch Inscribed "From Boston Friends"—Slagle Remembered with Umbrella, Which Proves a Timely Gift—Contest Interrupted with Score 7 to 6, After Series of Weird Plays—Lowe and Long Chief Offenders.

Boston, Mass., June 10.—[Special.]—What promised to be a record for yellow ballplaying was stopped by rain early in the fourth inning at the South End grounds this afternoon.

Pittinger and St. Vrain were selected to do the pitching and a sorry mess each made of it. The first inning was a blank. The second was marked by the poorest ballplaying ever witnessed here and resulted in seven runs for the Colts and six for the home team, twenty-one men going to bat. Of the seven hits credited three were the worst sort of scratches. Bobby Lowe and Herman Long were the worst offenders against good ball, the latter making a mess every time he had a chance, which included two bad fumbles.

Manager Selee and Jimmy Slagle received gifts from their old Boston friends. The old Boston manager was called to the plate by Umpire Cantillon and presented with an open-faced gold watch, and charm, inscribed "From Boston Friends." The silver-handled umbrella given Slagle was from the McCormick Outing club of Dorchester. After the game was called off Selee and Bobby Lowe met a host of old friends in the grandstand.

Picked English Team Wins Match, Six Goals to Five—Score Four Times Tied.

[BY CABLE TO THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.]

LONDON, June 10.—The King and Queen, accompanied by the Princess Victoria and the Princess Charles of Denmark, drove to Ranelagh today to witness the exhibition of the American polo team. The Americans were defeated by a scratch team of English players by a score of 6 goals to 5.

The game was the result of an intimation that the King and Queen would like to see the Americans play. The King was particularly interested in the performance of Lawrence Waterbury, whose playing has become the talk of the English polo world.

Agassiz stood out of the American team and was replaced by Monty Waterbury. The English team comprised Rawlinson, [illegible], Scott-Robson, and Captain Jenner. The ground was sticky, but the play nevertheless was fast and brilliant. The game was well contested and exciting. The score was level four times. Their Majesties displayed much interest throughout. After the game [illegible] White, secretary of the American Embassy, introduced the Americans to the King, who shook hands with them and complimented them upon their skill. The Earl of [illegible] subsequently met Agassiz and Lawrence Waterbury and shook hands with them, thus closing the incident arising from the use of spurs by Lawrence Waterbury in the recent international game, which led the Earl to make a complaint against him. The Ranelagh club dined the Americans this evening.

SUBSIDY IS DEAD IN THIS SESSION.

House Committee on Merchant Marine Fails to Mention Measure in Report.

HOPKINS TALKS OF BILL.

Congressman Declares All Sentiment Favoring Aid to Shipping Has Disappeared.

WASHINGTON BUREAU CHICAGO TRIBUNE, Washington, D. C., June 10.

Committee Admits Subsidy Bill Is Dead.

General Grosvenor of Ohio, a colleague of Senator Hanna and chairman of the House Committee on Merchant Marine, which has the matter in charge today, admitted officially on the floor of the House that the ship subsidy bill has been put to sleep, at least for this session of Congress, and probably for a long time to come.

As a member of the Committee on Rules, General Grosvenor read on the floor a list of the measures which have been given a place for consideration before adjournment. It was extremely significant that the ship subsidy bill was not included on this list, this being an official acknowledgment by the leaders of the House that they had resolved, for this session at least, not to burn their fingers with the measure.

The subsidy bill has not been reported from the House committee, of which General Grosvenor is chairman, and there is no immediate prospect of its being favorably reported.

Hopkins Says People Do Not Favor Measure.

For a considerable length of time a majority of the Republicans on the committee were opposed to the subsidy scheme. Lately, however, one of those in opposition, Mr. Jones of Washington, has been influence by local interests in his State to withdraw his opposition. There are three Republicans, however, representing the central West, as a matter of course—Hopkins of Illinois, Minor of Wisconsin, and Stevens of Minnesota—who are entirely opposed to the measure, and they, with the Democrats, constitute an adverse majority of the committee. In explaining his position Mr. Hopkins said: "During the Senatorial campaign in Illinois, I was out in the country for four months, covering practically every county in the State. I am satisfied that, if there ever was any public sentiment in favor of the ship subsidy on the lines proposed in this bill, it has now fully disappeared. Newspapers in Illinois, which formerly favored the subsidy bill, no longer advocate it, and their policy reflects the public view."

Mr. Hopkins did not explain, but another member did, that the change of sentiment in the newspapers in the country was coincident with the abandonment of the active campaign for the subsidy bill by the Republican National committee. That is to say, it has now been completely demonstrated that practically the only newspaper sentiment in favor of the subsidy bill was that which was contained in the "patent insides" furnished by the National committee. As soon as that extraordinary proceeding was put a stop to the fictitious sentiment for the subsidy measure disappeared.

"I have never heard of the Great Lakes Towing association," said Attorney General Knox today. "Consequently I have not ordered an investigation of the affairs of that association." This flat-footed and unqualified denial was brought forth by an inquiry made of Attorney General Knox by THE TRIBUNE representative today.

Department of Agriculture to Have New Home.

The War department is in receipt of the general order issued by General Jacob H. Smith, in Leyte, to troops when he relinquished command of the sixth separate brigade. The order does not read like the farewell of a brutal butcher but rather is the solemn leavetaking of a wise and prudent soldier. In the course of his order General Smith says:

"For over forty years my daily life has been identified with the soldier of our army, and, naturally, I have had a large and varied experience of them and their deeds. And never in all this long period have I seen them confronted with problems so novel, so difficult of solution, and which required such courage, persistency, and pluck as those imposed upon them by the Camar campaign now closing. Never has American manhood responded more cheerfully and intelligently. Never were hardships more gallantly faced.

"The trials of hewing a way through a tropical jungle in a roadless country, sore and bleeding feet, with clothing soaked for weeks at a time, infrequent mails, and often scanty rations—all have been met with a courage and virility which, showing her young manhood, bodes well for the future of America and her flag.

"From such troops as these their brigade commander takes his leave with mingled feelings of pride, satisfaction, and sorrow—pride and satisfaction in their achievements; sorrow that the inevitable hour of parting has come. To them all, as well as to the troops on Leyte, the members of the navy and marine corps, who have so well and so loyally assisted him in all his undertakings, and to the members of the brigade staff who have ever met each duty with an ability and fidelity which have made possible the results achieved, the brigade commander offers the assurance of his appreciation of what they have borne and done and his deeply felt thanks therefor."

Among the papers which have accompanied the court-martial record in the case of General Smith are some documents captured from the Filipinos. They include the reports of Lukban, the insurgent leader, showing the character of the warfare proposed to be waged on troops, and especially the sort of fighting occurring at Balangiga. The Lukban papers are communications from officers and contain their instructions and supposed information. Much of the latter is unreliable when it pertains to the American troops. The papers show that there was an extensive use of poison on spear tips and other methods of warfare and means of equipment by the Filipinos which were in direct violation of the rules of civilized warfare.

Navy Board Makes Coast Defense Plans.

The General Board of the Navy, of which Admiral Dewey is President, has been discussing the plans of coast offense and defense to be maintained by the navy in conjunction with the land fortifications, and Rear Admiral P. H. Cooper, who is now on waiting orders at Morristown, N. J., has been designated as the officer who will prepare the coast line from Chatham Light, Cape Cod, to Barnegat Light in New Jersey. This new duty will require a good deal of travel along the coast line embraced in the district, and he is authorized to incur all necessary expenses on such trip.

It is not the intention of the Naval General board to interfere with the plans of defense contemplated by the army coast fortifications, but the plan of the Naval board probably will arouse the artillery officers of the army to some objection against what they may regard as an interference with the legitimate duties of the army.

There has always been more or less rivalry between the two services in the matter of defending the coast, but Admiral Dewey and his associates on the General board believe that the coast forts do not provide all the defense which is necessary. In Chesapeake Bay, for instance, there are no fortifications which would serve to keep out an enemy's vessel, and much the same condition prevails in Delaware Bay and Long Island Sound.

The board has made a report to the Secretary of the Navy suggesting in general terms that the department possess itself of a plan of offense and defense which shall contemplate the movement of naval vessels of all classes, from the small torpedo-boat to the largest battleships, taking into consideration as well the use of the submarine torpedo vessels. It is with the idea of preparing a plan in detail along the coast from Chatham Light to Barnegat Light that Rear Admiral Cooper has been designated. His letter of instructions will be regarded as confidential matter, but it is known that in general terms he is specially cautioned not to overstep the line which divides the naval from the shore system of defense. Nevertheless the artillery officers are likely to regard the incident of Rear Admiral Cooper's detail as an encroachment on the function of their arm.

"President Roosevelt will be the Republican leader in 1904," said Representative William Alden Smith as he left the White House today. "The Republicans of Michigan are for Roosevelt with all their hearts. The young men are especially enthusiastic for him."

No Objection to Investigating Rathbone Case.

The administration will make no objection to an investigation of the conduct of General Wood in connection with the case of E. P. Rathbone, former Director of Posts of Cuba, who has just been pardoned by President Palma. Senator Hanna, who has espoused the case of Rathbone, has repeatedly charged that General Wood persecuted the accused postal official. It developed today that General Wood went so far as to suggest to the Senator that he send a lawyer to Havana to make a thorough investigation of the charges against Rathbone. This suggestion was not adopted, though Senator Hanna did receive a report from a Cuban lawyer, which established Rathbone's innocence.

No suggestion has been made by Republicans for a Congressional investigation of Rathbone's case, but the authorities who administered Cuban affairs are quite willing that such an inquiry should be begun. Instead of persecuting Rathbone, it is said with authority that General Wood, on the other hand, made every effort to see that exact justice was administered. The lawyer who defended Rathbone was the brainiest advocate in the island, and it was generally believed at the time that he would be the Minister of Justice in Palma's Cabinet. As in this position he would have had supervision of the judiciary and the appointment of Judges, it was natural to suppose that the Judges comprising a court which heard Rathbone's case would be disposed favorably towards his client.

General Wood forbade either his military officers or employés of the civil government to go to the court, having no desire to raise even the suspicion that the military government was attempting to influence the decision. Under these favorable conditions Rathbone was found guilty. So far as his trial in the United States is concerned, the officials say that this course is out of the question and they believe he understands this fact as well as they do.

Hanna Talks of Ohio Squabble.

As he came out of the White House today Senator Hanna talked freely about the Ohio political squabble, and among other things said: "I do not want to criticise Mr. Burton, but I do not believe his charges are well founded, nor do I want to make that subject a national matter. The whole thing is absurd. The Civil Service commission has failed to find anything like a violation of the law. I understand that the President has satisfied himself of this fact and will not institute any sensational investigation nor reprimand the federal officers for the part they took in the matter."

Gen. Smith's Farewell Order to His Troops.

It will be interesting to the farmers of the country to know that the Senate Committee on Public Buildings and Grounds has made a favorable report on the bill providing for the appropriation of $2,500,000 for the erection of a new Agricultural department in this city. The department has completely outgrown its quarters, and in order to accommodate the different bureaus the Secretary has been forced to rent a number of buildings in the vicinity of the agricultural grounds.

Plans for the new building have already been drawn, and if Congress authorizes the appropriation there will be little delay in beginning the work. A measure similar to the Senate bill is pending before the House Committee on Public Buildings and Grounds, and while the members of the lower branch of Congress are favorable to the project, nothing will be done by the House committee until the Senate has adopted the measure reported today.

Secretary Wilson is extremely popular with members of both branches of Congress, and they are disposed to give him everything within reason. Owing to the desire of Congress to adjourn at an early date and the note of warning against further appropriations sounded by Representative Cannon and his plea for rigid economy, it is probable that the Agricultural department bill may not be acted upon at this session.

President Roosevelt today agreed to visit Grand Rapids, Mich., in September, when he makes his Western trip. The exact date has not been fixed, but it will be arranged with the authorities at Detroit, where the President is to make a special stop, and from there go on to Grand Rapids. The President is promising to go away rather freely this fall and agreed to go to Rockland, Me., in August if he can possibly make an open date.

House Refuses to Advance Gen. Brooke.

An unfavorable report was made today by the House Committee on Military Affairs on the bill providing for the advancement of General Brooke, the senior Major General of the army to the rank of Lieutenant General and his retirement at that rank. This measure has already been adopted by the Senate, but inasmuch as the House has made an unfavorable report General Brooke will be retired at his present grade.

YE GARDENER'S CORNER

Flowers are the dearest comforters imaginable. They never "answer back" unpleasantly, but their responses are as unfailing as sweet.

If you have, by chance, a stone wall uncovered, set out a memorial rose to train over it, and you will soon rejoice in a mass of trailing beauty and generous, luxuriant bloom.

The pink, white, and yellow carnations are all beautiful, and large plants should bloom this summer. The sweet scent of the carnation is one of its greatest charms.

The asparagus sprengeri or emerald feather plant may be multiplied for next winter's use at this time. Cut each plant apart, carefully, with a sharp knife before setting out for the summer. Each piece of the "crown" will form a new plant.

The garden lilies should show speedy signs of budding. If a good, healthy growth has not been made stir the ground about the roots lightly, water plentifully, and watch with care. A little weak fertilizing water, judiciously applied, will sometimes produce blooms after all hope seems gone.

When your neighbor's flowering shrubs and bushes make you envious remember that this is the season for blossoms, but that these blossoming beauties were set out some time ago. It is the careless flower lover who only remembers his intentions when he sees them whose garden is empty or incomplete.

Most water plants love sunshine, and the long, hot days should bring forth bloom in abundance. Encourage the water lilies with weak fertilizer if they seem backward and remove all branches or shrubs that obstruct the sunshine. With water plants, also, sunshine and fresh air should be combined into glorious bloom.

This is the "between seasons" period in most gardens, with the early spring flowers resting, and the summer blossoms scarcely ready to open. While waiting for the transformation to come a little later let not the beginner besiege the unfortunate gardener with groundless complaints, but "keep at work" assiduously and with good cheer.

Once more, for the benefit of dwellers in shade-less places, remember the petunia, calliopsis, portulaca, marigold, geranium, nasturtium, and similar plants if the soil seems too poor to grow things easily, water well in the cool of the day, and bright color will be yours in abundance if nothing else.

UNIVERSITY ATHLETES LOSE THEIR MASCOT.

Rab, the official backstop for the University of Chicago baseball nine and mascot for football, baseball, and track teams for years, died from poisoning late on Monday night. His funeral, held yesterday, was attended by all the ceremony that captains and representatives of athletic teams could give it. Rab was the most popular mascot dog that ever gave a loyal bark for the maroon flag. He was fed and lodged at the Phi Delta Theta chapter-house, 5719 Monroe avenue, but ownership was claimed by the entire university student body. Rab was a pure white bull terrier. For three years he attended every athletic contest on Marshall Field, wearing vivid maroon decorations at big football contests. At varsity baseball games Rab sat close to the players' bench and chased all the foul balls that were struck, bringing them back to the diamond. Members of the baseball team declare that their success on home grounds this year is due to the encouraging influence of their mascot. The funeral, which was held yesterday morning in the back yard of the Phi Delta Theta lodge, was attended by heroes of track diamond and gridiron. Herbert Ahlswede, tackle on the football team, acted as grave digger, and the dog's body was laid on a mat in front of the grave while short exercises were held. Fred Speik, shot-putter on the track team, gave a short address. The pallbearers were Captain James Sheldon of the football team; Chester Ellsworth, pitcher on the baseball team; George Garrey, quarter back on the football squad; Captain Floyd Harper of the baseball team; Second Baseman MacClyment of the baseball nine; and Ernest Quantrell of the track team. A subscription is being raised among the athletes of the university to buy Rab a tombstone.

YALE STUDENTS BLOWN TO SEA.

Five Men Rescued by Searching Party After Night and Day of Peril on a Sloop.

New Haven, Conn., June 10.—[Special.]—Five Yale students returned late today from a cruise on a sloop prolonged through a night and a day. H. H. Bartlett, son of Captain John Bartlett, U. S. N.; G. A. and C. L. Watson of Indianapolis, Ind.; Walter L. Douglas of New London, Conn.; and William H. Taylor of Burlington, N. J., were in the party. In the night they were driven eastward. Bartlett, who is an expert sailor, kept the sloop headed to the Long Island shore and thence directly opposite until daybreak. Without a morsel of food for twenty-three hours, he was at the helm, all the others being sick. A sound steamer almost ran the sloop down. At dawn they followed the north shore westward from New London and were met near the harbor by the fifth searching party.

RACE WAR AROUSES NEGROES.

Colored People of El Dorado, Ill., Angered Over the Attacks on Their School.

Carbondale, Ill., June 10.—[Special.]—The bitter racial war now on at El Dorado, in which the colored normal and industrial school has been forced to suspend and the commencement exercises abandoned, the damage of the school's property, and the partial destruction of the crops on the farm, has created an intense feeling among the colored people over the affair. The Board of Trustees is to meet this week, and an effort is on foot to move the school before the beginning of the next school year. President Alston and family are supposed to be in El Dorado.

ASKS EXTENSIVE MILK INSPECTION

Dr. Gehrmann of Health Department Proposes Cow to Consumer Watch.

DANGER FROM BACTERIA.

Admits His System Would Cost, but Thinks Results Sure to Justify This.

A system of inspection of Chicago's milk supply which shall extend from the retail dealer to the dairyman in the country is advocated by Dr. Adolph Gehrmann of the Health department, who insists that only by carefully watching the milk from the time it is taken from the cow until it is delivered to the consumer can its quality be assured. Now the samples secured from the retail dealers by the city inspectors are tested only for adulteration and the presence of formalin. Scientists declare that milk which is rich in butter fat and the other milk solids may have assumed the most dangerous character through contamination due to careless handling.

The samples gathered by THE TRIBUNE and tested by City Chemist Bisbee are given as apt illustrations of this fact. Nearly all the samples were taken in places that were dirty almost beyond description, and the milk chests had the appearance of being breeding places for disease germs. There is not a physician in Chicago who would say that milk kept amid such surroundings was fit food for an infant, or even an adult.

Dr. Gehrmann's Plan Comprehensive.

The inspection proposed by Dr. Gehrmann includes a supervision of the methods of the dairyman, including the health of his stock, the food given the cows, the manner in which the cows are stabled and cared for, and the method of caring for the milk before it is put on board the car for Chicago. Each dairyman shipping to Chicago would be compelled to hold a certificate of inspection from the city Health department showing that he had complied with all its sanitary requirements and his place would be visited by city inspectors at irregular intervals to insure his keeping everything up to the standard. Failure to comply with the ordinance would result in his milk being refused sale within the city limits.

The transportation feature would receive considerable attention and cars with the proper refrigerating appliances would be demanded of the railroad companies. Following the arrival of the milk in Chicago the condition of the quarters of the local dealers would be looked into carefully and everything brought to a sanitary standard before milk could be sold from any store or milk depot.

Danger from Bacteria Great.

"The danger to the consumer from infected milk is far greater than that from adulteration," said Dr. Gehrmann. "It is an easy matter to determine whether milk has been watered or skimmed and this does not necessarily injure the health of the person who uses it. The use of formalin or other preservatives is not general enough to cause widespread alarm, except perhaps during hot weather, when the temptation is strong to do something to make the milk keep. The real danger lies in the large quantities of milk brought into the city every day loaded with bacteria which cannot be found, except by a long examination.

"It is not enough to talk about sterilizing milk after it reaches the city. The real remedy is to keep it sterile from the beginning, and this can only be done through a careful inspection beginning at the dairy. It must be seen to that the cows are healthy, and next that they are kept clean. The men who milk them must be kept clean, and the vessels which hold the milk must be carefully sterilized. No dust should get into the milk and it should be cooled properly in a clean place and delivered to the trains in the same manner. The temperature should be kept constant while it is in transit, and, last but not least, milk should not be sold from dirty surroundings.

"All these improvements will cost money and may result in milk becoming a little more expensive, but the cost to each family will be slight and the guarantee that it will bring ought to more than compensate the user."

Present Tests Show Good Results.

A recent report by Chief Milk Inspector T. F. Grady of tests made at all of the sixty-six receiving stations in Chicago may be used as an argument in favor of Dr. Gehrmann's system. During the months of January and February 742 samples were taken, and 568, or 76½ per cent, were of grade No. 1, containing more than 3.6 per cent of butter fat, which is .6 more than the State law requires. Of the entire number only ten were under the legal limit. This milk was distributed in all parts of the city, including the Ghetto and the poorer tenement sections. In spite of the apparent uniformity, it is believed that in sanitary condition the various samples were widely apart, but the city test does not reveal this. If the milk was not germ-laden before it reached the Ghetto it probably became so afterward.

"It is all right to talk about sterilizing milk, but it is another thing to get people to use it," said John M. MacVean, editor of Milk News. "The sterilizing changes the taste and nearly every one would have a prejudice in favor of the raw article. The placing of additional safeguards around the dairies and the places where milk is sold will do more good than any movement toward a general purification after it reaches the city. There are a great many dairymen who use every precaution to keep the milk from taint, but I am sorry to say there are also a large number who are slovenly in their methods. The same is true with dealers in Chicago, and I am sure that the progressive members of both classes would welcome a fair inspection which would bring all Chicago milk to a uniform standard.

"Much that is said against milk that comes here is not true, but there are many abuses in the trade that ought to be corrected, especially in the poorer districts. The City Health department cannot hope to exercise a thorough supervision over the supply with a force of four inspectors, and an enlarged department, kept free from politics and with thoroughly capable men in every position, would do much for health of the population."

RAILROADS ARE HARD HIT.

Kentucky Court of Appeals Upholds Decision Greatly Increasing Their Assessments.

Frankfort, Ky., June 10.—[Special.]—By a decision of the Court of Appeals today the railroad corporations of Kentucky will be compelled to pay each year large sums to the various towns and cities. Only recently the assessments of the railways of the State have been increased from 30 to 100 per cent by the State Board of Valuation and Assessment, and under the decision handed down today the same basis will be employed by the cities and counties, thus greatly increasing the fixed charges of the various railways, and particularly the Louisville and Nashville, which suffered an increase of 100 per cent, its franchise being valued at $60,000,000, as against $30,000,000 heretofore. The decision was in the case of the Southern railway against Auditor Coulter and other members of the State Board of Assessment and Valuation. It upheld the judgment of the lower court.

FOREST RESERVE KILLED.

CONGRESSMAN CANNON OPPOSES THE EXTRA EXPENSE.

Says the Appropriations Exceed the Income Estimates by $51,000,000 and More Expenses Are in Prospect—Congressman Corliss Makes Argument in Support of His Government Pacific Cable—Dalzell Wants It Built Privately.

Washington, D. C., June 10.—Congressman Cannon, chairman of the House Ways and Means committee, defeated the bill to transfer certain forest reserves to the Agricultural department and to authorize the President to establish game and fish preserves. Its death was accomplished by striking out the enacting clause. The motion was made by Mr. Cannon and was carried by 100 to 70. He claimed that the bill would greatly increase the cost of administering forest reserves and declared that the estimated receipts of the next fiscal year already were exceeded by the appropriations up to the present time by over $51,000,000.

Corliss Argues for Cable.

The House then adopted a special order for the consideration of the Corliss Pacific cable by a vote of 108 to 73, and for the remainder of the afternoon listened to the author of the measure argue in favor of its passage. "This measure," he said, "provides for a government cable uniting our islands in the Pacific with the American continent. By its terms the cable shall be American made, laid by American ships, and managed by the American government."

Mr. Corliss denounced private cable monopolies, and read letters from Captain Squier of the signal service, who, he said, had been in charge of the cable interests in the Philippines for three years, and from Admiral Bradford as to the necessity for a government cable and the existence of a cable monopoly in the Orient.

"Here we are at this moment," Mr. Corliss, in conclusion, said, "with 8,000,000 people in the Philippines, our military and civil government without communication, severed from all the world, and the battleships of our navy being used as dispatch boats to carry communications to our people."

Dalzell Opposes Government Line.

Mr. Dalzell [Pa.] announced that he was opposed to the government building a cable to the Philippines. He said he favored the construction of an American cable by American capital, and gave notice that at the proper time he would offer as a substitute a bill to authorize the President to contract for the construction of a cable under certain conditions.

The minority of the Commerce committee opposes the Corliss bill on the ground that the commercial Pacific company is now at work building a cable, which is to be laid by 1905.

PASSES NAVAL SUPPLY BILL.

Senate Grants $78,000,000 for New Warships—Sufferers from Chicago Explosion Reimbursed.

Washington, D. C., June 10.—Another of the big supply bills of the government was disposed of by the Senate today, the naval bill, carrying more than $78,000,000, being passed. It includes provisions for two first-class battleships, two first-class armored cruisers, and two gunboats; but strikes out the House provision that one of each shall be built at government yards.

When consideration was resumed of the isthmian canal question Mr. Turner delivered an extended argument in support of the Nicaragua route. He maintained that the new Panama company could not pass a clear title to the Panama Canal company's rights, franchises, and property to the United States and that if the government purchased it, it would be with all its incumbrances.

A bill was passed appropriating $15,845 for the relief of the persons who sustained damages by the explosion of an ammunition chest of Battery F, Second United States Artillery, in Chicago, on July 16, 1894.

Sues an Inventor for Damages.

William J. Kenney, manager of the Illinois Machine and Foundry company, has brought suit against Oscar K. Trego, inventor of the Trego inkwell, for $5,000 damages for alleged false arrest. The trouble is the outcome of a business deal.

MandelBrother's Daily StoreNews.

We close at 5:30.

Visit the Mandel tea rooms on the fourth floor.

When shopping in the store don't fail to visit the Mandel tea rooms, on the fourth floor in the Wabash-av. building. They're beautifully arranged, always cool and pleasant—a delightful place where you can rest after the fatigue of shopping and partake of a dainty and appetizing luncheon.

Exquisite ruffs you'll see at the Derby.

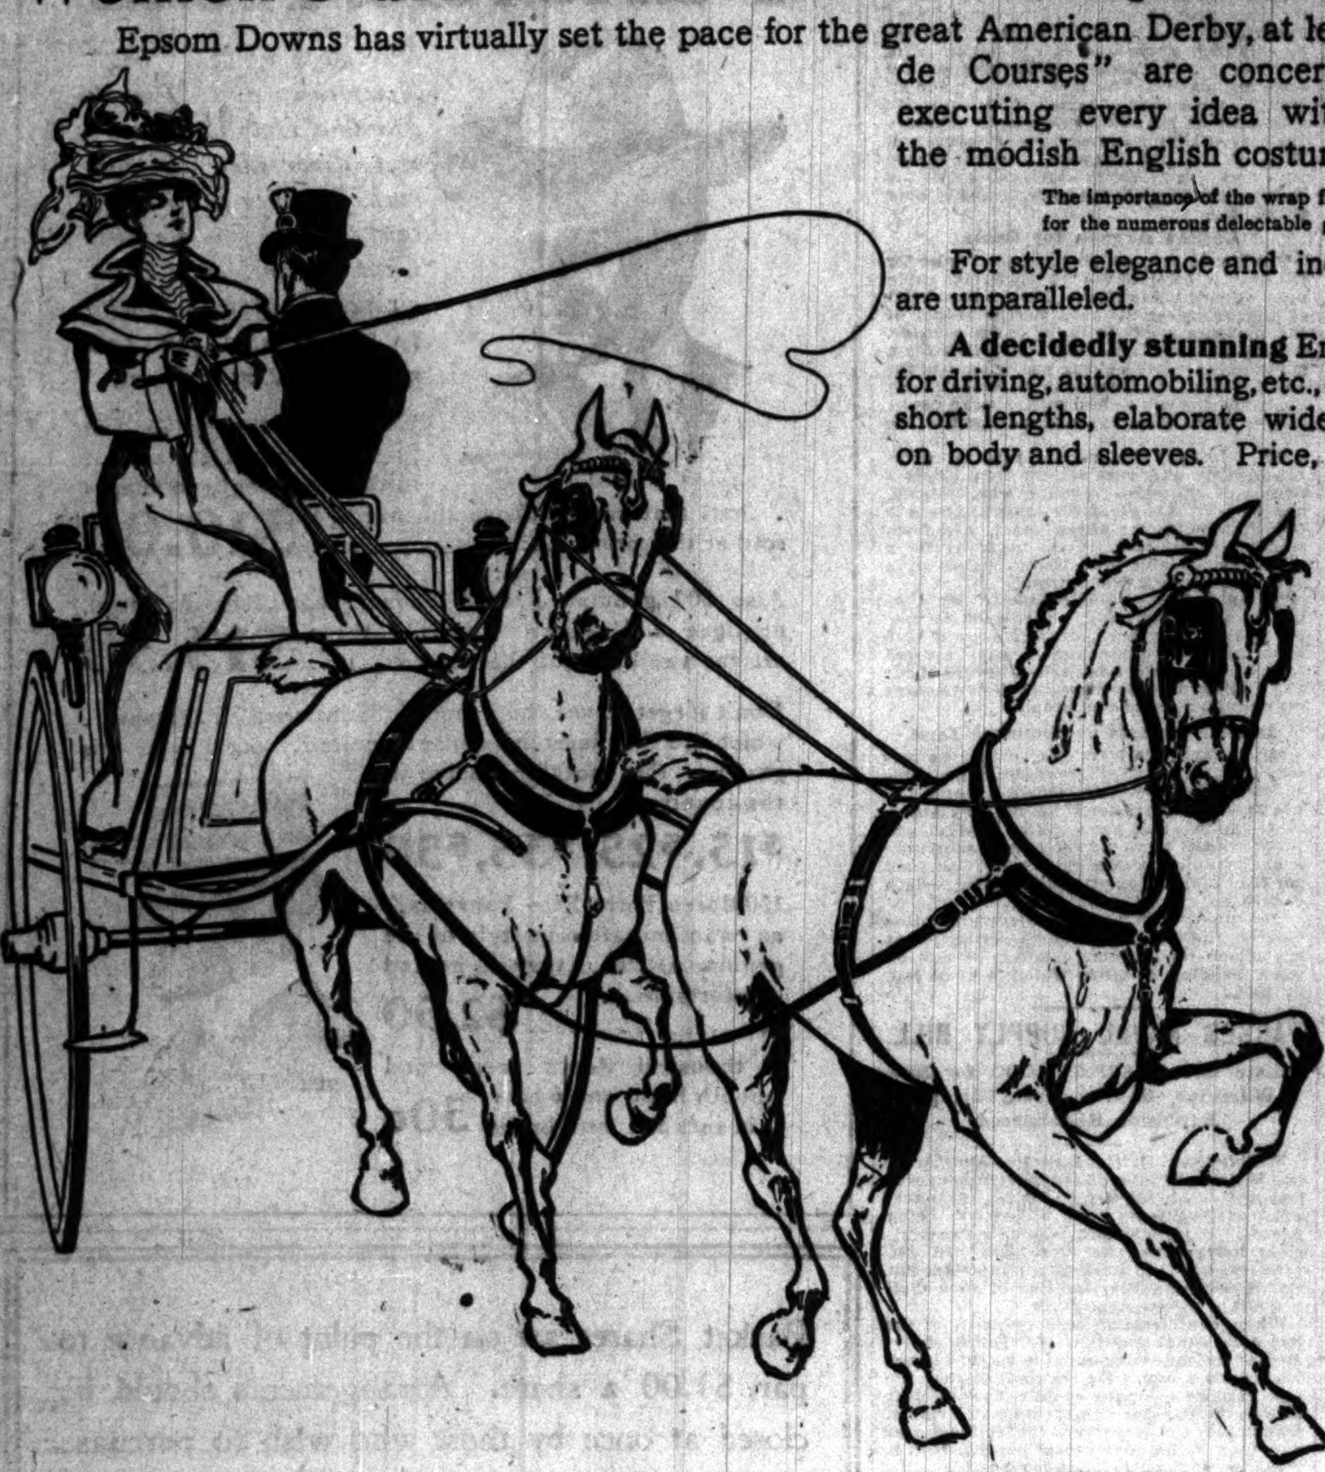
Nothing could be prettier than these ruffs we are selling for Derby day.

They're the setting for the costume so much desired—liberty silk, chiffon, and black or white dotted net ruffs, $3 to 22.50.

Special—We are also closing out a lot of imported novelty ruffs at less than half price. You'll do well not to overlook this opportunity.

Women's ultra fashionable wraps for Derby day.

Epsom Downs has virtually set the pace for the great American Derby, at least so far as the "Toilettes de Courses" are concerned, renowned modistes executing every idea with a view to outrivaling the modish English costumes of regal beauty.



The importance of the wrap for Derby wear is responsible for the numerous delectable genres evolved this season.

For style elegance and individuality the Mandel coats are unparalleled.

A decidedly stunning English Derby coat, appropriate for driving, automobiling, etc., comes in rich tan moleskin in short lengths, elaborate wide bands, neatly stitched, both on body and sleeves. Price, $40.

You'll admire the Monte Carlo coat of fine pongee lined with white taffeta; inch tucks, forming a novel yoke effect, extending over sleeves; circular collar of black velvet ribbon and Persian silk with Irish crochet over collar, fancy cuffs to match collar. A nobby little coat, $60.

Three-quarter length coat of fine tan moleskin in applique effect over rich Irish net—circular collar and bottom of bell sleeves finished with Medici lace—jaunty streamer fasteners down front starting from high collar edged with profuse ruching—$100.

Dainty pongee coat in three-quarter length, effectively lined with soft white silk—circular collar in triple design, with Irish crochet galloon trimming enriching collar, sleeves and bottom of coat—collar and down front edged with nile green velvet covered with Irish galloon, at $65.

Bargains in jackets; your choice of 300 blouses in cheviot, taffeta, moire or peau de soie at one-half their former price, some Gibson style, others plain; all taffeta lined—$10 jackets for $5; $15 jackets for 7.50; $20 jackets for $10.

A few special bargain attractions.

Chosen from the dozens and hundreds of splendid bargains you can procure in the store today.

Presumably these will interest you, for every one is vibrant with a clear, strong note of economy.

White shirt waists—Six special bargain lots of thin, crisp, breezy white shirt waists, including every style Dame Fashion smiles upon this season, all finely trimmed and finished—specially priced at 3.85, 2.95, 2.50, 1.95, 1.25 and 95c.

Regular $25 suits of cheviots, homespuns and wool crash, some silk lined throughout with taffeta drop lining—all colors and sizes—closed at 9.75.

Sample embroideries—Manufacturers' samples and trial strips of fine Swiss and nainsook embroideries in matched sets—3 and 4 widths of edgings, with insertions to match, in lengths of 4½ yards, at less than half—39c down to 12½c.

Women's fast black hose, made of the choicest pure silk with double heels and toes—splendid hose, imported specially for this occasion—pair 89c.

Handsome French valenciennes laces and insertions, by the dozen yards, ¼ to 1½ inches in width, edgings and insertions to match, per dozen yards, $1, 75c, 50c, 35c, and 25c.

First-class bathroom fittings, at 20% reduction from regular prices—bath tub seats, towel bars, soap and tooth brush holders, bath sprays, combination sets, etc.—sale at 20% off.

Silk foulards at 50c—Thousands and thousands of yards of the finest silk foulards at half former prices—the most elegant of this season's superb foulard designs, at 68c, 58c and 50c.

Japanese mattings at 25c—Including damask, carpet and inlaid effects—regular 30c, 35c and 40c grades are now on sale, at, per yard, 25c.

White skirts, fluffy, lacy petticoats, with deep knee flounces that are trimmed with rows of inserting and have edges; also many skirts with full umbrella flounces trimmed with lace or embroidery—5.95, 4.25, 3.95, 2.85, 1.95, 1.50 and 1.15.

Fine ribbed silk vests with pure silk lace over busts and shoulders, Swiss made; lisle thread vests with beautiful lace edges around neck and armholes; fine ribbed Swiss vests with fancy openwork hand-crocheted busts, new designs—at 50c.

Captivating fans of silk gauze; also fanciful conceits in spangled and decorated designs, prettily carved bone sticks—at 1.25 and 95c.

High back oak rocker, with genuine leather seat—a roomy and comfortable chair, regularly selling for $14, but our price is just $10.

Cowhide suit cases, steel frame, heavy leather corners, strong handle, improved brass catches and push lock, linen lined, with large roomy shirt fold, size 24 inches, at $5.

Remarkable values in imported wash goods

Main floor, Wabash-av. Linen Section.

You will need several summer dresses while on your vacation, and at the prices now quoted you will perceive the advantage of securing your supply during this sale.

Wash goods popularity has reached its climax with the charming linen suitings as a central motif.

75c We have received a special importation of the much wanted blue linens for skirts and suits; also a charming assortment of fancy stripes and checks 28 to 32 inches wide. A rare opportunity for late buyers, as you can now secure best quality pure linen at 90c and 75c. 75c

Handsome lace stripe silk mousseline in light and medium shades of blue, rose, gray, pink, green, red and tan. Just at the time when you really need a warm-weather gown we offer this line of 50c fabrics at 28c.

A gigantic purchase of 6,000 yards of fancy stripe ginghams and zephyrs in dark and light colored grounds, hitherto valued at 35c and 40c per yard, now 20c.

All white in Derby day millinery.

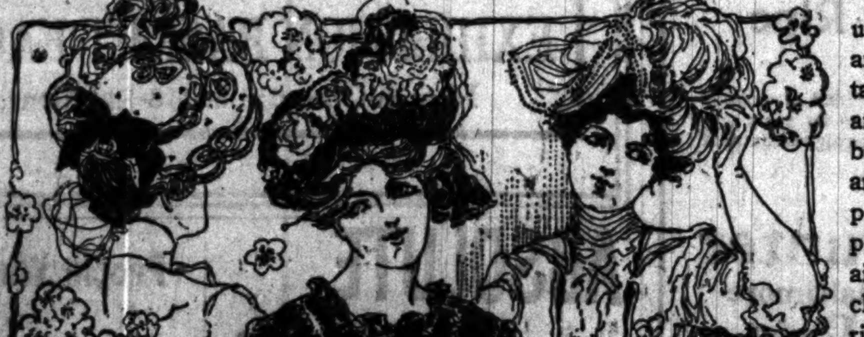
It's wonderful how popular all white has become. We are selling all white hats by the score to members of the fashionable set and they'll be very conspicuous at the Derby.

But there'll be a generous sprinkling of white with green, white and black, and white with navy blue, just enough to prevent monotony, for an occasional flash of color is very pleasing to the eye.

We've copied many of our foreign models which cost 250 francs to import and have them ready for your selection at $20 and $25.

Quite a difference between Paris prices and Chicago prices, yet you get the very same style and beauty.

It's a Mandel plan which has helped to make our millinery section the most popular in America.



The straws most used in these hats are white Neapolitan, chip, hair braid and white Milan braid; trimmings are white roses, pompons, sprays, plumes, braids and aigrettes; materials, chiffon, lace, nets, ribbons, velvets and novelty ornaments.

Special: White and black ostrich plumes, all male bird stock, that are considered the choicest; guaranteed not to come out of curl—12-inch, 3.75; 15-inch, 4.50; 18-inch, 5.50; and 24-inch, 6.75.

Fine Derby day parasols, $5

They're some of the new parasols which we have had made specially for the great Derby day event.

No wonder they sell, for besides their style and beauty they're made from a rare quality of figured taffeta silk in choice Dresden effects, with double ruffle of fine chiffon.

We used a French parasol for a model whose regular price was $12.

This is every bit as good—just as pretty, just as stylish, just as finely made.

When raised it's the prettiest $5 parasol that will be seen this season. They're light and airy—when closed they are distinguised by the stylish fluffy effect.

We've a great many other parasols somewhat higher in price. In fact, some are quite expensive, but whatever your preferences in styles or prices, you'll do better here than elsewhere.

Weather indications: Cloudy; possibly showers.

Wednesday, June 11th, 1902.

You can shop here on hot days with greater comfort than in any other store in Chicago. Thousands of fans keep the air constantly in motion and the most thorough ventilating system in the world has been established, so that wherever you go in the Mandel store you can breathe cool and invigorating air. Thousands of cubic yards of air are every hour replaced by other thousands drawn from the cool upper atmosphere, untainted by germs from the parched and dusty streets. The absolute purity of the air in this store is remarked upon by all who come here on warm days, and it adds infinitely to the pleasure and comfort of shopping.

Basement toilet goods section.

You spend 30c for 100 pounds of ice and it doesn't last much more than half as long as it would if your refrigerator had one of these covers.

It's an absolute necessity if you look at the matter from the point of economy, for you almost save the price of the contrivance in one purchase of ice.

Lots of people don't know about it, though. Let us show it to you. It'll cost you 19c, but save you many a dollar before the end of the season.

Then, too, it keeps the ice pure.

Basement.

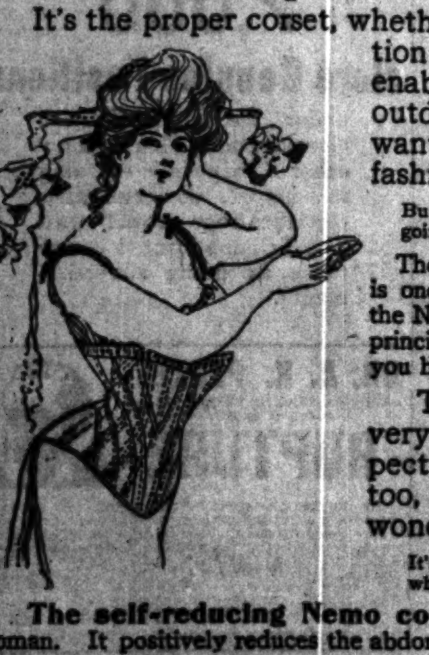
Men's handsome high-class negligee shirts, made from a good grade of madras cloth in "up-to-the-minute" styles.

Buttons well sewed on, seams sewed so as not to ravel, thoroughly well finished shirts in every way.

A better shirt than you can usually buy for a dollar, but we only ask 89c for it.

The rust proof Nemo corset.

It's the proper corset, whether you are going on a vacation and want a corset that will enable you to enter with zeal outdoor sports, or whether you want a corset specially for your fashionable gown.



But this sale is planned for those who are going away to the country or the seashore.

The ease with which this corset is worn is one of the remarkable features about the Nemo that is only explained on the principle that if you accord with nature you have a powerful ally.

The Nemo is rust-proof—a very important point if you expect to be outdoors much; then, too, it retains its shape with wonderful pertinacity.

It's reinforced by triple straps of cloth where other corsets have only one.

The self-reducing Nemo corset is indispensable to the stout woman. It positively reduces the abdomen. Prices, 2.50 and $5.

The Nemo hip-spring is an actual figure builder. This corset comes with the military belt and has also the Delta-dip, the producer of the fashionable long waist. Prices, $2 to $6.

The Nu-ray shape is for the slender woman. It gives to the plainest clothes the effect of smart dressing. Prices, 1.50 and 2.50.

This adroitly planned sale of maids' dainty caps and aprons is of interest to those who anticipate a vacation tour. Prices are way below the regular.

Jaunty little caps and stylish, serviceable aprons from the sheerest and best materials, and in the very latest and most popular modes.

These aprons are much cheaper than if you had them made yourself, and you have no trouble—simply look over a variety that enables you to get the designs that please you best—and that is all.

Aprons prettily trimmed with hemstitching, tucks and embroidery—tea aprons, maids aprons, nurses' aprons, bib aprons, sewing aprons of fine, sheer lawn. Prices range 25c, 39c, 45c, 59c, 75c, 85c, 1.25 and 1.50.

Also a charming line of maids' caps, daintily trimmed with lace and ribbons. You'll wonder how we can sell them for 18c.

Maids' and nurses' caps that are not only serviceable but comely to look upon, for 5c, 10c, 12½c, 25c and up to 1.50.

Basement: Three special lots of aprons, made with deep hems, clusters of tucks in large and small sizes—well made and very durable at the prices, 45c, 25c, 18c, and 10c.

Swell shoes for Derby day wear, boots, colonials, Oxfords and slippers.

The dressing of the foot is as important as any other feature of the Derby day apparel—a point that counts for modish elegance perhaps more that any other in proportion to the expenditure.

For a touch of exclusiveness fashionable dressers always come here, for we show designs that can be seen nowhere else, unequaled for beauty, comfort and fine workmanship.

Boots, $5, $6, $7, $8.

Colonials, $3, 3.50, $5.

Oxfords, $3, $5, $6.

They're strictly Mandel styles, made just as we determined they should be made. The leathers were most carefully selected—the little details in finish and workmanship looked after with jealous care. The styles are altogether the finest ever seen in Chicago and are pronounced the acme of modishness and beauty—whatever your preferences for Derby day wear you'll choose here with pleasure and profit. Boots, $5, $6, $7 and $8. Colonials, $3, 3.50 and $5. Oxfords, $3, $5 and $6.

Basement: An immense purchase of Oxfords in the very latest styles—Cuban, military, medium, opera and common sense heels, to be closed out at once. Women's $3 and 3.50 oxfords at 1.58 and 1.29.

Teneriffe lace-making is the latest craze.

Numerous attempts have been made within the past few months to introduce this popular fad in Chicago.

It is now on exposition in Mandel's for the first time, and devotees of fancy work are enthusiastic over its beauty.

We have just received an importation of the tiny machines with which this beautiful, web-like lace is evolved. They are not shown elsewhere in the city.

The work is extremely simple and the inexpensiveness of threads and machine enables you to perfect most delightful pieces of allover laces for yokes, fronts of waists, center pieces, scarfs, etc.; also fanciful little edgings for the myriads of pieces employed in the decoration of the home.

Of all innovations in fancy work none equals in daintiness and beauty this charming Teneriffe lace, and no style of decoration is so easily executed.

Numerous patterns in most bewitching designs produced from any size thread preferred—the very finest being used for the dainty waist and night dress yokes.

For the benefit of our customers we have employed a demonstrator who will give you all desired information, preparing you to successfully execute the first design attempted. Outfit consists of tiny pincushion at 5c; thread 4c per spool; machine 25c.

Toilet goods specials.

Basement.

They cost so very little, because we've taken the top off the prices.

We make up by selling a great many.

Castile soap—in white or green—warranted to be absolutely pure—bar of full 4 pounds for 19c.

Smart wave hair ornaments at 25c.

Clever novelties from fashionable Paris that impart an added charm to the natural beauties of my lady's hair.

If you'll stop in our notion section today we'll show you how they're worn.

They're in both amber and [illegible] colors, to harmonize with the [illegible]

One-piece bars, barrettes [illegible] combs in 3⅓, 4 and 4½ inch lengths, cost you 50c, 35c and 25c.

SOMETHING ABOUT MAN.

Scientists find facts upon which they base a theory that man's first home was on a continent now sunk beneath the Indian Ocean. Others contend that he appeared simultaneously in the Eastern and Western hemispheres, there being no fundamental unity of races. At least one believes that the Garden of Eden was at the north pole. Every race has a different tradition of man's beginning. All are interesting. How long man has dwelt upon the earth is also a matter of controversy. Some say 100,000 years and present attractive facts. Others name 20,000 years, 10,000 years, or 6,000 years.

How each race—white, red, yellow, brown, or black—got its color? What are the peculiarities of Chinese, African, Australian, Dravidian, or Circassian, and how developed, are matters we would all like to know more about. It is surprising how much has been learned in the last fifty years. What subject could be of greater interest, while affording useful instruction, than the study of man, his origin and progress?

What is more fascinating than to learn interesting facts about all nature's creatures—beasts, birds, fish, reptiles, or flowers? Nature is the universal teacher. You can secure the alphabet of nature—the basis that will give you an insight into the possibilities of nature as a study for relaxation—by getting The Tribune Nature Studies, that come free every day with THE DAILY TRIBUNE, and reading the interesting articles that appear daily on the editorial page. It is surprising how large a fund of information one can secure in a short time by giving a few minutes daily to these pictures and articles. It is really worth your while to look into it. The studies are colored pictures of bird, beast, flower, reptile, race-type, etc., the best it is possible to obtain—tomorrow a Bedouin Sheik in native costume.

For home decoration, as well as for instruction and entertainment, they are of great value for the children and for the older ones. THE TRIBUNE is generally admitted to be the best newspaper in the West. You get double value. The studies and articles make an encyclopedia of valuable information. Order THE TRIBUNE today and you will not regret it. As each picture is distinct you can begin at any time, but every day you wait you lose a study. Send in a postal today, or see your newsdealer. Make a point of it. It is worth your while.

SPECIAL PORTFOLIOS cost you but 25c at Room 328 Tribune Building, or of your carrier or newsdealer, postage or express prepaid to any address.

SAMPLE COPIES of THE TRIBUNE with picture will be sent to any out of town address on request. Address Country Circulation Department, Room 342 Tribune Building.

NEWSPAPER ARTISTS GIVE FIRST ANNUAL EXHIBITION.

Chicago Men Display Over 1,100 Studies on Patrons' Day at Art Institute, Many of Which Find Ready Buyers.

The first annual exhibition of original sketches and drawings by Chicago newspaper artists opened at the Art Institute yesterday. The exhibition will close on Sunday. The work shown includes over 1,100 studies in pencil, pen and ink, wash drawings, water colors, oil, and crayon, representing a variety of subjects. Many of the studies shown are the originals of newspaper cuts and magazine illustrations, which are familiar to the public. The opening day was patrons' day, and today the general public will be admitted. A large number of pictures were purchased yesterday, and these will be left in the galleries until the end of the exhibition, when they will be taken away by the purchasers.

TOBACCO MEN ASSAIL TRUSTS.

Dealers of Janesville, Wis., Adopt Resolutions Condemning Acts of Certain Corporations.

Janesville, Wis., June 10.—[Special.]—Resolutions condemning the action of certain corporations accused of endeavoring to throttle competition and then taking advantage of the public when rivalry is stamped out have been adopted by the tobacco dealers and other business-men of the city. The resolutions state that the leaf dealers are not opposed to combinations of capital when the aim is solely to economize in expenses. Corporations that are organized on an inflated stock basis and take advantage of their great resources to corrupt legislation and impose on the public are aimed at. The resolutions continue:

"We believe that such methods of doing business are in the nature of a conspiracy and in restraint of trade and commerce, and are a menace to honest enterprise and good government, and we are at a loss to understand why the construction or application of the law would permit combinations of this character to prey upon society, while the confidence man and the swindler are sent to prison."

MANY 'PHONE LINES COMBINE.

Systems of the Northwest, 150 in Number and with a Capital of Five Million Dollars, Unite.

Minneapolis, Minn., June 10.—Representatives of 150 independent telephone exchanges in Minnesota met here today and agreed to form a combination, to be known as the Northwestern Independent Telephone Exchange company. The Twin City Telephone company of this city and St. Paul is taking the lead in this anti-Bell merger, and its representatives say that the combine will give the two cities one of the most complete systems of telephonic communication in the United States. Ohio and Indiana alone have better independent systems. The combination represents an investment of about $5,000,000.

Swedish Church Workers Meet.

Galesburg, Ill., June 10.—[Special.]—The Swedish Evangelical Covenant, comprising the Swedish mission churches of the United States, will open its annual meeting here tomorrow evening. Three hundred delegates will attend. The Chicago delegation came in tonight and will have an important part in the proceedings. Tomorrow will be given over to committee sessions. In the evening a welcome meeting will be held.

CHICAGO TO NEW YORK IN 20 HOURS.

"The Pennsylvania Special."

In addition to present through trains, the Pennsylvania Lines will, on Sunday, June 15, inaugurate their 20 Hour Passenger Service between Chicago and New York, leaving Chicago daily at 12 o'clock noon.

The Equipment of the new train will be up to date, and it will be known as "The Pennsylvania Special"—running through from Chicago to New York in 20 hours.

For particular information please call upon or address H. R. Dering, Assistant General Passenger Agent of the Pennsylvania Lines, 248 South Clark street, Chicago.

UNIVERSITY OF CHICAGO BUYS MORE REAL ESTATE.

Records Deed to Lots in Monroe Avenue North of Fifty-ninth Street—Commonwealth Company Files a Deed.

The University of Chicago appears as the purchaser of another piece of property in Monroe avenue. It is described as being 250 feet north of Fifty-ninth street, west front, 65x188 feet, and was purchased from William S. Freeman for $18,000.

Mrs. Catherina Seipp has purchased from Wilhelm Luckow, the property at 582 Wabash avenue, 25x171 feet, for $18,500.

The last of the four pieces of land purchased by the Commonwealth Electric company as the site of its proposed $6,000,000 plant, at Lumber and Fisk streets, was made a matter of record yesterday. The property conveyed belonged to the Caleb Allen estate, 413x257 feet, east front, at the northwest corner of Lumber and Fisk street, and sold for $56,700. The conveyance was to Louis A. Seeberger, who in turn conveyed it to the company.

W. P. Cowan, Vice President of the Standard Oil company, has purchased from Mrs. William McKinlock, the residence at 3218 Michigan avenue, for $30,000. The house is of stone, three stories high, and occupies a lot 25x174 feet.

Another residence sale is that at 4936 Ellis avenue, which was sold by H. R. Wilson to Samuel Deutsch for $30,000. The house is three stories high, contains twelve rooms, and occupies a lot 50x150 feet.

A permit was taken out yesterday for the construction of a Bohemian meeting-house at 588-592 West Eighteenth street, to cost $40,000. It is to have a frontage of seventy-five feet and a depth of 124 feet, and is to be four stories high.

NEWS OF THE RAILWAYS.

GEORGE GOULD ABOUT TO FIGHT THE MOORE BROTHERS.

Planning to Forestall Construction of Rock Island Extension from Fort Worth to Galveston and Beaumont—John W. Gates Believed to Be Interested in the Iowa and Dakota Central—Union Pacific to Take Over the St. Joseph and Grand Island.

It looks as if George Gould was about to begin a struggle against the Moore brothers to checkmate one of their attempted enterprises. A survey has been made by the Rock Island for an extension from Fort Worth, Tex., to Galveston and Beaumont. The construction of such line would necessarily hurt Gould's Texas lines by diverting business from them, and Gould, in order to spoil the Moore brothers' scheme, is now arranging to extend the International and Great Northern railroad, which is the Texas line of the Gould system, from Fort Worth north to a connection with Kansas City.

Line to Gould's Coal Fields.

In addition to the fact that the extension of the Rock Island to the gulf will interfere with the International and Great Northern's business south, there is said to be another reason for Gould's anxiety to thwart the Moore brothers' scheme. He owns extensive coal mines in the Indian Territory which could be reached more profitably. If the Gould extension is built connection will probably be made with the Missouri Pacific somewhere in southern Kansas. The Kansas City connection, it is claimed, would place the International in touch with Colorado traffic.

The International will probably have its line completed into Fort Worth by Sept. 1. The roadbed has been built out of Fort Worth for about a mile, and will come into that city over the Texas and Pacific tracks. The International recently purchased six acres of ground between its tracks and those of the Texas and Pacific at Fort Worth for the purpose, it is said, of erecting thereon a roundhouse and machine shops.

New Project of John W. Gates.

It is believed that John W. Gates is interested in the Iowa and Dakota Central railroad, which was incorporated at Sioux City, Ia., a short time ago. The incorporators are identical with those of the Iowa and Missouri. C. E. Dearborn, chief engineer for the American Steel Wire company, and an intimate friend of Mr. Gates, is chief engineer for the Iowa and Missouri and the Iowa and Dakota Central. This relation appears significant when it is remembered that Mr. Dearborn a few months ago spent several days in Sioux City inspecting terminals in that city.

Death of Gaston Meslier.

Gaston Meslier, well known in passenger circles here and throughout the West and Southwest, died suddenly last Sunday evening at Grand Rapids, Mich. He was formerly General Passenger Agent of the Texas and Pacific railroad, and for the last year or two resided in Chicago. Two weeks ago he was appointed Passenger and Freight Agent of the Grand Rapids (Mich.) Electric railroad system. He had filled many positions of prominence in the last fifteen or twenty years. At one time he was assistant in the general passenger department of the Missouri Pacific at St. Louis. He was also secretary of the Memphis Passenger association for two or three years. He is believed to have relatives living in Chicago, and the officials of the Missouri Pacific are anxious to locate them.

To Take Over Grand Island Road.

It is understood that the Union Pacific will formally take over the St. Joseph and Grand Island road on July 1 next, and at the same time the Kansas City, Omaha and Quincy, and Quincy, Ottumwa and Kansas City roads will be absorbed by the Burlington.

Transportation Notes.

The St. Louis and San Francisco railroad has made a trackage and traffic agreement with the Memphis, St. Louis and Southeastern, in consideration for which the Frisco system will receive a block of stock from the Memphis, St. Louis and Southeastern, though not the controlling interest of this road. The Memphis, St. Louis and Southeastern is now constructing a line which, together with those acquired, will make a short line between Memphis and St. Louis and will give the St. Louis and San Francisco a short through line from St. Louis to Birmingham.

Wisconsin Central earnings for the first week in June were $117,000, against $106,187 for the same week last year, an increase of $10,813. Wabash earnings for the same week were $336,742, against $312,718 for the corresponding week last year, an increase of $24,024.

Rock Island to Get Into St. Louis.

St. Louis, Mo., June 10.—A director of the St. Louis Suburban Electric railroad stated today that a deal is now under way by which the Rock Island railroad may acquire the use of the Suburban's right of way from the western city limits to Vandeventer avenue. The proposition is that the Rock Island shall build elevated tracks over the surface tracks now used by the Suburban, which will continue to operate its cars over the right of way, as heretofore.

Subsidy Levied for New Roads.

Warsaw, Ind., June 10.—[Special.]—The County Commissioners here today ordered the levying of the tax voted as subsidy to aid in constructing the Toledo and Chicago Transfer railroad and the Logansport, Rochester and Northern electric line. The steam line will extend from Freeport, Ill., to Toledo.

DELAY FOR BANKER SPALDING.

Judge Dunne Refuses to Hear Argument for Habeas Corpus Till Today.

The hopes of the friends of Charles Warren Spalding, who five years ago was sentenced to Joliet for embezzling $25,000 worth of Macoupin County bonds intrusted to his care as treasurer of the University of Illinois, would spend today, which is his 59th birthday, in Chicago will not be realized. Judge Dunne did not grant the writ of habeas corpus yesterday morning, and will hear arguments on the matter this morning at 9 o'clock.

"The case is of such importance," said the Judge when the matter came up, "that I will put it over another day. If the contentions set up are proper, as I believe them to be, I see no way but to grant the writ. In the meantime, however, I shall be enabled to look up the authorities."

This case is held to be about the first on record where flaws were claimed in the indictment, the jury's verdict, and the mittimus on which the prisoner was taken to the penitentiary, five years after a prisoner had been sentenced.

POLICEMAN LOSES HIS PLACE.

William H. Fitzgerald, Who Mistreated a Girl, Is Discharged from the Force.

Discharge from the force was the penalty meted out by the Police Trial board to Policeman William H. Fitzgerald of the Stocks-Yards Police Station yesterday. He was charged with ill treating Nellie Nolan, 16 years old, who lived with her grandparents at 643 Fortieth court. Twice before Fitzgerald had been before the Trial board. Mary M. Bartelme, public guardian, was present with the girl's mother to press the charges. Fitzgerald was punished by suspension for ten days on his last previous hearing, and for thirty days on a prior hearing.

OF GAYETY AT HOMEWOOD COUNTRY CLUB.

Mixed Handicaps Draw Large Crowd and Many Dinner Parties Follow—Mrs. H. M. Kidder Gives Reception at Evanston Residence—James Feeney of St. Paul Weds Miss Elethya Bowen at St. James' Catholic Church—Mrs. Pullman Goes East.

There is plenty of gayety at the Homewood Country club this week. Yesterday was "ladies' day," and the mixed handicaps took out a crowd that staid to dine in the evening. Mr. and Mrs. Tappen Halsey had a party of sixteen at dinner. Mrs. Harry Eben Lane was a hostess, and Mr. and Mrs. John F. Wallace also had a large party.

On Friday afternoon and evening Miss Leila Harper and Miss Freeman will give a large party at Homewood for the junior college class. Ninety young people from the University of Chicago will attend the dinner and dance.

The house guests at Homewood at present include Mr. and Mrs. Robert Wells, Mr. and Mrs. G. H. Scribner Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Charles Lewis, Dr. Van Hook, and Mr. and Mrs. L. D Hammond, who have taken rooms for the summer.

The prettiest of today's fêtes will take place in Evanston, Mrs. H. M. Kidder of 1705 Lincoln street being the hostess. It will be a peony reception from 3 till 6 o'clock, and the maids of honor to the "Princess of the Peonies" will be Miss Barbara Deering, Miss Gladys Goodrich, Miss Cornelia Armsby, Miss Helen Van Schurst, and Miss Marion Deering. Presiding at the tea tables will be Mrs. W. L. Brown, Mrs. Creighton, Mrs. T. M. Baxter, Miss Ashton, Miss Grandon, and Mrs. F. W. Fish.

At St. James' Catholic Church, Wabash avenue and Twenty-ninth street, the wedding of Miss Elethya Bowen and Mr. James Feeney was celebrated yesterday afternoon at 5:30 o'clock. Miss Agnes Feeney of St. Paul was maid of honor and Miss Donohue and Miss Wood were bridesmaids. Dr. Edward P. Skinner was the best man, and the ushers were Sylvester Feeney, Edward Bradley, Herbert Gage, and Joseph Feeney of St. Paul. A reception followed the ceremony at the home of the bride's parents, 617 Forty-seventh street.

The engagement is announced of Miss Grace Douglas, daughter of Mr. Albert Douglas of Chillicothe, O., to Mr. Morris L. Johnston, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. Morris Johnston of 1636 Prairie avenue. Miss Douglas will be Mrs. Johnston's guest next week.

Mrs. George M. Pullman left in her private car last evening for her summer home at Elberon, N. J. She was accompanied by her niece, Miss Grace Sanger, Mrs. Sanger Steele, Mrs. George Clark, and Miss Cora Kirk. Miss Sanger will spend the summer with Mrs. Pullman, but Mrs. Steele and Miss Kirk will remain only for a short visit.

The senior class of Armour Scientific Academy will give the annual dance this evening at the Chicago Beach Hotel. The chaperons will be Mrs. Howard M. Raymond, Mrs. Louis C. Monin, Mrs. Julia Beveridge, Mrs. Fletcher W. Rockwell, and Mrs. Andrew C. Dallas.

The Rockford College Association of Chicago left yesterday in a special car, the guests of Mrs. J. H. Strong, to spend commencement week at Rockford College.

The Von Humboldt Alumni association will give a presentation of the opera "Pinafore" on Friday evening at Wicker Park Hall, the chorus including the graduates and undergraduates of the Humboldt High School.

A concert for the benefit of the Jackson Park Sanitarium was given under the auspices of the Bryn Mawr Woman's club last evening at the clubhouse, 7149 Jeffery avenue.

There will be a lawn party and dance next Saturday evening at the Lakeside club, Forty-second street and Grand boulevard.

Miss Ruth and Miss Avis Burley of 254 Dearborn avenue are spending the summer at Waukegan. Miss Ruth Burley came to town yesterday for a short visit.

The Rev. Dr. Jenkins, Miss Jenkins, and Mrs. James Soper and her family, all of Riverside, left yesterday for New York, and sail on Saturday to spend the summer abroad.

Judge and Mrs. Lambert Tree will occupy Norman William's cottage at Little Boar's Head, Mass., this summer, and will leave town this week.

FEARS OF TEACHERS QUIETED.

Recent Notices About Old Certificates Intended Merely to Complete the Records.

A storm of indignation which for the last few days has centered about the office of Superintendent Cooley and the rooms of the Chicago Teachers' federation has subsided and the danger of a clash between the federation and the Superintendent has been averted for the time being at least.

Incidentally, over 100 teachers who were thrown into a panic by the receipt from the Superintendent of letters questioning the validity of the certificates they hold have been assured that they have nothing more to fear.

Some of the teachers on the list have been in the schools more than a dozen years, and when they received from Superintendent Cooley a statement that the records in his office showed that the certificates under which they had been teaching were apparently invalid, some carried their grievances direct to the Superintendent and his statistician, while others sought the protection of the federation.

Merely Plan to Complete Records.

Now it is said by Mr. Cooley's statistician that all the trouble was caused by the women teachers jumping at a conclusion not warranted by the notice sent out. Assistant James Sayer says that the notices were intended not as a warning to teachers that they were about to be ousted from their positions, but as a means of completing the records of the office.

The communication was based on an old rule of the board, recently revived, by which a teacher's certificate becomes invalid after three years' absence from the schools. Several months ago Superintendent Cooley, in an effort to correct and complete the records, caused to be sent to each teacher a blank to be filled in and returned. In the course of compiling the information secured in this way the statistician discovered that over 200 teachers had at some time in their connection with the schools been absent for three consecutive years. For further information he sent out the communications.

Last evening Mr. Sayer said that only about six of the whole number to whom communications had been sent had cleared their records by showing that after their absences they had been properly reinstated. He thought it probable that those who had not yet reported would be able to clear their records by similar proof.

Fire Service at Parental School.

The Parental School is now equipped with a fire service sufficient for its needs. Pumps were installed at the school when it was built and a large reservoir made. Recently hose and carts and other apparatus have been furnished.

OBJECT TO BACK TAX REPORTS.

Exceptions Filed in Federal Court Claim Assessments Against Corporations Are Too Low.

Exceptions to the reports of Masters in Chancery Bishop and Allen in the "back tax" cases were filed in the United States Circuit Court yesterday by Attorney General Hamlin, representing the State, and Attorneys Edwin Sims and Frank Shepard, representing the county.

It is objected that the findings of the masters are not consonant with the order of reference from Judges Grosscup and Humphrey. The defendants claim that they have made the assessments large enough against the corporations, and that the only proper total is $2,728,871, as shown by the schedules in the possession of County Collector Raymond.

No exceptions have yet been filed by the complainants, but these are expected within a few days.

CHAPTER XXIX.—A MEMENTO OF GILDAY.

Every shack, every colonial mansion in Fort de France, had opened its doors to the refugees; still there were hundreds upon the streets, and hundreds more upon the land and sea-roads whose faces were turned toward the capital and who were still trembling from the potential anger which they had witnessed—luckily, from afar off. Tired babes, in many cases the only treasures seized in the moment of panic before the flight, pitifully tired little ones, moaned and tossed in their mothers' arms; and pitifully tired, too, were the brown bare arms that held them, and dust-stained and trembling from the many trials. Little families were camped upon the streets, fireless, foodless.

Many were strange to Fort de France and knew not where the fountains were, since they had arrived in the dark and were too tired to hunt for water. The men scolded, as hungry, ill-at-ease men of all colors and countries do in the presence of their families. The babies were rocked and hushed and slapped sometimes, and the children were told what not to do. Many walked the streets, revealing the secrets, the simplicity, the diseases of the interior. Pelee had thrown the whole world out of gear, but the night was beautiful.

Whitelaw and Gleason pushed their way slowly through the disordered throng toward the city's front. They learned that the regular steamer running between the capital and the metropolis had been destroyed with the shipping in St. Pierre harbor; but that a steam yacht would start for the stricken port at 4 in the morning. They engaged passage accordingly, and found slightly over three hours upon their hands. Gleason promptly went to sleep upon the landing; the other busied himself for a while in buying up at ruinous prices the remnants of fruit and confections in various booths and tucking fragments of the same into little open mouths, which were as thick as braincells upon the streets.

At length the booths were drained dry as at the end of a circus day, and Whitelaw sat down beside Gleason, having accumulated a large following of native children, whom he earnestly hoped could find their way back to their respective handful of waiting hearts. They seemed to be in no hurry about trying, however, and squatted down at a modest distance, offering abundant openings for further charities.

Whitelaw was happy—tired, lame, troubled—but happy. His sympathy was vast enough to cover the minute and complex troubles of the world (though he did not need to look beyond Pelee's zone of destructiveness). She had desired him to remain with her; she had placed confidence in him, praised him, smiled upon him. And now she was safe. He never grew tired of repeating that she was safe. Gleason roused himself and looked about.

"Well, well," he muttered sleepily, "what's the golden text this Sunday, children? Step up an' get your picture-cards, and be sure an' come an' bring your little playmates next Sunday. . . . Where did you get the infant class, sir?"

The Orinico, under a faltering breeze, alternating with a moveless calm, had required a full day for the passage from St. Pierre to Fort de France. The little steam yacht left the capital shortly after 5 and reached the destroyed port at 7, just as the imperious day was making its passion felt. The Hatteras was lying in the harbor. Whitelaw hailed the sailor on watch as the smaller craft slipped by, and a small boat from his yacht followed him to the landing. The air was still fiercely hot and weighted with the burden from the dead that menaced health. Whitelaw and Gleason were pulled out to the Hatteras; the former, gentle as a rule, was swayed by a sort of savage desire to get at the throat of Prague with his good hand. Gleason was biding his time to perform numerous and dreadful vivisections upon the person of the third officer.

Captain Hayes, powerfully bandaged and weak, had been carried out to the deck, upon a steamer chair.

"I can't shake hands," he whispered huskily, "and I don't suppose, sir, you would want to shake hands with me if I could."

"I've got nothing in the world against you, Captain, and everything for you," Whitelaw answered, "and I'm heartily sorry to see you so beaten up. I know you to be an inflexible gentleman and a splendid seaman, so don't worry, old chap, but tell me—where is Prague?"

"In St. Kitt's—or he was when last heard of."

"Well, it's, perhaps, just as well. I might have done something melodramatic. Was it a case of deviltry or just cowardice?"

"I believe just cowardice, sir."

Gleason was looking down at the sea, and beating his hard, little fist, meanwhile, upon the blackened railing.

"I succumbed from my burns, sir," the Captain went on, "after I had given orders for the ship to be driven as far into the harbor as possible. Mr. Beddow and Mr. Davis were both beyond service; the latter overboard, the former in a serious condition. I did not know that Miss Wall and Mr. Gleason had gone ashore. In fact, I knew nothing. When I awoke I was in your cabin, which had been assigned to the lady, as you know. It was dark. I succeeded in attracting the attention of a steward. I asked him if you were aboard, if the lady was in good health, if we were still in the harbor of St. Pierre. He replied that you had not been heard from, that the lady was gone ashore with Mr. Gleason to search for you, that we were lying off St. Kitt's. . . . I could not realize for a long time. At last I yelled for Prague. The steward had informed me that Prague had gone ashore. I was carried to the deck and had the Hatteras turned back here. We arrived three hours ago, sir. . . . Prague took nothing that was not his own. It was merely a case of brain-panic, sir. His desertion was evidently planned. His disgrace reflects upon me, since I was in command. I have dictated my resignation, Mr. Whitelaw. You will find it upon the desk in you cabin."

Such was the story which Whitelaw heard in a husky whisper from the iron-hearted seaman who had failed through no fault of his own.

"It pains me, Captain," Whitelaw said, "to hear you speak of resignation. To you I owe the safety of the lady. Captain, what's the use of talking? I know you're a white man and a sailor clear through. Get well, Captain, that is all I ask."

"Thank you, sir," Hayes responded. "I will try again."

Whitelaw and Gleason went ashore. Ships of all kinds and nations were now crowding into the harbor. Engineers, scientists, correspondents from nearby ports; and everywhere men who moved about wildly, careless of the heat and the peril, searching, struggling, praying for their own. And that soft-handed, hard-visaged human who scents chaos and fresh blood from afar off, and emerges like a buzzard from behind a cloud to obey his carrion instinct—the adventurer from Nowhere was among the first comers. A tempest of mourning, an influx of strong hearts, and strong hands, and generous purposes, and the dregs of degeneration—a strange mingling this, on that third morning to breathe the smoky, putrid air.

Quickly, Whitelaw's hope of finding any living thing was dispelled. The fine old planter whose life had been clean and sweet—Uncle Daniel, the link between Whitelaw and his dearest hopes and whose presence in St. Pierre had made possible Whitelaw's awakening—was only one of many, lying among the humble, laughing children he had known and loved so long. This end of a long and useful life might have been averted had Mrs. Wall not hidden herself on that fateful morning, but Whitelaw shook the thought from his mind. She had died as bravely as ever man or woman died, conscious of her error, and bitterly lamenting.

Whitelaw was irresistibly impelled to the prison, but the way was long and tortuous. In spite of the rains, the great stones upon the ground were still hot, and the smoke, no matter how dense and acrid, could not overcome the revolting burden upon every breath of air. The four walls of the historic Grand Hotel still stood, though the hurricane of fire and rock had beaten in the roof and floors upon the guests and servants occupied with breakfast. The massive tower of the cathedral had withstood the avalanche, and at its base were scores of fallen who had turned at the last moment to their sanctuary. At the end of the Rue de l'Hopital, the searchers stood dumb for a moment, looking at the front gable of the military hospital. The face of the old clock was charred and dust-incrusted, but the twisted hands were pointing, as if for eternity, to that dread moment—nine minutes to eight!

Most of the distance to the prison, Whitelaw and Gleason were forced to make their way along the beach. The receding tide gave them a precarious footing, but one that did not burn the shoes from their feet. The two, aiming at the prison, were the first to look upon the heart of the city, the other searchers being far behind.

"Aren't we due pretty quick?" Gleason panted.

The other pointed to the ruins ahead. The massive prison walls, six feet thick at the base, had been razed level. Silence, death, and ruins were the ghastly holdings of the place.

"There's nothin' we can do," said Gleason, and after a moment he added: "Ye can't much blame a white man for givin' away to his thirst in a place like this."

Whitelaw did not answer. At the front of the prison, where the iron gate had stood, lay the form of a woman. Her clothing was burned, but there was no effacement of feature. The burned edges of a sheet of paper protruded from one of the hands. Gleason pulled it free and looked upon a rough sketch in pencil of a St. Pierre maiden. Below the picture was written the name, "Florine," and lower still the name of Gilday was sprawled.

"Put it back, Gleason—just as it was—and come away!" Whitelaw muttered strangely.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE OF THE TRIBUNE.]

PARIS, May 30.—A light, attractive story is the "Roman de deux Jeimes Maries," by Charles Joliet, in which the author develops Balzac's theory that "marriage is the only romance in life."

A most amusing series of letters has just been published illustrating the character of French artists during the second empire. Apparently in those days the men and women of the "profession" were as eager for monetary advantages as those of today. Among these epistles, all of them full of interest, is one from Emile Augier to the Duke de Morny, then Minister. Augier, who was one of the great writers of his day, was anxious to buy a number of shares in the "Grand Central," supposed "gilt edged securities," which could only be obtained through direct government favor. This Augier sought through his letter, which ran as follows:

"Monsieur: I have had the honor, I believe, of already making known to you how the speculating fever having saved me, I gambled on the Bourse and lost all my savings, which doubtless proves that one should never go into such things. My loss was a small thing compared to the fall of empires, but little as it was it constituted my all. I received the little cannon ball straight in the face. But today you can put my head in place, remake my savings by inscribing me among the privileged to whom you are going to distribute at par the stock of your railroad (Grand Central). I have no right to this favor, if one must be Virgil or Horace to address Maecenas, but the kindness you have always manifested towards me leads me to hope, etc."

Other letters from Janin, Gozlan, Gautier, Houssaye, and Got were received by De Morny, containing similar requests, and each is amusing in showing the mercenary spirit was as strong among the stage lights then as now. It is to be hoped, however, that De Morny turned a deaf ear to these artistic requests, for the crash of the "Grand Central" left all of its stockholders many thousands poorer than before they invested in the much vaunted gilt edged securities.

As a consequence of the elections Jules Lemaitre, "the Grand Elector" as he has been dubbed, is the literary man of the hour. Will he, after the defeat of nationalism in a general sense, return to his first love, literature, where a fatted calf would certainly be killed to welcome the prodigal, or will he remain in politics? These are the burning questions. "What is Lemaitre going to do now?" is on every one's tongue. Apropos of Lemaitre's failure to return, as he hoped, "four hundred Nationalists to the Chamber," Waldeck-Rousseau made one of his most spirited remarks. The night the returns were coming in one of the attachés of his Cabinet, a "youngster," the Premier calls him, rushed up to his master and exclaimed, "Monsieur le President du Conseil, the Nationalists are beaten everywhere in the provinces." Without looking up Waldeck-Rousseau replied, a fine irony in his voice, "I have always found Lemaitre's pieces a failure"—a pointed allusion to the many unsuccessful plays by Lemaitre that have been produced in Paris. This remark went the rounds and so hurt Lemaitre in a sensitive point that he published his famous circular in which he accused the Premier of using the Humbert millions for the elections.

"BREAKING AND RIDING."

New Horse Book by James Fillis Reviewed by Mr. Hough.

Gentle reader, do you ride? Do you know how to mobilize the lower jaw of your mouth? Do you know all about correct lateral flexion when mounted? Are you posted upon the lateral effects in rotation of crop and shoulders? Can you balance your mount? Can you cause your mount to do the Spanish walk? Can you canter backward? Do you know how to "piaffer"? If perchance you be not quite au fait in all of this you need not despair, for all this and more is taught in a work recently imported by Messrs. Scribner, "Breaking and Riding," by James Fillis, ecuyer en chef at the St. Petersburg cavalry riding school. Mr. Fillis has ridden before crowned heads, and in the words of the "announcer" at the Wild West show, "he is, without doubt or question," a rider who knows the fundamental principles of the art which he teaches. Behind the somewhat appalling table of contents there is given a vast amount of information, some of which, to be sure, is caviare to the general, but part of which is useful and easily comprehensible by all.

For our friends west of the Missouri much of this might be mystifying. In the far West of earlier times we wist naught of "balancing a mount," which latter we did not so designate. We did not sit our mount out there, but we frequently "rid our cayuse," and if the latter did not balance it usually served to touch him up behind with the spur, pull him up in front by the bit, and quirt him plenty along the middle. All of which might be caviare in St. Petersburg high school of riding, where Mr. Fillis analyzes gaits and sandpapers a horse until he becomes a beautiful machine. He knows and teaches the art in all its niceties, and presents his method in these careful pages in such fashion that we feel we have heard quite the last word upon the subject. Of course, riding cannot be taught upon paper, as none knows better than our author.

"When we know this much," says he, "we know everything, and we know nothing. We know everything, because these principles are of universal application; we know nothing, because they have to be applied practically." The application of the voluminous and comprehensive advice given in this handsome volume—it is beautifully printed, and embellished with some seventy illustrations—will perhaps seem of greatest use to the rider already fairly well finished, the cavalry officer, the polo player, the cross country rider; yet the book has advice of a more general nature which has value for the inexperienced rider. Mr. Fillis tells one what to do if one would stop a runaway, what to do if one is obliged to swim with his horse, what to do when a horse rears or bucks or plunges, all of which instruction may prove of more use than the general precepts of the West to "set him straight," and not "go to leather," which latter means not to hold on to the saddle. Mr. Fillis counsels a rider when once engaged in a struggle with his mount to fight it out then and there; advice of gold, for all riders know a horse once successful in defeating a rider will be worse the second time than the first.

Mr. Fillis is emphatic against the fashion of ladies riding astride, and declares it not only ungraceful but far more dangerous than the conventional seat in the side saddle. He instructs the cavalier that the right foot is the one the lady should give him, not the left, when he "puts her up" into her saddle in mounting. The book, while scientific and elaborate, abounds in practical hints as to correct turnout for riding on the part of lady or gentleman, the proper equipment for one's mount, the proper way of holding the reins, the hands, the shoulders. In short, Mr. Fillis attacks his theme as he would an unruly horse, and leaves nothing undone to finish it roundly. His is the enthusiasm of the specialist, the expert. There is hardly another work on horsemanship so ambitious and elaborate as this, and, although of course it cannot teach one to ride unless, so to speak, he can already ride, it is worthy of note as a thorough and painstaking treatise on an interesting topic. If it shall eventually serve to mitigate in some part the horrors of horsemanship as we see it in the parks and boulevards of our cities, then surely it will not have lived in vain.

EMERSON HOUGH.

CONDUCTS A UNIQUE SERVICE.

Chicago Preacher, Beside His Father's Grave, Speaks on the Hundredth Anniversary of His Birth.

Kalamazoo, Mich., June 10.—[Special.]—On the one hundredth anniversary of his father's birth the Rev. Delno C. Henshaw of Chicago, in the presence of an assemblage of relatives and intimate friends, stood beside the grave in Riverside Cemetery and conducted memorial services.

The speaker told how Joshua and James Henshaw, young men of western New York, each with bride behind him, rode on horseback to a squire and were married on July 4, 1801. To Joshua was born James Steuben Henshaw, the subject of the memorial service, on June 10, 1802. He was father of eleven children, four of whom fought for the North in the civil war, one filling an unknown grave in Mississippi. Henshaw died in 1872.

In his sermon the Rev. Mr. Henshaw paid attention to conditions that exist in cities today. He said thousands of immigrants coming to this country asking for bread received a stone. He contended that sons of Americans are being brought up in the manhood of their forefathers, but that they flocked to cities where they learned to smoke and drink.

WOMEN WANT TO SWIM.

THEY MAKE DEMANDS OF THE WEST PARK BOARDS.

Declare They Have Been Discriminated Against by the Management of the Douglas Natatoriums and Ask That Accommodations Be Afforded Them Seven Days in the Week—Citizens Suggest a Site for a Small Park on Northwest Side—Action Deferred.

Several hundred women who live in the vicinity of Douglas Park informed the West Park commission yesterday that they want to go swimming.

In a petition that was long enough to encircle the park natatorium, they not only stated their desires but declared they had been misrepresented by the Douglas Park statistician, whoever he may be. They were denied adequate privileges last year, they said, because the park authorities had represented to the board that the women did not care to take advantage of the opportunities offered by the swimming tanks.

"We do care to patronize the natatoriums," ran the petition. "What is more, we want the truth to be told."

Demands of the Women.

Last year the women were allowed only four days a week. They want seven days this year, as many evenings, and also Sunday afternoons. In their petition the women deny that they are afraid of cold water.

The commissioners promised that the matter would be considered. A committee will pass upon the demands, and if the facts warrant it, one of the free natatoriums will be kept open each day of the week, also in the evenings until 9 o'clock, and possibly on Sunday afternoons, to accommodate the women.

Superintendent William Cook denied that the commissioners had been imposed upon, and declared that the women had not patronized the swimming tanks the past seasons in sufficient numbers to warrant the Park board in granting them more than four days a week.

Suggest Small Park Site.

Residents of the Northwest Side appeared before the board and urged the selection of a small park site bounded by Chicago avenue, Cornell, Chase, and Noble streets. The site covers a tract of eight or nine acres, and is owned by New York people.

The tract mostly is covered with small wooden structures, there being only two brick buildings on it. The commissioners were told that the land could be bought at a reasonable figure.

As the Finance committee has the small park sites under consideration, the board, as a whole, refused to take any action. It is expected that a number of sites will be recommended to the board at the next meeting.

GRACE LACKING IN TWO-STEP.

Dancing Masters Declaim Against the Measure and Would Remedy It by a More Complicated One.

Milwaukee, Wis., June 10.—[Special.]—"Notwithstanding the widespread popularity of the two-step and the ten years it has been before the public," said R. C. Campbell of Albany, N. Y., before the convention of dancing masters this morning, "it has never been properly learned by the vast majority of dancers, and as the dance lends itself readily to all the ill-graces of the poor dancer, we have the obvious result of hundreds of giddy dancers making a romp of what should be a beautiful and inspiring dance, and assuming on the ballroom floor the most impossible of postures, the spectacle being anything but edifying.

"Whether or not the new dance, called the five-step, will gain favor in the West, is regarded as problematical. The dance has been taught for years in Boston, where it is in high favor, but efforts to establish it in Chicago have failed repeatedly. The dance is pretty, quiet, and approaches the grace and style of a minuet. In the effort to introduce it in the West it has been given several names, but this method of sugaring the conventionality of the dance was of little avail."

"A readily understood description," said E. B. Gaynor, "would be as follows: Glide left foot toward the left, and draw right to left; then glide left back one full step, and glide right outward and back on a line with left, and chassé toward the right. Then repeat. The chassé toward the right, of course, is made by gliding the left foot to the right, simultaneously gliding the right out again, and again, drawing up the left foot. This leaves the dancers in the first position, and ready to repeat the figure."

The stock company at the People's Theater offered its patrons on Monday a revival of "Kathleen Mavourneen." Miss Hosmer and the members of her company gave a creditable production and were rewarded with enthusiastic applause after every one of the numerous emotional scenes. The scenic equipment was fair. James E. Nelson will have his benefit on Thursday, and the performance on Saturday will be for the benefit of Miss Nellie Willard and George Russ Fiske.

The Wizard of Oz Postponed.

Owing to delay in procuring the costumes and effects for the production of "The Wizard of Oz" at the Grand Opera-House Manager Hamlin has been compelled to postpone the opening performance from Thursday, June 12, to next Monday night. Stage Manager Julian Mitchell will not allow the curtain to rise on "The Wizard of Oz" before everything is just as it should be, but he is confident that no further postponement will be necessary.

Shows Holding Over.

"Florodora" is still holding its own at the Illinois, and the attendance is so satisfactory that the management is confident of a successful run extending all through the summer.

With the performance last night "The Suburban" at McVicker's Theater reached the beginning of its sixth week. The melodrama continues to draw large houses, and no decrease in the interest of the public is noticeable. At the matinée on Saturday souvenirs, commemorating the fiftieth performance, will be given to the feminine patrons holding reserved seats.

"The Storks" continues its successful run at the Dearborn and the management is highly gratified with the result of its enterprise in putting on that clever musical comedy for a summer run.

Coliseum Gardens.

The second week of the summer season at the Coliseum Gardens opened on Sunday with an attendance almost as large as on the opening night, a week ago Saturday. The most attractive features of the program were the living pictures which M. Jean Marcel offered. There were ten groups in all, five after famous paintings, the other five after masterpieces of the sculptor's art. Every one of the groups was thoroughly appreciated by the spectators, and particularly "En Avant," after the bas-relief by Rude; "Les Premières Funérailles," after the marble group by Barrias, of which a cast is in the collections of the Art Institute; and "Phrosine et Melidor," after the painting by Bonnier, met with enthusiastic approval. Besides Clara Ballerini, the dancer and trapeze performer; Arthur Ballerini, with his trained dogs; and the Karsys, with the myriophone, who appeared last week, there were the Parros brothers, who do remarkable feats in balancing. An extra number was furnished by Frank P. Aumann, a skillful bag-puncher. To enable patrons who desire to go home early to see Marcel's living pictures, the most prominent feature of the bill of attractions, Manager Wood has arranged that the display of the pictures begin at 10 o'clock every night.

Vaudeville and Burlesque Houses.

George Boniface and Bertha Waltzinger head the bill at the Chicago Opera-House this week. Both are well known in this city and have played unusually successful engagements here earlier in the season. Their comedy work is free from coarseness and deserves the applause which it invariably receives. George W. Monroe, one of the best impersonators of Irish women of the Bowery type, evokes much laughter by his farcical sketch, "My Aunt Bridget," while Hilda Thomas and company appear in a pretty little comedy, entitled "The Lone Star," which seems to meet with general approval. Carrie Scott does some clever singing and comedy work. Ferguson and Mack offer an eccentric and laughable comedy act; Dave Lewis, late with the "Telephone Girl" company, does the German comedian act; and Berol and Berol, the rag painters, present some new and surprisingly fine rag pictures.

At the Trocadero "Pousse Café," a "Weberfieldian" burlesque, is the offering of the Orpheon company. Fields and Curtis, Howard and Emerson, Charles Burkhardt, and Frank Damsel have leading rôles. Nolan Washington, Ziska, the magician, and the juggling Jordans are among the vaudeville attractions.

The Bowery Burlesquers present "Slumming" at Hopkins' this week. The burlesque met with a flattering reception at its first performance on Sunday. Gilbert and Goldie, the Taylor trio, the Nicarema midgets, and Yutakamee, the Indian Princess, are the principal features of the vaudeville bill.

Sabbath School Association Meets.

Sioux City, Ia., June 10.—The Iowa State Sabbath School association's convention opened here today. Three hundred delegates were present. It is expected 200 more delegates will arrive tomorrow. The Rev. C. K. Kepkart of Des Moines, President of the association, made the welcoming address on behalf of the business interests and the people of Sioux City, and the Rev. Dr. F. Newhall White extended a welcome on the part of the churches and Sabbath schools. Response was made by S. W. Cole of Colfax.

Another Case
poisoning.
It may not Hit you.
Then again
It may.

It is hard to make people understand that coffee really will do business for them if they stick to it long enough. It is almost a certainty that some little symptom of disease, stomach trouble, or kidney or heart trouble, caused by coffee drinking will ultimately develop into some fixed organic disease unless the cause of the disturbance is removed. An illustration may not be amiss.

A lady in Kearney, Neb., says: "I used coffee a great many years. Gradually my health broke down. I had dyspepsia and was extremely nervous. I passed many sleepless nights, but, like many others, did not know what was the cause of my invalidism.

"Finally the trouble centered into a fatty tumor just over the stomach and in the region of the heart, causing acute pain in the stomach and a spasmodic action of the heart. A surgical operation was deemed necessary, but after all the preparations were made a good old honest doctor suggested that I take treatment a little longer and leave off coffee and take Postum and some Grape-Nuts Breakfast Food.

"I began on Postum and had it made properly by long boiling and found it delicious and drank two cups the first morning. After two weeks I discovered a marked change for the better. In five months my supposed tumor had disappeared, my headaches were gone and digestion wholly restored. My heart only gave me trouble a few times. That was five years ago. I have been a steady user of Postum ever since and am a new creature today. Am in strong and vigorous health and know exactly how to account for it.

"The ignorance of people on the subject of coffee is a constant wonder to me, although at one time, of course, I was just as much in the dark as any one could be, going along year after year putting into my body the poison that was killing me and never knowing it." COLORADO

WHY?

It is the only direct line to Colorado Springs and Manitou.

It is the popular route to Denver. It has the best Dining Car Service. A-la-carte breakfast and supper and splendid noon-day luncheon for 50 cents served in magnificent dining cars.

Its service this summer will surpass anything heretofore attempted to Colorado.

It has the most complete and satisfactory schedule and in the offers a train best adapted to the wants of the business man and the tourist. It leaves Chicago daily at 5.45 p. m. and arrives at Denver 8.45 p. m., Colorado Springs (Manitou) 8.30 p. m. This gives the full business day in Chicago and takes but one night to Colorado.

Another inducement to use the Rock Island will be the round trip rate to Colorado effective this summer by that line. Every comfort that money can purchase to make your trip comfortable and pleasant. Ask for details.

If you want the breeziest, cleanest and most fascinating description of Colorado, you can have it free by asking for "Under the Turquoise Sky."

The delights of tent life in the Rockies are charmingly treated in our book "Camping in Colorado," which gives full details of how and where to camp and the cost and necessary equipment for parties of two, four and six persons. You will be astonished to see how cheaply the outing can be made. This book free, too, on application.

We will also be pleased to advise as to rates and accomodations in Hotels and Boarding Houses in Colorado.

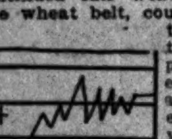
REPORT WAS A SURPRISE.

WHEAT TRADERS GENERALLY EXPECTED A BEARISH SHOWING.

Condition of Winter Wheat Slightly Lower than a Month Ago, While Spring Is Higher than at This Time Last Year—Trade Slow During the Day, but Market Fairly Firm and Fractionally Higher—Some Good Buying Being Done.

The government report reduced the average condition of winter wheat from 76.4 on May 1 to 76.1 on June 1. Spring wheat condition is given at 95.4, as compared with 92 a year ago. Spring wheat acreage is reduced 12.8 per cent, or 2,511,000 acres. A winter wheat condition of 76.1 on an acreage of 27,100,000 suggests a yield of 330,000,000 bu, and a spring wheat condition of 95.4 on 18,600,000 acres, a yield of 284,000,000 bu, a total of 614,000,000 bu. These figures are far below the ideas generally entertained by the trade, and to this extent makes the report a bullish document as to wheat, but bearish on oats, in which grain the acreage is increased .4, the condition being 90.6, against 85.3 last year.

Continued fair weather throughout the entire wheat belt, coupled with a disposition on the part of the trade to await the appearance of the government report, made a slow and uninteresting wheat market yesterday, although closing prices showed a fractional advance. It did not, however, average over ⅛@¼c. Early trading was done on a market slightly depressed by the quantities of long wheat, which came out from various sources. For a while this held the July price down to 70⅞, the low point for the day. Then Minneapolis suddenly came in nearly 1c higher and the trade turned buyer in the way of following that advance. Still later the Northwestern markets broke quite as sharply as they advanced, and there was a local hurry to get on the short side. Except for these movements the market was largely local in its character. Clear and hot weather, fine for the ripening of grain, was the principal influence. The trade generally believed that during the last day or two it had discounted the government report, which everybody believed would be bearish, it being generally admitted that conditions had improved since the first of the month, the report only carrying the crop up to that point.



July Wheat Range.

Good People the Buyers.

There was a continued accumulation of wheat by the same strong interests which have been under it for several weeks. Weare was buying September and Armour and McReynolds July. The Harris-Gates people were also given credit for taking in considerable wheat and being largely interested in maintaining the price, on the one hand, and getting as much cheap wheat as possible on the other.

Cables offered little or no support to the market, Liverpool being ½c lower and London ⅝@¾c off. The bulls are making a point of the fact that Liverpool July is now 13c over Chicago, without figuring exchange. This is admitted to be about the largest premium on the crop and a good reason why local prices should advance or foreign markets fall as a means of reaching a parity.

Bradstreets made a decrease of 4,600,000 bu in the world's visible, 2,609,000 of which was east of the Rockies and 2,000,000 bu in Europe and afloat. Last week the decrease was 5,417,000 bu and last year 3,559,000. The Bradstreet decrease was not as large as expected within about 1,400,000 bu, and to this extent was an easing factor. The Michigan report makes the June condition of winter wheat 88, as compared with 82 last month. Primary receipts continue small, Minneapolis, Duluth, and Chicago reporting but 150 cars, against 442 a year ago. Local receipts were 52 cars, with 25 cars estimated for today. All primary points received 265,100 bu, against 632,100 last year. The seaboard cleared 213,300 bu of wheat and flour, making 806,000 bu for the two days. Reports varied considerably as to export sales. McIntyre & Marshall claimed 46 loads were taken, while Lohrke confirmed but 7 for yesterday, adding 15 as worked late Monday night.

The local cash market was firm and moderately active, sales of 130,000 bu being reported. Part of this was No. 1 Northern at 2¾c over July c. i. f. Buffalo.

Local contract stocks are showing a rapid falling off, the quantity now being 3,226,000 bu, which is 311,000 bu less than a week ago.

Corn Gains a Fraction.

Barring a brief period of weakness at the opening, the general tone in corn was strong, with closing prices fractionally higher than those of Monday. The July price range was from 62⅜c to 63⅛c, the closing being 62⅞c. The volume of trade in this pit is greatly restricted owing to the congested condition of July and the fear that manipulation will run into September as well. There is an apparent disposition on the part of the bull interest to buy September now that July offerings have practically ceased. The Harris-Gates people, it is admitted, have bought July to a standstill, and there is the usual amount of guessing as to what they will do with this delivery. The uncertainty is working against the market in every way, reducing speculation and in all ways making the market a narrow one. There was a little July buying by McReynolds and some selling by Wrenn.

Contract stock, now reported at 1,915,000 bu, showed a decrease of 63,000 bu for the week. Private elevator stocks increased 491,000 bu. Receipts were slightly better, 505 cars for the day, of which 49 were contract. Estimated for Wednesday is 205 cars. Receipts at all primary points are about up to last year's figures, 608,200 bu, against 625,900 a year ago. Bradstreet makes an increase of 648,000 bu in the world's visible, compared with a decrease of 2,000 bu last week and an increase of 661,000 a year ago. The seaboard cleared 9,600 bu, making 28,400 bu for the two days. The cash market was slow and prices generally lower.

Early Oats Loss Recovered.

Oats came out freely during the early part of the session, making a dip of ¼c or so in prices, but more strength came into the market later and the loss was entirely recovered, making closing prices identical with those of Monday and within ⅛c of the top. The most strength was in the July, which strength has its basis in the cash market. McReynolds and Fowler sold September, the former both old and new. These two houses represented all the heavy trading done during the day, the rest being among scalpers and in a small way. Local receipts were 237 cars, with 100 estimated for today. Bradstreet's made a decrease of 738,000 bu in the world's visible, against last week's increase of 851,000 bu and an increase a year ago of 99,000 bu. Local contract stocks are reduced to 525,000 bu, a decrease for the week of 207,000 bu. The seaboard cleared 33,000 bu. The cash market was only moderately active, there being less demand from the East. Southwestern buyers are much less eager than a few days ago.

The provision list, especially pork and ribs, showed quite decided strength. July pork got up to $17.72½ and September to $17.80. July ribs sold at $10.75, an advance from $10.87½ on Monday. The demand for pork and ribs came largely from Wood, Wolff, and Fort. The trade generally believed this buying was for Armour. Sales of various product were largely attributed to the Cudahys and were made to Hately and Steever. Hog receipts were light, 28,000. The eight points reported 76,600, against 82,300 last week and 82,000 last year. Liverpool showed quite a decided advance, being strong and 3d higher on lard and 1s up on bacon and hams. Shipments of cured meats were moderate, 2,280,000 lbs, against 3,360,000 lbs a year ago. Lard shipments were 1,477,000 lbs, compared with 1,903,000 lbs last year.

Rye was quiet and a shade easier, July selling at 56⅝c and 56¼c, closing at 56⅜c bid, with sellers at 56½c. September sold only at 54½c. This was bid at the close. Receipts were 7 cars. Not much business was done in barley, with the market quiet and steady. About 62c was outside for screenings, while malting grades ranged from 62c to 68c. There were 16 cars on the inspection sheet.

Conditions in seeds was almost nominal. Timothy was lightly offered and not much in demand. For August $5.00 was bid. First half September was quoted $4.70, all September $4.55 bid, and October $4.50 sellers. Clover-seed was not mentioned, contract being nominally $8.85. There were no transactions in flaxseed, No. 1 Northwestern being $1.76, Southwestern $1.56, September $1.41 bid, $1.42 asked, and October $1.36 bid, $1.37 sellers. There were 2 cars here, 2 at Minneapolis, and 3 at Duluth, a total of 7, as against 22 last year.

Trade Gossip on 'Change.

All the cash markets showed a rather indifferent demand. No. 3 yellow corn was about the July price, while No. 3 was ½@1c under. A small lot of No. 2 hard wheat was worked, and shippers took 100,000 bu oats.

There is talk of a big short interest in Minneapolis July wheat. From all accounts the conditions are badly congested, the millers owning all the stocks (only 6,000,000 bu), which leaves the shorts without stocks to trade in. The decrease there so far this week has been 75,000 bu. Washburn "A," which has been closed several weeks, reopened yesterday.

Reports from threshing operations in Texas say the wheat is turning out better than expected by at least one-third. Indications point to an early movement.

The Mayor of Manti, Utah, has issued a call for volunteers to fight grasshoppers. All hopes of a grain crop in that section have been given up.

Explaining an advance in Minneapolis wheat prices, Harris-Gates' man says: "Local mills have been buying the floating July wheat daily against flour sales, and it does not come out again, because the mills feel they will be dependent on July to supply their requirements of wheat during July, August, September, and October. They will need more or less old wheat to mix with the new during September and October. Farmers' deliveries are light."

Irwin-Green put out the following bull argument on wheat: "In the last five weeks the visible supply has decreased one-third, this fact rather closely paralleling the movement in the same part of 1897. In that year the lowest price was touched at the beginning of June. In less than a month it was 'up' 16c, with a decreasing 'visible,' and subsequently soared much higher during the Leiter campaign. As we view the conditions, they decidedly favor a repetition of the first part of this experience, if not the latter one. About all the earlier harvested winter wheat will be wanted at home, there being no likelihood of such a pressure as was experienced last year, even if the harvest were not late because of being wet. That means the visible may decrease to even less than the 15,324,000 bu, which was the minimum near the middle of July, 1897. So, while having due regard to present bearishness, we may think it quite possible the market will be dull till after the next national holiday, and even may sink a little nearer to the 70c mark. It will bear watching for a movement in the upward direction at a rate sufficient to cause dizziness among those who are committed heavily to the short side. We should not be surprised to see the visible decrease to 10,000,000 and the price go up to 80c before the end of July."

IN THE NEW YORK MARKETS.

Current and Closing Quotations on Dry Goods, Coffee, Poultry, Butter, and Metals.

NEW YORK, June 10.—[Special.]—Dry goods ruled quiet. There were only limited orders for staple cottons of any kind, and prices are not quotably changed. Prints are in fair demand. Ginghams scarce and firm. Silks and ribbons are firm with moderate business.

Range of Coffee Prices.

Coffee—The market opened steady, with prices unchanged to 5 points lower, the initial decline being in competing with easier European markets, Havre at our opening being ¼f and Hamburg ½pfg net lower.

Bull leaders made little attempt to rally prices, and, following a further decline of ¼f at Havre and active selling by importers against purchases of coffee in Brazil, prices settled another 5 points on the general list. Havre rallied ¼f at the close, and was finally net ½f lower.

The market here closed steady at a net loss of 5@10 points. Sales of 69,500 bags were recorded, the heaviest trade noted in a number of weeks. Brazilian market news had little effect locally, showing only minor changes. Primary receipts amounted to 37,000 bags at ports and to 14,700 bags at interior towns. The local market for the spot article was weak and quiet, though nominally unchanged in prices quoted, based on 5¼c for invoices of Rio 7s.

Poultry, Alive and Dressed.

Alive—Broilers, large, lb, 22@25c; do small, 15@17c; fowls, lb, 15c; roosters, 10c; turkeys, 11c; ducks, Western, per pair, 70@80c; geese, Western, $1.00@1.12. Dressed—Turkeys, hens, average best, 14c; Western toms, average best, 13c; do poor to fair, 8@10c; broilers, fancy, large, 35@37c; do mixed sizes, 30@34c; do Pennsylvania, 28@33c; do Western, dry picked, 26@28c; do scalded, 23@25c; do fowls, Western, 15c; Western, poor to fair, 10@12c.

Butter of All Grades.

Butter—Creamery—Extras, per lb, 22c; do firsts, 21@21½c; do seconds, 20@20½c; State dairy, tubs, fancy, 21c; do firsts, 20@20½c; do seconds, 19@19½c; State dairy, tins, etc., 18@20½c; Western imitation creamery, fancy, 20c; do good to choice, 18½@19½c; renovated, fancy, 19½@20c; do common to prime, 17@19c; Western factory, firsts, 18½@18¾c; do seconds, 18@18¼c; packing stock, 17@18c.

In the Metal Markets.

Copper was irregular, although 60,000 lbs electrolytic for September delivery sold at $12.27½. The closing range was as follows: Standard, spot to August, $11.70@11.90; lake, $12.30@12.60; electrolytic, $12.12½@12.27½; and casting, $12.12½@12.25. At London copper was 2s 6d lower. Lead was unchanged. Spelter ruled nominal. Tin was firm and a trifle higher, with spot at $30.40@31.00. London was £1 5s lower. Iron ruled steady, but quiet locally.

$2,000,000
Milwaukee Gas Light Company
First Mortgage Twenty-five Year Four Per Cent. Gold Bonds.
Due May 1, 1927; Coupons May 1 and November 1.
Coupon bonds of $1,000 each, with privilege of registration of principal.
Subject to redemption at 110 and accrued interest.
CENTRAL TRUST COMPANY OF NEW YORK, Trustee.

Principal and interest payable in New York in gold coin of the United States of or equal to the present standard of weight and fineness, without deduction for any tax or taxes which the company may be required to pay or to retain therefrom.

These bonds are part of a total authorized issue of $10,000,000, of which $8,000,000 are now outstanding (including the bonds now offered), and are secured by mortgage, dated February 28, 1902, upon all the property owned by the company, as a direct first lien, and also upon all subsequently acquired property. Of the remaining bonds $100,000 have been reserved to take up an outstanding issue of $80,000 bonds, guaranteed by the Gas Light Company on the property in Milwaukee, occupied as its office, which are redeemable after 1905, and the remaining $1,900,000 bonds can only be issued at par for 80 per cent. of the actual cost of extensions, additions, and improvements, subject to carefully guarded restrictions as to issue.

For information as to these bonds, reference is made to the letter of Mr. Emerson McMillin, President of the Milwaukee Gas Light Company, and to that of Mr. Alex. C. Humphreys, Gas Engineer, who examined the property on our behalf, copies of which, as well as of the mortgage, may be obtained at our offices.

Mr. Humphreys estimates that the net earnings for the year 1902 after making ample allowances for depreciation, will be......$545,800 which after paying interest on these $6,000,000 4% bonds.......... 240,000

Leaves a surplus of.......................................$305,800

"The Milwaukee Gas Light Company was incorporated by the Legislature of the State of Wisconsin, under Chapter 159 of the laws of 1852, and subsequent amendments thereto, and is the only Company supplying Gas in the City of Milwaukee. The following are extracts from the Act of Incorporation:

Section 1. . . . are hereby created a body corporate and politic by the name of the Milwaukee Gas Light Company, with perpetual succession. . . .

Sec. 4—The said Company shall have FULL AND EXCLUSIVE AUTHORITY to manufacture, make, and sell gas, to be made from any and all substances, or a combination thereof from which inflammable gas is obtained, for the purpose of lighting the City of Milwaukee, or the streets thereof, or any buildings, manufactories, public places, or houses therein contained, and to erect all necessary works or apparatus.

"The validity of the exclusive and perpetual features of the franchise have been litigated, and have been sustained by the highest court of the State. (State vs. Mil. G. L. Co., 29 Wis. 454.)"

"The rates charged by the Company for illuminating purposes are from 80 cents to $1.00 per thousand cubic feet and for fuel purposes from 60 to 80 cents, depending in each case upon the quantity used by the consumer. The low rate charged has made the Company popular, and induced very large consumption of gas per capita."

"Milwaukee is one of the most prosperous cities of the Northwest. The population in 1890 was 203,000; in 1900 it had increased to 288,000, and is now estimated to be 305,000."

"The total net earnings of the Milwaukee Gas Light Company, applicable to interest on bonds, have been reported to you by your expert, Mr. Alexander C. Humphreys, after certain minor adjustments and allowances for depreciation, to have been as follows:

1900, $492,820. 1901, $486,062

"The net earnings of the Company for the first four months of this year have increased $31,085.99 over the same period of 1901."

All legal matters connected with the issue have been supervised by Messrs. Guthrie, Cravath & Henderson.

Application will be made to list these bonds on the New York Stock Exchange.

Having disposed of $4,000,000 of the above bonds by exchange for Western Gas Company 5% bonds (now retired), and at private sale, we now offer the remaining $2,000,000 bonds subject to sale and advance in price without notice, at 95 AND ACCRUED INTEREST, at which they will net about 4.35% upon the investment and we recommend them as a safe and desirable security.

LAST DAY NOTICE LAST DAY
Price of Mt. Shasta Gold Mines Corporation
Stock has just been ordered advanced 20% to take effect after WEDNESDAY, JUNE 11.
REPORTS:

A prominent business man of Saginaw, Mich., after inspecting prominent mines in Colorado, Wyoming, Utah, South Dakota, Idaho, Arizona, and California, including Shasta properties, stopped on May 29th and secured a large block of stock for himself and friends. He stated: "I think you have the greatest property I ever saw, and have visited nearly all the great mining camps."

Redding, Cal., May 27th, '02.
"We are just in from Bully Hill. We are exceedingly gratified with Mt. Shasta properties. They far exceed expectations. Indeed, the magnitude of the proposition almost amazes us."

(BRITISH CONSOLS)

In the form of certificates, issued by The National City Bank of New York, are strongly recommended as lower in price than United States securities, while they are more available as collateral, because there is always a broad market for their sale.

The certificate represents an equal amount of Consols, registered on the books of the BANK OF ENGLAND.

They are more satisfactory to Americans than the direct registered obligation of the British Government, because they are tangible evidences of indebtedness held by the investor instead of merely inscriptions. Quotations are made in an American equivalent, so that the price quoted is the net price in dollars. Interest checks are mailed by the National City Bank to American holders on the same day that interest is paid by the British Government in England. The certificates pass by endorsement like the stock of an American corporation, or may be reissued in another name without charge. They will be bought and sold at the equivalent of the London market, and holders can count confidently on a satisfactory trading market, based on London quotations.

Quotations will be wired at any time, or further information sent by mail.

BANK BOARD IS ENLARGED

STOCKHOLDERS OF THE REPUBLIC ADD NEW MEMBERS.

Well-Known Business-Men on the List—State Bank Adds $100,000 to Its Surplus—Garden City Board Favors Increase in Capital—Julius S. Pomeroy Chosen Cashier of the National Bank of North America—Financial Notes.

Stockholders of the National Bank of the Republic at their adjourned meeting yesterday added a number of new members to the Board of Directors. By a vote of the stockholders last week it was decided to increase the active membership from ten to sixteen. The list of sixteen directors as issued yesterday shows nine names that were not on the board after the annual election last January. Apparently, Alexander MacKay, A. M. Rothschild, and Tracy Drake, who were on the board prior to June 1, retired, for of the old board of ten there remain but seven.

The list shows the accessions yesterday will materially add to the prestige of the bank. It is expected to interest a number of other capitalists in the stock of the company. The roster of directors, as the board is now constituted, follows:

New directors—
Rollin A. Keyes, Franklin MacVeagh & Co.
J. V. Farwell Jr., J. V. Farwell & Co.
Robert Mather, Vice President Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific railroad.
Charles R. Crane, Vice President Crane company.
Herman B. Butler, Joseph T. Ryerson & Son.
E. W. Heinrichs, President Bradley & Metcalf company, Milwaukee.
John H. Morron, Vice President Diamond Glue company.
F. E. Vogel, Vice President G. H. Hammond company.
C. H. Conover, Hibbard, Spencer, Bartlett & Co.
Old directors—
Frank O. Lowden, Lowden, Estabrook & Davis.
Louis F. Swift, Swift & Co.
Henry Siegel, President Siegel, Cooper & Co.
John A. Lynch, President National Bank of the Republic.
J. B. Greenhut, capitalist, Peoria.
E. B. Strong of the late firm of Foss, Strong & Co.
W. T. Fenton.

State Bank Adds to Surplus.

Directors of the State Bank of Chicago have voted to take from undivided profit $100,000 and credit it to the surplus account. This will make the surplus $200,000 and the capital and surplus $1,200,000. The bank has been unusually prosperous in the last five years.

Directors Favor Capital Increase.

Directors of the Garden City Banking and Trust company at their meeting yesterday discussed the matter of an increase in the capital stock. The board is in favor of issuing $250,000 new capital, making the total $750,000. It is probable that within sixty days a special meeting of the stockholders will be called to act on the proposition.

J. S. Pomeroy Appointed Cashier.

Directors of the National Bank of North America have chosen Julius S. Pomeroy to be cashier of the new bank. Mr. Pomeroy has been connected with the First National Bank of Winona, Minn., for the last ten years. His banking capacity was well appreciated by President Perry. Only two executive officers have been elected thus far for the North America, the President and the cashier.

Financial Notes.

E. H. Gary is quoted as saying that the American Steel foundries consolidation will be carried out satisfactorily.

An officer of the Republic Iron and Steel company says the half yearly report of earnings to be issued in July will show a large increase in both gross and net.

New York Subtreasury continues to gain from the banks. Since last Friday it has gained $1,445,000.

The Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific officially announces that from June 21 to July 1 it will issue its own stock share for share to holders of Burlington, Cedar Rapids and Northern railway and Rock Island and Peoria railway stocks.

Concerning the veto by the Mayor of Havana of the resolution passed by the City Council accepting the bid of Farson, Leach & Co. for the proposed Havana City Consolidated 5 per cent loan of $28,000,000 a member of the firm says: "Our bid of 90 for the bonds was practically the only one worth considering which the city received, and as to what the Havana authorities intend to do now I do not care to venture a prediction."

It is announced that in the near future articles of incorporation will be filed in New Jersey for the East St. Louis and Suburban company, a consolidation of St. Louis Traction lines. The new company will have a capital of $5,000,000, and an authorized bond issue of $8,000,000. The financial end of the deal is being engineered by E. W. Clark & Co. of Philadelphia.

Arrangements have been practically completed for the establishment of a $5,000,000 wire plant at Los Angeles.

Dividends Declared.

The State Bank of Chicago has declared the usual quarterly dividend of 1½ per cent, payable on July 1.

The Garden City Banking and Trust company has declared the regular semi-annual dividend of 3 per cent, payable on July 1. Books close on June 20.

The Sloss-Sheffield Steel and Iron company has declared regular quarterly dividend of 1¾ per cent on its preferred stock, payable on July 1. Books close on June 20 and reopen on July 2.

The Union Bag and Paper company has declared the regular quarterly dividend of 1¾ per cent on its preferred stock, payable on July 1. Books close on June 14.

Boston's 20, 30, and 40 year 3½ per cent bonds, amounting to $5,314,000, were awarded to Estabrook & Co., Harvey Fisk & Son, and R. L. Day & Co., jointly, at 104.32.

The Mergenthaler Linotype company has declared the regular quarterly dividend of 2½ per cent, payable on June 30. Books close on June 14 and reopen on July 1.

The United Fruit company has declared the regular quarterly dividend of 1½ per cent, payable on June 14 to stock of record on June 30.

The Manhattan railway company declared regular quarterly dividend of 1 per cent, payable on July 1. Books close on June 13 and reopen on June 21.

The Chicago Great Western has declared a semi-annual dividend of $2.50 a share on the preferred "A" stock. The transfer books will be closen on June 28. A dividend of $2.00 a share on the 4 per cent debenture stock of the company also has been declared.

Consols Certificates in Chicago.

The National Bank of the Republic began offering yesterday in Chicago consol certificates the same as the National City Bank of New York is doing. The offer brought a great many inquiries and the bank people were well pleased. The certificates are issued by the National City Bank against purchases of British consols. They form a security with a ready market and have proved to be quite attractive in New York.

Chicago Stocks.

Chicago Title and Trust stock showed considerable improvement. It appears there was a large order to sell and in its execution the price was naturally forced down.

American Can shares were firm. The street had a story that W. H. Moore had said dividends would be paid beginning with July. The announcement was erroneous.

The street railroad shares were moderately active, but the prices were not significant.

Biscuit common continues to hold its strength. It closed at 48¼. Street's Stable Car was quite firm, advancing one point upon the execution of an order for a few hundred shares.

IN FOREIGN MONEY MARKETS.

General Tendency of Cash, Bonds, and Other Securities at London, Paris, and Berlin.

NEW YORK, June 10.—The Commercial Advertiser's London financial cablegram says: "Stocks were idle and dull. As the new account will have a record shortness of twelve days owing to the coronation festivities little business is expected. Consols were weak at 97. Considerable arbitrage business in consols is now done with Paris.

"Americans were firm on strike settlement rumors and the expectation of a good crop report. Atchison is in demand, as is Southern Railway on cotton crop prospects. Contangos were stiff at 5½. United States Steel and some other stocks at 6. Canadian Pacific had a sharp setback on profit taking."

LONDON, June 10.—There was a good demand for money today owing to the Stock Exchange settlement, but the supply was not short and rates were easy. Discounts were steady. Closing stocks:

PARIS, June 10.—Business on the bourse today opened calm. Later Turks receded materially and the whole list became heavy. Toward the close there was a general improvement, although Turks were restrained. South Americans relapsed owing to realizations. Industrials were dull. Rio Tintos started strong, sagged, and finished quiet. Kaffirs closed undecided.

BERLIN, June 10.—Home funds were easier on the boerse today owing to realizations. Locals were favorably disposed. Canadian Pacifics were easier on New York advices. Transvaal rails were harder.

CHICAGO LIVE STOCK MARKET.

Movement of Cattle, Hogs, Sheep, and Lambs, Together with Range of Prices.

While receipts of cattle so far show a big increase over last week, when the strike disturbance was on, the receipts of the week show a decrease from the corresponding time a year ago. There were no fancy cattle here. Some distillery cattle could have been sold at $7.45. The hog receipts for the week so far show an increase of 14,000 over the corresponding two days last week, and 13,000 over a year ago. Top hogs, $7.55. Many hogs sold 5c lower. The choicest lambs were about steady; Colorado wooled at $7.45 and spring at $7.60. The sheep and lamb receipts for the week so far are 7,000 more than last week and 3,000 more than a year ago. Estimated receipts for Wednesday, 16,000 cattle, 38,000 hogs, and 19,000 sheep.

Cattle.

The general beef cattle market was weak to lower, as there was no assortment of choice stock. There were no cattle to compare with those sold at $7.75 to $7.85 on Monday. Some choice beeves sold at $7.50. Some inferior to fair distillery cattle sold at $5.50 to $7.40, and $7.45 was offered for some stillers which the owner preferred to slaughter for his own establishment. Inferior to fair grassy cattle, such as sold at $4.75 to $6.00, sold poorly. Texas cattle were in liberal supply, there being 35 carloads on sale and 30 carloads direct to slaughterers. Some 1,287-lb Texas cattle, fed by C. C. Fideler of Cresson, Tex., sold at $7.00, the highest price ever realized for cattle direct from the Lone Star State. Other fed Texas cattle sold at $4.90 to $6.55, with bulls at $3.00 to $3.40, oxen at $4.00 to $5.00, and Texas calves at $3.25. The market for native cows was about steady for the choicest kinds and 10@15c lower on others. The calf market was mostly 25c lower, with good ones at $6.00 to $6.50. Quotations:

Choice to fancy beeves	$7.35@7.85
Good to choice beeves	6.50@7.25
Poor to medium beeves	5.00@6.25
Stockers and feeders	3.00@5.40
Cows	1.50@5.60
Canners	1.60@2.60
Heifers	2.50@6.25
Bulls	2.50@5.75
Calves	3.00@6.75
Texas fed steers	4.50@7.00
Texas grassers	3.50@4.50

Hogs.

The hog market was uneven. Prices were steady to 10c lower. Considering the poorer quality, the market did not show much difference. The hogs were by no means of poor quality except by comparison with Monday's especially prime offerings. Sales of 195@245 lb hogs were at $7.00@7.47½; the heavy packing hogs largely at $7.25@7.40. Good to choice heavy hogs sold at $7.40 up to $7.55. Light bacon hogs were scarce and sold around $7.10@7.25 for inferior to choice. The supply was pretty well cleared up. Shippers took only a small number, but they were only about 4,000 carried over. The market for prime hogs closed strong at the high point of the year. Common to medium mixed weights closed a little lower. Quotations:

Mixed and butchers', 195 to 245 lbs	$7.00@7.45
Good to choice heavy, 250 to 275 lbs	7.00@7.55
Rough heavy	7.00@7.20
Light, 140 to 195 lbs	6.90@7.30
Bulk of sales	7.15@7.35

Sheep and Lambs.

The market for sheep and lambs was steady on the most desirable kinds, with heavy sheep dull and lower and lambs selling at 15@25c decline on the low grade kinds. Strictly choice spring lambs were strong at $7.50@7.60. Colorado yearlings and sheep averaging 94 lbs closed at $6.15. Wooled Colorado lambs sold at $7.00@7.45; clipped Colorado lambs, $6.75@7.00; Texas sheep, 87@88 lbs, $3.00@4.00, for inferior to fair grassers. Quotations:

Fair to good mixed	4.00@4.30
Western sheep	4.50@5.75
Native lambs, clipped	4.00@7.00
Spring lambs	4.00@7.60
Western lambs	4.50@6.75
Colorado clipped lambs	6.50@7.00
Colorado wooled lambs	6.75@7.45

Horses.

There was a good, active demand for horses of the choicest kinds, but the common to medium horses were slow sale, and ruled at dull to steady prices. Country buyers report great difficulty in finding horses of good quality. Carriage teams are selling at $300@600 for good choice, and common to medium at $150@275. Coachers, $125@400. Drafters selling all the way from $100@200. Farm chunks from $50@120. Mules, $60@225.

WALL STREET LIST HIGHER AND MORE ACTIVE.

Indications Are That the Limited Speculation May Cut Away from Influence of Anthracite Coal Strike—Volume of Transactions Increases—Southern Railway Leads in Point of Activity, While Atchison Scores the Largest Net Gain.

[BY A SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT.]

NEW YORK, June 10.—[Special.]—There were indications in today's stock market that the limited speculation might cut away from the restraining influence of the anthracite coal strike. The total transactions were about 100,000 shares larger than yesterday, the increase in dealings being supplied by Southern Railway, Atchison common, St. Paul, and Canadian Pacific. The last named was an exception to the prevailing tendency of prices. The market for it reflected liquidation, chiefly by Montreal and Toronto, and at a recovery of nearly a point from the lowest price it closed fractionally lower that yesterday. The other stocks mentioned were exceptionally strong and enjoyed net advances averaging fully a point.

Southern Railway led the list in respect to activity, while Atchison common scored the greatest net advance. The anthracite coal issues were comparatively neglected, yet they closed fractionally higher than yesterday.

Less active railway issues that made noteworthy progress toward a higher level were Chicago Great Western, Chicago and Northwestern, Hocking Valley, Illinois Central, Metropolitan railway, New York, Chicago and St. Louis second preferred, St. Joseph and Grand Island issues, St. Louis Southwestern issues, Wabash preferred, and Wisconsin Central preferred.

Amalgamated Copper was the conspicuously strong feature in the industrial group, although the dealings in it were exceeded by those in United States Steel common, the market for which was steady, and by American Car and Foundry, which was exceptionally strong. Minor issues that received attention were American Grass Twine, Consolidated Gas, and Tennessee Coal and Iron. On the purchase of 100 shares International Power advanced 20 points.

The dealings in bonds were also somewhat larger than yesterday, the transactions were well distributed, and the tone of the market was in the main strong. In the outside market there were fairly heavy transactions in San Francisco railway subscriptions, at a decline of a point to 102. Tennessee Copper was unusually active at an advance from 12½ to 15⅝. The market for Northern Securities was strong at 102½@103. Sales of Consolidated Storage Battery were reported at 19, Greene Consolidated Copper at 27½@28⅛, International Banking at 202, and United Copper at 34⅛.

The only noteworthy development in the monetary situation was the further absorption of money by the Subtreasury. In the three days ending last night that institution had gained from the banks $1,445,000.

IN NEW YORK MONEY MARKET.

General Tendency of Cash, Bonds, Railroad Stocks, and Other Securities in Wall Street.

NEW YORK, June 10.—There was some improvement in the demand for stocks today and upward progress was made by prices, but the market was still dull and narrow to a degree that has not been equaled for the last two years until within a week. Dealings continued almost entirely in the hands of professional room-traders.

The bond market was dull and narrow, with an irregular movement of prices. Total sales, par value, $11,900,000.

Close: Money on call steady at 2¼@3 per cent, closing bid and asked 2@2½. Prime mercantile paper, 4@3¾ per cent; sterling exchange steady, with actual business in bankers' bills at 487⅝ for demand and at 484¾@484⅞ for sixty days. Posted rates, 485½@486 and 488@488½; commercial bills, 484¼@485¼.

PRODUCE LINES CONTINUE EASY

Only Moderate Buying Done and Prices Not Greatly Changed—Government Report on Fruit.

A feeling of easiness with conditions more or less dull marks the produce trade. Prices are about unchanged excepting a slight reduction in strawberries. The government report for June on apples and peaches was issued yesterday. It says the average condition of apples is on the whole unfavorable. Of the fourteen large producing States but two report a condition above the ten-year average, as follows: North Carolina, 68, a gain of 1 point; and Michigan, 87, a gain of 6 points. In Maine the condition is 93, corresponding with the ten-year average in that State. New York reports condition 5 points below the ten-year average; Illinois and Iowa, 9 points; Ohio, 12; Pennsylvania and Kansas, 16; Kentucky, Virginia, and Tennessee, 17; Missouri, 18; and Indiana, 19 points; and in the remaining States it is probable that considerably less than an average crop will be produced. The present prospects of the peach crop are quite favorable notwithstanding the fact that several important peach growing States report conditions considerably below their ten-year averages. The States showing such reductions are: Tennessee, 5 points; Georgia, 8; Kansas, 32; and Missouri, 35 points. On the other hand, Mississippi reports a condition 1 point, Virginia 2, South Carolina 5, North Carolina 7, Alabama 10, Texas 13, California 16, and Arkansas 25 points above the ten-year averages.

Lives there a man, to style so dead,
Who never to himself hath said:
"This is my own Tuxedo suit"?

For hot-weather functions, except the extremest, the Tuxedo far outclasses the Swallow-tail; at clubs, summer resorts, etc.

Our Tuxedo coats are full silk lined and faced, with shawl collars or pointed lapels; $21 and $27.

If you have a spike-tail suit probably we can match the fabric with a Tuxedo coat; that will give you a Tuxedo suit with small outlay.

Swallow-tail suits, $30, $40, $50. Tailored superbly.

There are more things in (our fixings department), Horatio, than are dreamt of in your philosophy (of hot weather comfort).

IN THE INSURANCE FIELD.

MOVEMENT TO WITHDRAW IF ATTORNEY GENERAL PROCEEDS.

Companies Depending on Large Business Interests to Save Them from Extension of the Belleville Action to Chicago—Investigation Being Made of Devices for Burning Petroleum Instead of Coal—Agents Appointed for New Department of the Ætna.

No action was taken at the regular meeting of the governing committee of the Western union yesterday with regard to the litigation begun by Attorney General Hamlin at Belleville. Compact Manager Zent for that district reported that he had been served with no papers, as did the local agents of the companies affected.

A movement is rapidly gaining ground to have the companies withdraw from the three counties in the Belleville district as soon as any legal papers are served on the agents. If Attorney General Hamlin carries out his threat to begin similar proceedings in the four other compact districts in the State the companies will retire from them as fast as the suits are begun.

The companies are depending upon pressure from the large business interests to save them from any extension of the action to Chicago or from any pushing of it in the State.

W. H. Mylrea, former Attorney General of Wisconsin and now making a specialty of insurance law, addressed the Fire Insurance club of Chicago last night on "The Policy Contract."

The new liability department of the Ætna Life has appointed the following special agents for Chicago: Ira J. Mason & Son, French & Son; and T. R. Lynas, all at present general agents for the accident department. J. C. Barrows of St. Louis is appointed general agent for Southern Illinois and Eastern Missouri.

Howard P. Gray, former manager of the Hanover, who was so badly injured in the Northwestern railroad accident at Malta last winter, has compromised his claim for $30,000 against the company for something over $20,000.

In view of the coal strike large consumers of fuel will be interested in the investigations being made by the insurance companies into the use of petroleum as fuel. Acting on applications from the East, the National board is making an expert examination of the various devices for using the Beaumont oil, with the idea of agreeing upon a list that can be used without increasing insurance rates. The drawback to the use of petroleum heretofore has been the extra rates imposed by the insurance companies because of the hazard of the old devices.

The committee appointed by the Wisconsin State board to ask that a number of towns be exempted from the 25 per cent advance was in the city yesterday interviewing the managers. They are not likely to get any exemption.

GRAIN DEALERS IN SESSION.

Illinois Association Begins Its Ninth Annual Convention at Decatur—Chicago Men Are Present.

Decatur, Ill., June 10.—[Special.]—The ninth annual State convention of the Illinois Grain Dealers' association began today at Grand Army Hall. R. I. Hunt and W. C. Johns gave the addresses of welcome, to which H. S. Grimes of Portsmouth, O., responded. More than 200 delegates were present at the morning session, and more came in on every train. It was voted to charter a special train and attend the national convention at Memphis in October in a body.

The officers elected were: President, Harry Knight of Monticello; Vice President, Edwin Beggs, Ashland; secretary, H. C. Mowry, Forsythe; treasurer, Frank M. Pratt, Decatur.

The annual banquet was served tonight at Turner Hall, with J. W. Radford, Chicago, toastmaster. Responses were made by S. S. Tanner of Minier; H. Culver, Toledo, O.; Thomas B. Baxter, St. Louis; J. E. Bidwill, Chicago; H. R. Whitmore, St. Louis; B. Z. Taylor, Decatur; B. S. Tyler, Decatur; George H. Phillips, Chicago, on "The Bull and the Bear;" and J. M. Camp, Bement, Ill.

THE TRIBUNE—ALWAYS RELIABLE.

READY TO PROVE BRIBERY CHARGE

Prosecution of Alleged Jury Fixers Announces Discovery of New Evidence.

MAKES CASE COMPLETE.

Witnesses May Connect High Officials of Union Traction Company.

"We shall be able directly to connect all the men involved in the jury-bribing charges. We have found the needed witnesses to supply the detail links. We are thus prepared to meet any claims of ignorance of a plot or of the agents in this conspiracy which the defendants may set up."

The foregoing statement was made last night by an attaché of the State's Attorney's office relative to the trial of the Union Traction company's alleged jury-bribers in the Austin transfer cases. Detectives have succeeded in rounding up new witnesses in number, and last night the State's case was made finally complete. These "details" are expected to cause the chief sensation when the jury is secured and the taking of evidence begins in Judge Brentano's court.

"Will you be able to go so far as to involve men in higher positions—officials of the Union Traction company?" was asked.

"We expect to," was the reply. "We may be able to trace the source from which the money that was used actually came. It is possible that we may find material which will warrant further inquiry by the grand jury."

New Evidence Against Defendants.

The new evidence secured connects defendants in the case with men of shady reputation who have plied the trade of jury-tampering for years. It deals, too, with officials of the traction corporation. It will be shown that one of these officials called Defendants P. H. O'Donnell and Cyrus S. Simon to the law offices of the company and sought to get them to make a declaration that the company's officers had no knowledge of any "alleged conspiracy." On this point and the motive for the demand certain officials will be questioned severely.

The State sprung another matter. Former Court Bailiff James J. Lynch, whose confession unearthed the jury-bribing "syndicate" and resulted in the indictment and conviction of Alexander Sullivan, suddenly returned to Chicago during the day and was questioned in a long conference by State's Attorney Deneen, Assistant State's Attorney Barnes, and Captain Schuettler. The same clique is said to have been a factor in the transfer cases, and Lynch traced the methods of the "agents" and showed their bases of operation. The latter information, it is said, will have a most important bearing in the present trial.

No Progress Toward Jury.

No advance was made during the day toward filling the jury. On Saturday night last eight men had been sworn in and three had been tentatively accepted by both sides. When adjournment came last night aside from the eight men finally accepted only two had been temporarily passed. A total of 575 veniremen had been summoned to secure this number, and last night another order went out for another venire of fifty men, all to report this morning. Thus 625 veniremen have thus far been summoned, breaking the record in the Criminal Court, and eight days have been devoted to monotonous examination, with the result that only eight jurymen have been finally secured.

It is expected that a jury may be secured by this evening, as the defense has but nine peremptory challenges left and these challenges have been the chief weapon in delaying the filling of the jury box.

Rothery Buys Interest in Hotel.

Detectives working out of the State's Attorney's office discovered during the day that Herbert Rothery, alleged member of the "pin brigade" of the transfer jury, and one of the defendants, has acquired a part ownership in the Le Grand Hotel, Kinzie and Wells streets, since the transfer case was tried. Up to a month ago this place was the property of "Steve" Crowe, proprietor of the Revere House, where the jury is quartered.

The mysterious man, "Bush," whom the detectives were watching, was identified as Barney Gordon, who works at the Revere house and has been closely connected with the Le Grand Hotel. Bush and Gordon closely resemble each other. No accusations have been made, but orders have been given to guard against all but the bailiffs speaking to or entering the jurors' rooms at the hotel.

Uses Many Peremptory Challenges.

During the day the defense used many of its peremptory challenges to dismiss veniremen who had been tendered by the State. Again and again Judge Brentano refused to entertain motions for dismissal "for cause," and then the defense resorted to summarily ousting the veniremen not wanted. It was asserted last night that the tactics which controlled the Dan Coughlin bribery case are to be followed by the defense. In that case the Coughlin forces used up their peremptory challenges and then appealed to the Supreme Court, claiming that the Judge in the Criminal Court had forced a jury on them by refusing to entertain challenges "for cause." As a result the upper court remanded the case.

Defense Charged with Delay.

The delay in filling the jury box is laid at the door of the defendants. As each venireman discharged, whether he is questioned two minutes and released or held all day, draws a $2 fee, the selection of the jury, adding in the court costs, will cost the county about $5,000. The army of attorneys for the defense are all drawing large daily salaries and the query has arisen as to who is supplying the funds to meet this expense.

"Don't tell me the defendants are putting up the money out of their own pockets," said a detective who has worked on the case since its inception. "They are not able to stand the expense. It's the traction corporation that is providing the oil."

Y. M. C. A. TO TAKE SNELL HALL.

University of Chicago Training Quarters to Be Given Over to Religious Workers.

Snell Hall, the training quarters of the University of Chicago athletic teams and the most popular men's dormitory on the campus, will be operated next year by the Young Men's Christian association and will be made into a colony for Christian workers.

The determination of the members of the Y. M. C. A. to act as landlords was not made in order to make money through renting the hall to students, but to give a headquarters for the Y. M. C. A. on the campus. The original plan was for the association to take quarters in the new Hitchcock Hall, which is being fitted out for occupancy next fall.

The rents in the new building were so high that the association decided to secure Snell Hall. The cost will be about $4,000 a year and the association will sublet the quarters.

CROP OUTLOOK IS BETTER.

GOVERNMENT REPORT SHOWS A WEEK OF FAVORABLE GROWTH.

Heavy Rains Deter Work in Portions of Country, While Drought in Texas and the Cotton Belt Is Becoming Serious—Wheat Shows General Improvement, Although Wet Weather Has Caused Much Damage — Fruit Prospect Continues Bad.

Washington, D. C., June 10.—[Special.]—Following is the weekly crop report of the Agricultural department:

Although the week averaged somewhat cooler than usual in portions of the lake region and northern New England, where light frosts occurred, the temperature conditions were generally favorable in the districts east of the Rocky Mountains, and also in the middle and south Pacific coast regions. The States of the Lower Mississippi Valley have again suffered from excessive rains, which have also interrupted farm work in the northern portions of Illinois and Indiana and the southern portions of Wisconsin and Michigan. Rain is now generally needed along the Gulf and Atlantic coasts from Texas to southern New England, and drought is becoming serious in the Carolinas and in the central and west Gulf districts.

With ample moisture and favorable temperatures corn has made good growth throughout the central valleys, but is much in need of cultivation in the States of the lower Missouri valleys and Wisconsin. In the Lower Ohio Valley and Tennessee the crop is well cultivated and in promising condition, but in the central and west gulf States is suffering much from drought.

Wheat Outlook Is Improved.

The warm showery weather of the last week has been favorable to the development of rust in winter wheat in portions of Missouri and Indiana, and has caused lodging to some extent in Illinois and Missouri. With these exceptions a general improvement in the condition of the crop is indicated. On the Pacific coast the wheat outlook continues promising, although grasshoppers are causing some damage.

Spring wheat has made rapid growth and is in promising condition throughout the spring wheat region, except on low lands, where it has suffered from excessive moisture.

In the States of the Missouri and the upper Mississippi Valleys and lake region oats have made good progress and are in promising condition, although too rank growth is reported from portions of Illinois, Iowa, Minnesota, and Wisconsin. In the Upper Ohio Valley, middle and south Atlantic and east gulf States the crop is inferior.

Rain is generally needed throughout the cotton belt, except over the northern portion of the central districts. The effects of drought, however, are not yet serious. The crop is generally well cultivated.

In Pennsylvania, Maryland, Virginia, and North Carolina the conditions have not been favorable for transplanting tobacco. In the Ohio Valley and Tennessee transplanting is nearly finished, the acreage in Kentucky being reduced.

The fruit outlook continues unfavorable, the most promising reports being received from the lake region, the northern portion of the middle Atlantic States, and New England. Except in the middle Atlantic States and Ohio Valley the grass crop has experienced a decided improvement.

Special Reports from States.

New England—Grass mostly good and making fair growth; garden truck and tobacco backward; fruits promise good crop.

New York—Too cold for corn, but generally favorable for wheat, rye, grass, oats, and work; outlook for hay improved.

New Jersey—Rain fall greatly deficient; high, drying winds; all vegetation except corn and potatoes suffering; fruits dropping badly; nearly one-half of cranberry crop destroyed by frost.

Pennsylvania—Drought general and damaging; grain and grass maturing short and hay and fruit crop will be light; oats turning yellow and grass brown; corn and vegetables small.

Maryland and Delaware—Rains of 7th helped corn, potatoes, tobacco, and truck, but many tobacco and tomato plants perished from drought; oats and grasses backward; light wheat crop expected.

South Carolina—Drought has seriously impaired all crops over the western half of the State; cotton recovering, well cultivated; corn doing well; tobacco fine.

Georgia—Showers were beneficial, although more moisture is required; cotton and corn continue promising.

Florida—Rains insufficient, except over limited portions of western and northern districts; cotton generally clean and growing; corn backward; shipments of melons, peaches, and cantaloupes active; pineapples backward.

Alabama—Dry and hot; early cotton small, but healthy; early corn clean, but small and growing slowly; wheat and oats indicate light yield.

Louisiana—Dry, hot week; cotton irregular in size, but generally doing well; corn needs rain; sugar cane doing well.

Arkansas—Crops made good growth.

Tennessee—Heavy local rains; week generally favorable for cultivating young crops; corn and cotton prospects unusually promising; wheat generally inferior; tobacco doing well.

Kentucky—Week generally favorable; wheat ready for harvest; poor crop generally; corn growing well and large acreage planted; less than average acreage of tobacco.

Missouri—Warm, showery week, unfavorable for wheat; corn growing finely.

Illinois and Neighboring States.

Illinois—Conditions favorable for growth of crops, but farm work retarded somewhat by rain; wheat, rye, oats, corn, grasses, potatoes, and gardens doing well; wheat, oats, and grasses improved in south; wheat and oats becoming rank and lodging in some places; fruit prospects uneven.

Indiana—Copious showers, excessive in central and north; corn planting delayed in north sections, elsewhere crop in good condition and growing rapidly; wheat prospects greatly improved.

Ohio—Wheat improving and heading well; corn small, but fair stand and being cultivated; oats growing slowly; hay crop not promising; tobacco nearly all transplanted; apples and pears dropping.

Minnesota—Frequent rains; continued vigorous growth of small grains, corn, potatoes, flax, and grasses.

Michigan—Frosts damaged some garden truck and fruit in upper peninsula; frequent heavy showers delayed field work and slightly damaged crops on low lands; wheat, rye, oats, barley, meadows, and pastures made fine growth; fruit promising.

Wisconsin—Heavy rains; crops on low land and clay soil suffering; cultivation of corn delayed; oats and barley making rank growth; heavy hay crop assured; fruit prospects good.

Iowa—Week warm, with damaging showers; corn suffered heavily from washing and flooding; oats becoming bulky.

Nebraska—Wet and generally favorable week; wheat continues to grow well; oats materially improved; corn cultivation delayed, but crop growing well.

Kansas—Warm, wet week; benefiting all growing crops; wheat improving; corn growing rapidly, needs cultivation; oats making good growth.

California—Warm weather benefiting all crops; grasshoppers causing some damage to grain in Sacramento and San Joaquin Valleys; harvesting oats and barley commenced in some sections; wheat maturing rapidly, heavy crop expected in central northern districts; deciduous fruits ripening; excellent yield of most varieties; grapes unusually thrifty.
